UR Suspension Is Lifted; Tongue Named, Board Next

By HUGH REYNOLDS

Mayor Raymond W. Garraghan's call to "get the show on the road" was answered today as the Department of Housing and Urban Development lifted the suspension on urban renewal in Kingston.

Garraghan is now faced with the task of appointing a five-member urban renewal agency to administer the Broadway East and Uptown projects. Garraghan said this morning that he expects to have a board by Sept. 12, the day after present members resign.

Notes Attitude Change

In a letter to the mayor, Charles J. Horan, assistant regional administrator for renewal assistance of the New York office, said, "In view of Kingston's change in general attitude toward urban renewal and its determination to improve the direction of the UR program, we feel that steps should now be taken to move this program forward."

Horan also recommended the removal of the salary suspension of the executive director and the retroactive charging to project costs of the salary since its May 23 suspension.

Horan concluded with, "During the past few weeks we have had representatives of this office in Kingston looking at various project activities and the results of our findings will be available to you in a separate letter. Any assistance we can give you will be gladly supplied."

Commenting on the appointment of a new board, Mayor Garraghan said, "It's not going to be easy, but I'll have five good men on that board by the 12th."

Last night the urban renewal agency met in perhaps its last session under the present administration and appointed Ward Tongue, temporary executive director.

The agency also accepted the resignation of Attorney S. James Matthews as counsel and named Attorney George A. Beck as a replacement.

Another resignation was also accepted, that of Robert F. Aprea, who has been hired by Pottsville, Pa., as its urban renewal executive director.

In commending Tongue, Chairman Frank A. Reis said Tongue was "well qualified for the position after working under Eric Hemphill for almost three years."

Tongue was formerly deputy executive director with a salary of $8,820 a year. His new position will pay him an additional $4,000 prorated monthly.

Beck, a special City Court judge, will earn more than his predecessor. Matthews was paid $150 per month for each project. Uptown and Broadway East, or a total of $300 per month as a retainer. Beck will be paid $400 per month on the Broadway East project and it is believed that the new board will pay him an equal amount for Uptown when that project resumes.

In addition, Beck will be given all the remaining closings, according to Hemphill. There are about 80 properties to be acquired in Broadway East at $100 per closing. Beck will also get any condemnation proceedings at a fee of $300 each.

Matthews' salary was supplemented by being given the bulk of the closings on properties in Broadway East. His estimated total fees for the 2½ years he served as counsel was in the neighborhood of $27,000.

Heads $4½ Million Job

Aprea, 24, who will administer a $4½ million urban renewal project in Pottsville, has been with the Kingston agency for more than two years. He held the position of deputy administrative assistant at a $6,400 yearly salary. His salary in Pottsville is expected to be in excess of $10,000 within a year.

He is the son of Mr. and Mrs. Salvatore J. Aprea of 126 Green Street. Aprea is a graduate of the Babson Institute in Wellesley, Mass., and holds a degree in finance. He will leave Kings-

Answer Romney Charges

SAIGON (AP) — Ruffled by presidential hopeful George Romney's charge that he was brainwashed in Vietnam, U.S. officials pointed out today that nine other governors were with the Michigan Republican on his 1965 visit and none of them have made any such complaints—publicly.

Members of the American military and diplomatic establishments said Romney was only in South Vietnam four days, that he spent three of them on field trips outside Saigon and that with the other governors he was given only the standard VIP treatment.

Wide Coverage

Romney's statements in a television interview Monday night were front-paged in Saigon's English-language newspapers and also reached the U.S. Embassy and military command on news service wires.

The undeclared candidate for the 1968 Republican nomination was asked why he had changed his earlier view that U.S. involvement in Vietnam was morally right and necessary.

"When I came back from Vietnam," Romney replied, "I just had the greatest brainwashing that anybody can get when you go over to Vietnam. Not only by the generals but also by the diplomatic corps over there, and they do a very thorough job."

Romney said that since then he had delved into Vietnamese history and "I have changed my mind in that particularly I no longer believe that it was necessary for us to get involved in South Vietnam to stop Communist aggression in Southeast Asia and to prevent Chinese Communist domination of Southeast Asia."

Arrangements Made

A spokesman for the U.S. Embassy said the embassy received the 10 governors—six Republicans and four Democrats—"as official visitors and arranged for the appropriate briefings and arranged for them to get out in the field and to meet Vietnamese officials."

He said the governors received standard briefings on the war, the economic situation, the political situation and other aspects of the Vietnamese problem.

Crush Cong Attack; Kill 219 Guerrillas

SAIGON (AP) — About 2,500 guerrillas tried to storm the provincial capital of Tam Ky for three hours before dawn today but were beaten off with the loss of 219 dead, including three company commanders, and a mass of weapons.

Behind barrages of mortars, rockets and hand grenades, the Viet Cong assaulted eight positions in and around the city of about 12,000. They got into the streets, burned houses and unsuccessfully attempted to empty the city jail.

Hard-Core Units

The attack force was made up of the hard-core 70th and 72nd battalions, crack Red provincial units, heavily reinforced by less stalwart local force guerrillas.

South Vietnamese officers said at least 130 enemy weapons were captured and the defending forces suffered only light casualties.

Tam Ky, 30 miles south of Da Nang, is the capital of Quang Tin Province in the northern 1st Corps area. The Viet Cong made another unsuccessful attempt to raid it Saturday, before the weekend presidential election.

The assault today followed the battle Monday and Tuesday 14 miles northwest of the city in which U.S. Marines killed 180 Communist troops while losing 54 dead and 104 wounded.

The flareup in the north, coupled with lesser but often sharp fighting elsewhere in the country, ended a two-month lull in the ground war that preceded South Vietnam's presidential election Sunday. The Communists have lost almost 600 dead in major actions in the past few days, while about 70 Americans have been killed.

Slows Air Attack

The air offensive against North Vietnam was slowed by heavy thundershowers over much of the country. U.S. headquarters reported 119 missions flown Tuesday, with none into the Hanoi-Haiphong area.

The coordinated assault on Tam Ky and posts on the perimeter of the city followed the pattern of such previous attacks as the pre-election assault on Quang Ngai City in which guerrillas freed nearly 1,000 prisoners from the provincial jail.

In Tam Ky, however, the attack was met by stiff resistance. Within minutes of the first assaults, American flareships were overhead, lighting up the city with a steady stream of parachute flares and zooming down to spray the assaulting forces with quick-firing Gatling guns.

While the guerrillas were attacking Tam Ky, another force blew up a big concrete bridge south of Da Nang, and Communist gunners raked U.S. Marine positions below the demilitarized zone between North and South Vietnam.

Elsewhere in the threatened northern part of the country, Division, formerly called Task Force Oregon, killed 26 Communist soldiers in running battles Tuesday in Quang Ngai Province. In the same area guerrillas seized a main bridge along coastal Highway 1 but were beaten off before they could blow it up.

The weather over North Vietnam limited air activity to the area from Hanoi south to the 17th parallel Tuesday.

Headquarters reported no plane losses.

B52 bombers made two raids Tuesday night against North Vietnamese troop and bivouac areas and gun positions inside the demilitarized zone where the big planes have been dropping tons of explosives daily for the past two weeks.

With 25 U.S. planes reported shot down over North Vietnam in the 14 days from Aug. 21 through Sept. 4, the Pentagon released figures on North Vietnamese antiaircraft defenses showing Hanoi installed an additional 1,000 antiaircraft guns earlier this year and at midsummer had more than 200 sites for the firing of Soviet-built SAM missiles.

GOP-Dems Rift Widens On Reapport

ALBANY, N. Y. (AP)—A new Democratic-Republican fight took shape in the Constitutional Convention today—this time over the question of local reapportionment.

Republicans braced to oppose Democratic efforts to eliminate weighted voting and dual office-holding by members of county Legislatures.

Mounting Ill Will

The split along party lines on the issue reflected mounting ill will between Democratic and Republican leaders as the convention moved toward its self-imposed deadline of Sept. 26 for remodeling the state's basic charter.

52, a plan that would substantially retain existing provisions for election of county sheriffs and district attorneys.

It would, however, place members of each sheriff's staff under provisions of the civil service law and would authorize appointment of sheriffs in counties that reorganize their charters to include that provision.

Constitutional Delegate H. Clark Bell (Woodstock) proposes amendment to allow county legislators in dual capacity roles. (Story on Page 40)

Tuesday's session produced no major developments on the floor but there were sharp exchanges at the leadership level, involving Convention President Anthony J. Travia, Gov. Rockefeller and Minority Leader Earl W. Brydges.

Travia opened the engagement by charging that the GOP planned to work for defeat of the convention's ultimate product when it is sent to the voters.

Rockefeller rejected the Democratic president's statement, saying at a New York City news conference, "I don't think that's true."

"The major policy questions," Rockefeller said, "should be presented separately" to the voters. He said he foresaw "maybe six, maybe eight" key issues on the ballot.

Brydges, who also is Senate majority leader, renewed his pledge that the GOP never would take a party position against the draft constitution.

"Nothing could be further from the truth," Brydges said in an interview. "We've cooperated every step of the way to refine every proposition. We'll continue to cooperate as we have up to now."

In a comparatively short two hour session Tuesday, the convention disposed of two proposals.

First, delegates approved, 106-

20,119 Central Signings

At noon Tuesday, the Ulster County Board of Elections reported a total of 20,119 eligible voters of the county had registered during the period for central registration. This is about one third of the eligible voters of the county.

This is Ulster County's first year for Permanent Personal Registration and all voters in the county must register in order to be eligible to vote on Election Day.

While Central Registration closed officially on Saturday, Sept. 2, persons who came to the office Tuesday were granted the privilege of registering. This was due to the last day for Permanent Personal Registration falling on Saturday, a day which normally the Board of Elections office is closed.

Any eligible voter who did not register during Central Registration must now appear on one of the days of registration and register to be eligible to vote on Election Day.

The days for registration at the polling places are:

October 3, 9, 10, 11, 12, 13 from 10 a. m. to 10 p. m. and on Saturday, Oct. 7 and 14 from 7 a. m. to 10 p. m.

City Marine Wounded Again

A young Kingston Marine has been wounded in action for the second time since arriving in Vietnam Aug. 1.

Pfc. Vincent J. Silk Jr., 20-year-old son of Mr. and Mrs. Vincent J. Silk Sr., Colonial Gardens, this city, was first wounded Aug. 13 and again Sept. 2. He is serving with Fox Company, 2nd Battalion, Ninth Marines at the demilitarized zone in Vietnam.

According to telegrams received by his family, he received shrapnel wounds of the left forearm on Aug. 13 and shrapnel wounds in the left thigh on Sept. 2.

In both cases his wounds were dressed in the field and he was returned to duty.

His father, who suffered a heart attack in April of this year, said today apparently the injuries were not serious but the shock of receiving the telegrams is always frightening.

VINCENT J. SILK

Enlisted In 1966

PFC Silk enlisted in the Marine Corps April 18, 1966 and underwent basic training at Parris Island and Camp Lejeune.

Previous duty assignments included guard platoon at the Naval Security Station, Washington, D. C. and service at Marine Corps Headquarters, Henderson Hall, Va.

Arrived Aug. 1

Ford Motor Strike Looms Tonight; GM and Chrysler Word Awaited

DETROIT (AP) — Barring the unexpected, 159,000 United Auto Workers will strike Ford Motor Co. plants in 25 states at midnight tonight.

On this, and little else, both company and union agree.

The anticipated walkout would support the UAW's quest for a new, pattern - setting contract that the union will ask Chrysler and General Motors to match or better.

Poles Apart

Negotiators—admittedly poles apart after eight weeks of talks— resume work today, just hours before the current three-year pact expires.

UAW President Walter P. Reuther predicted the session would be "merely academic, marking time."

Malcolm L. Denise, Ford's top negotiator, said, "I am not bitter. I am extremely unhappy. The outlook is extremely dim."

Also expected today were answers from General Motors and Chrysler to a union query of whether they would extend current agreements with the union if Ford is struck and they are not.

Reuther said Tuesday, however, that UAW members would remain on their jobs at GM and Chrysler, if the companies let them, even without an extension of the agreements.

This is traditional in the auto industry, and the companies always have paid wages and benefits under the expired contracts.

The arrangement also adds to the damage Ford, second largest producer in the highly competitive industry, would suffer if a strike knocked it out of production while GM and Chrysler continued to roll their '68 models onto the market.

At usual selling rates, buyers would consume Ford's current inventory of cars—85,000 new models and 175,000 1967s—in a month.

The UAW opened talks July 10 at GM, July 11 at Ford and July 12 at Chrysler, presenting each similar packages that Reuther called "the longest and most ambitious list of demands in UAW history."

Ford as Pattern

The companies estimate the demands would cost them more than $3 billion over three years in wage and benefit increases.

They say it would nearly double the average $4.70 workers now earn hourly in wages and benefits.

Counterproposals from the Big Three offered general wage hikes of 13 cents an hour immediately, plus 2.8 per cent boosts in the last two years of a three-year agreemet.

The UAW rejected the offers as inadequate and picked Ford as the automaker it would bargain with to set the pattern for the industry.

Reuther said Tuesday, however, that UAW members would remain on their jobs at GM and Chrysler, if the companies let them, even without an extension of the agreements.

This is traditional in the auto industry, and the companies always have paid wages and benefits under the expired contracts.

The arrangement also adds to the damage Ford, second largest producer in the highly competitive industry, would suffer if a strike knocked it out of production while GM and Chrysler continued to roll their '68 models onto the market.

At usual selling rates, buyers would consume Ford's current inventory of cars—85,000 new models and 175,000 1967s—in a month.

The UAW opened talks July 10 at GM, July 11 at Ford and July 12 at Chrysler, presenting each similar packages that Reuther called "the longest and most ambitious list of demands in UAW history."

Ford as Pattern

The companies estimate the demands would cost them more than $3 billion over three years in wage and benefit increases.

They say it would nearly double the average $4.70 workers now earn hourly in wages and benefits.

Counterproposals from the Big Three offered general wage hikes of 13 cents an hour immediately, plus 2.8 per cent boosts in the last two years of a three-year agreemet.

The UAW rejected the offers as inadequate and picked Ford as the automaker it would bargain with to set the pattern for the industry.

Salvage Operations Resume on Lusitania

KINSALE, Ireland (AP) — Eleven miles off the west coast of Ireland, a tough Bostonian diver is working to salvage one of the world's great wrecks—the Lusitania.

The 32,500-ton British liner lies 50 fathoms beneath the Atlantic at the spot where a German U-boat sank her with the loss of 1,200 lives on May 7, 1915.

Wants Metal

But former U.S. Navy diver John Light, 34, is not interested in the mysteries the wreck may now solve after 50 years.

"I know the Lusitania is a chunk of history—but when I get out to her all I am worried about is the weather and the 250,000 pounds ($700,000) in metal on her," Light said.

Light bought the wreck for 1,000 pounds ($2,800) from the war risk insurance company who owned the Lusitania.

As far as Light is concerned, the ship's "treasure" consists of four manganese bronze propellers weighing 14½ tons each, 200 tons of copper and 400 tons of brass ingots in her hold.

The great wreck, however, could hold evidence to settle a 50-year-old argument—was the Lusitania carrying arms and ammunition?

Some historians have suggested the possibility that the British Government sent the liner on a suicide course through U-boat infested waters in order to bring the United States into World War I. Since the liner was carrying hundreds of Americans, the United States would have to make an effective response to any German attack.

There were certainly strange rumors after the Lusitania had disappeared. The German submarine captain, Walter Schwieger, reported an internal explosion when his torpedo hit.

Only about a third of those aboard escaped.

Now the huge liner, one-sixth of a mile long, lies 302 feet down in open sea off Kinsale. Diver Light has been probing the secrets of the wreck since 1962 and has made 32 dives to her.

At present he plans to remove the bronze propellers and sell them to defray the continuing costs of the salvage operation.

Light puts out to the wreck in a converted trawler, "Donnie Braes," only when the sea is calm. He is secretive about his work.

He declines to discuss details of what he has seen so far or what type of equipment he is using. When he returns to port his equipment is always carefully shrouded with canvas.

The attempt to salvage the wreck could be a long job. "It might take us a year or so," Light said.

"We hope to use new diving techniques which have been developed recently in the United States and which are not yet in use by other salvage companies.

"We will also be using equipment of our own design which we are keeping secret."

Light and his crew of eight are being financed by an American syndicate which he declines to name. "The operation is costing a lot of money, but if we are successful I will be comfortably off, to say the least," Light said.

Report Crank Calls

The telephone no longer is a source of "amusement" for a disturbing number of disturbed people here and elsewhere throughout the country. Telephone companies now have electronic devises which immediately trace the anonymous calls.

Every kind of call, whether lewd, larcenous, weird or just plain annoying can be coped with if the 'phone company is notified. The officaciousness of the electronic equipment and prompt reporting by unlucky recipients of crank calls has been demonstrated time and time again by the apprehension and conviction of these tetched individuals.

Despite these arrests, obscene calls erupt again and we note these few rules to be employed by anyone so annoyed:

If a threat is made at any time, call police.

Know to whom you are talking. Anyone who asks for information should be identified to your satisfaction. One device is to ask the unknown caller for his number so you can check it in the book or with Information.

Don't answer the question, "What number is this?" Instead ask the caller what number he is dialing and with whom he wants to speak. Many people have acquired steady nuisances by giving their number to random callers.

Instruct children and baby sitters not to give out information indiscriminately. Have them get the caller's name and say you will call back.

If a caller remains silent after you have said "hello" twice, hang up. Otherwise, as you may encourage a "breather." As long as you stay on the line you are just playing his game.

Should a caller make an obscene remark, hang up. People who make such calls are only seeking your reaction, whatever it may be. Don't give them what they want.

Above all, always use your telephone on your terms, not the caller's.

Constitution Week

United States citizenship is a glorious possession representing the dreams and struggles of men for centuries. Our Constitution guarantees priceless freedoms to our citizens and sets forth a concept of liberty that has been an inspiration to freedom-loving people everywhere. It is, therefore, most fitting to stress the September 17 with "Citizenship Day."

The courts, schools and civic groups should plan programs for these observances which honor these youth of native birth, just arrived at voting age, and persons recently naturalized as they accept the rights and privileges of citizenship and begin full participation in the civic and political life of their communities.

Naturalized citizens come to feel themselves more closely identified with their fellow citizens in the community. Young people gain a realization of the community's interest in their good and faithful performance of the duties of full citizenship.

The community as a whole is reminded of the imperatives of citizenship and duty to country.

The observances afford an opportunity for all citizens, native-born and naturalized, to rededicate themselves to the ideals and principals upon which this nation was founded and built.

This period commemorating the signing of the Constitution on September 17, 1787 should be a time for thoughful study and consideration of the events that led to the framing of the Constitution and of the means for preserving it from those who would destroy or weaken it.

The underlying purpose of "Citizenship Day" and "Constitution Week" is to strengthen the nation, which is dedicated to liberty and justice-a nation in which its citizens may live an abundant life, developing to the fullest their individual opportunities for success and rendering corresponding services to their country.

Reds Stir Anti-War Group

BY DAVID LAWRENCE

WASHINGTON — Communists within the United States are active in seeking to influence, if not direct, many phases of the anti-Vietnam-war movement as well as in trying to stir up racial friction.

A federal agency has circulated a memorandum to other agencies in the government and to member of Congress documenting the relationship of the Communists to the convention held in Chicago in the past few days at which plans were made to organize a third political party. This correspondent has obtained a copy of the memorandum, and it follows in full text:

"Communists from various parts of the country have been converging on Chicago in recent days. The attraction is the five-day national convention of the national conference for new politics, a liberal anti-war group based in New York City. The convention, which is being held in the Palmer House, started on August 31.

"Some of the delegates to the convention want to nominate civil-rights leader Martin Luther King for President of the United States and pediatrician Dr. Benjamin Spock as his 1968 running mate. Dr. Spock has been one of the most active participants in anti-Vietnam-war demonstrations.

"The Communist party, USA, would welcome a third politicial party with a national ticket headed by King and Spock. In fact, at the annual May Day rally, held in New York City last spring, the Communist chairman of the rally stated that 'peace forces' must mobilize to put President Johnson out of office in 1968. He then suggested that King and Spock were better suited than President Johnson for the White House.

"The Communist, however, do not want this convention to nominate candidates for a presidential ticket. If the efforts of the Communists to influence policy of the National conference for new politics are successful — and qualified observers believe that they will be—this convention will merey agree to the formation of a third-party ticket. Meanwhile, the selection of candidates will be postponed until a nominaing convenion is hed sometime in the spring of 1968.

"These qualified observers advise that the Communists want to combine all the anti-Vietnam-War protesters and all the Civil-Rights forces and merge them into the National Conference for New Politics in order to enlarge the criticism against United States presence in South Vietnam. This tactic, of course, fits into the over-all strategy of the Communist Party, USA, as well as that of the rest of the International Communist Movement, to get the United States to withdraw from Vietnam so the Communists can gain control of all of Vietnam. Leaders of the Communist Party believe, however, that they might lose the support of militant Black Nationalist leaders for the National Conference for New Politics if a presidential ticket is selected prematurely.

"The Communists also have a strong representation from their youth group, the W.E.B. DuBois Clubs of America, at the Chicago convention. In a recent memorandum sent to all local DuBois Clubs, the national office of the DuBois Clubs advised that the convention had been made a nationwide priority for the DuBois Clubs.

"Also present at this convention at the Palmer House are numerous members of the Trotskyite Socialist Workers Party. Since the Socialist Workers Party always has its own ticket for president and vice president of the United States, it is not trying to influence the decisions made at the convention of the National Conference for New Politics. However, the Socialist Workers Party realizes that the convention has attracted radical youths from around the country. The Socialist Workers Party is present in force at the convention in an effort to bring some of these young people into its ranks.

"Whatever were the intentions of the original founders of the National Conference for New Politics, it is now obvious that the Communists and other subversive groups have moved in on them lock, stock and barrel. Veteran observers of the political scene already see a parrallel between the National Conference for New Politics and the Progressive Party, which was quickly taken over by the Communists when it was formed two decades ago."

Peace Efforts Loom

HONOLULU—Here in Hawaii you understand the full impact of the war in Southeast Asia, the tremendous job of planning of supply and command. For this is the hub of the war, the point where general policy is relayed from Washington to Saigon.

Here also you come to understand the political factors that make the war difficult to win in Southeast Asia.

And the conclusions seem inescapable that a chain of events is developing which should bring both sides to the peace conference table. They could bring an end to the fighting, or on the other hand lead to drastic and dangerous escalation.

The man in charge of this far-flung operation, Admiral U. S. Grant Sharp, commander of the Pacific Fleet, is a mild-mannered, pale-blue-eyed sailor, born in Montana, who commanded part of our naval operations in the Korean War and is now the over-all commander of Gen. William Westmoreland in South Vietnam.

It is Admiral Sharp's carriers which launch the daily bombing raids on North Vietnam. Naturally he is a firm believer in the wisdom of the bombing policy. He points out that bombing has seriously interrupted rail and truck traffice, has curtailed shipment of supplies south, diverted about 500,000 men to reconstruction work, forced farm labor to leave food production, destroyed half of the north's manufacturing potential, congested seaports, tripled the time it takes for communist ships to unload, and forced the dispersion of the oil industry. He also believes that bombing must be extended to the key cities of Hanoi and Haiphong.

Military Achievements

The work of supporting American troops and building up South Vietnam has made tremendous advances. In January 1965, 35,000 tons of military supplies were unloaded in Saigon. In 1967, this has increased to an average of 700,000 tons per month. Bien Hoa has become the biggest airport in the world, with a plane landing or taking off every 42 seconds.

The civilian pacification program has been intensified to the point where 2,400,000 students are now in secondary schools — double the number of five years ago.

Despite these military and civilian accomplishments, peace sentiment is strong in South Vietnam. And the Americans of oriental descent living in Hawaii who understand oriental philosophy explain the reasons why.

The military strategy of bombing the enemy to the peace table, they say, will never work in North Vietnam. It didn't work when Hitler rained bombs over London. It strengthened British morale. And it won't work in a primitive country where lives are cheap and people can escape to the hills and rice paddies overnight.

Orientals point to the fact it hasn't worked during 26 years of constant Vietnamese warfare and occupation under the Japanese, the French, and the Americans.

Factors for Peace

Meanwhile, several important factors point to the probability of peace talks. They are:

1—Every candidate for president in the South Vietnam elections talked peace. The war is so unpopular that they couldn't do otherwise. Even Gen. Nguyen Van Thieu, chief of state, proposed peace talks and a bombing holiday if the Americans agreed. He knew in advance the Americans would agree, because sagacious Ambassador Ellsworth Bunker had been encouraging him to open avenues to peace.

2—Another peace feeler has recently come from Hanoi. It's difficult to tell how firm these feelers are, but this one is reinforced by U.N. Secretary General Thant and neutralist Burma.

3—President Johnson has reached the point of political no return as far as the war is concerned. His Senate support for the war is now down to about 50-50, and his domestic program, especially for the big cities, is suffering badly as a result of war appropriations.

4—Gen. Westmoreland's request for 100,000 troops has been scaled down to 45,000, and even this number has not yet been supplied. Twice Secretary of Defense McNamara has vetoed the Joint Chiefs of Staff's request that the reserves be called up. The White House is opposed.

Most important development of all, however, may be the discovery that the Viet Cong have hauled Russian rocket launchers to within a short distance of Saigon. This will make Saigon as vulnerable to attack as Hanoi would be from U. S. Bombers.

The launchers throw a rocket two feet long and could fire into the heart of Saigon. So far Saigon has been outside the range of enemy guns. The Viet Cong have been forced to use secret agents to sneak in and blow up its buildings.

But with the new rocket-launchers, they could pour relentless day and night fire into a vast and teeming city which is much less prepared for bombing than Hanoi. There has been so much talk about bombing Hanoi that it has dispersed its strategic offices and prepared bomb shelters. Saigon, however, is totally unprepared.

These are some of the factors in the turbulent, ever-changing picture of the war which point toward a precarious peace.

By HENRY J. TAYLOR

The left-wingers lost a sweet asset when American Nazi George Lincoln Rockwell was killed. He was their ideal straw man. And the Communists and fellow travelers among us, busy throwing smoke in our eyes, were never handed a better distraction than this nut, Rockwell, and his little band of kooks.

The FBI states that the group Rockwell founded contains between 200 and 800 followers. That's all. And on a Saturday night most of them couldn't distinguish their beds from a snowbank. Never have so many others who are a real danger benefited so heavily from a meaningless few.

Pickpockets perfect the technique of shouting "Stop thief!" and point to other people while they themselves make the snatch. This double game is the Communist tecnique all over the world, and we've been saturated by it whenever Rockwell managed to get himself and his handful of Nazi followers into the newspapers.

His tiny clique has no backing by a foreign power. None of them is entrenched in our communications facilities, trade unions or defense plants. They are not entrenched and have no cells in the State Department, the Pentagon, the Central Intelligence Agency, the White House.

In contrast, FBI Director J. Edgar Hoover recently stated: "Communist espionage rings are more intensely operated here today than at any time in the history of the United States." And could anyone seriously contend that even our clergy has not been infiltrated?

Because they can't, the Nazi kooks don't review books, sneak the party line into movies, infiltrate the newspaper, TV and radio world, or successfully subvert anyone in our scientific or teaching community. They're about as stealthy as the two-ton Komodo lizard of Southeast Asia.

The Nazi nuts influence no legislation. What economic other programs can they push toward adoption that could weaken our country? How can they sap our individual stamina on which the strength of our nation must depend? Where can they fit into spark-plugging the race riots, the destruction of law and order, the city-burning terrorism that is tearing our country apart? They're an ugly joke, this tiny band, and that's all.

Why, then, do so many of our left-wingers warn us against them so often? Why do such irrepressible southpaws as Arthur Schlesinger Jr., J. Kenneth Galbraith and Dr. Martin Luther King, to say nothing of Sen. Robert G. Kennedy, keep highlighting these Fascist nuts? If we had no more to worry about than the Rockwell ilk, this would be a safer country indeed.

The best defense against communism is to know its methods. Instead of this distraction, we need to be told how the Communist cells suck in fellow travelers and dupe us here. Our full enemy is all the people who are, knowingly or unknowingly, used on the Red side.

We need to be told the Sino-Soviet strategic plan, which is to weaken us within while the Reds pin down strategic areas abroad to encircle us in an immense pincer movement from which we ultimately could not escape without the challenge of atomic war.

We need to be told that to the Kremlin, the human race outside the Soviet border falls into two categories: agents of communist imperialism and enemies. Inside, there are three categories: Communists, conformists and subversives.

The Communist masters have put the world in marching boots with the same cynical disregard for human life that Ivan the Terrible displayed in putting his enemies in cages in Moscow's Red Square and setting them on fire.

We need to be reminded that Cuba remains a Soviet bastion, fringed with striking power, 90 miles from our shore and that Red Castro's executions occur at 5 o'clock in the morning. Many Cubans say: "Don't ask me the day. I only know the hour."

We need to be told that the Communists and fellow travelers among us know how to take hold of public opinion by well-tried precedents; to bribe, to distract, or bemuse it, or, in the last resort, to shoot it down.

We're really taught anything we may need to know by the tiny band of Fascist nuts that accompanied Rockwell's hearse in the Culpeper Cemetery confrontation. Straw man, good-bye.

Who remembers Billy Durant? Nobody. And yet this white-haired splinter of a man left a mark on this country which will never be erased. He was a medicine show pitchman out of Flint, Michigan, in 1883, and his lying words had the sparkle of woodland brooks, the romance of a guitar in moonlight, the conviction of a saint's tears.

He walked like a ballet dancer and had a soothing eloquence in his hands. Billy could think higher than Everest and further out than Arcturus. Sometimes, when he listened to his words, he too believed them. One day he had a happy thought about horse carriages, so Billy Durant borrowed $2,000 and bought a little factory. Between 1886 and 1890, Billy bought a dozen such shops and was selling 150,000 surreys a year.

At the turn of the century, someone told Billy about a nut named David Buick, who was trying to build an internal combusion engine. The little dandy took a look at the bolts and smoke in a loft, and went out and bought the old Flint Wagonworks and renamed it the Buick Motor Company. "The automobile," he said, "will now replace the horse."

He sold shares in Buick, and used the proceeds to buy other small companies named Cadillac, Oldsmobile, and Oakland. When Billy tied them all together, he called his company General Motors. Between 1903 and 1910, Mr. Durant became a multi-millionaire. The more he dreamed, the richer he became. In 1910, he needed $10,000,000 as a loan, and the banks refused it unless he gave them the voting stock in General Motors.

It was "yes" or bankruptcy. So Billy nodded, and went broke. He might have gone back to selling patent medicine, but as Dana L. Thomas pointed out in his The Plungers and the Peacocks — the only book ever to follow Durant's corkscrew career accurately — Billy located another automotive nut named Louis Chevrolet, who was busy reinventing the automobile.

Durant borrowed $100,000, organized Chevrolet, and, within two years, made a million for himself. Five years later, he recapitalized the company at $80,000,000 and raided General Motors by offering their stockholders five shares of Chevrolet for each share of G. M. In September 1915, he walked into a General Motors meeting of the board of directors—the bankers who had kicked him out—and, with the help of DuPont and John Raskob, took control of the company.

He ran both companies up into the hundreds of millions, when two boys named Van Russell came to him and begged Durant to save their father from losing his mind. The old man, it seems, was trying to invent a plug-in electric icebox. Van Russell and Durant lost their happy minds together and, when the invention was ready for the market, called it Frigidaire.

By this time, Billy had $105 million in his own name, but he kept saying: "Money? What is money? It is only loaned to a man. He comes into the world with nothing and he leaves with nothing."

He proved it was nothing in July 1920. GM stock, selling at 38, began to tumble. Durant bought it as fast as it was offered, trying to hold the price up. By the time it fell to 12¾, the dreamer was in a nightmare. He was broke, and owed $20,000,000.

DuPont and Morgan decided that, as far as General Motors was concerned, Billy had to go. They dumped him, and gave him $3,000,000 to clean up his private debts. He paid it out, and was left, at age 60, with nothing. Did he quit? You don't appreciate Billy. He formed a friendly coalition of millionaires and began to monopolize certain issues on the stock exchange.

By 1928, Billy controlled three billion dollars in stock. His phone bill was $20,000 a week. He had 15 brokers working for him and one earned $4,000,000 in commissions from Durant in one year. The Durant group moved American Smelters stock—a dull dog—up 250 points, then dropped it. In May 1929, five months before the biggest crash in history, Durant began to pull out of the market. He sold slowly and quietly, and came out richer than ever.

The market tumbled, and brokers began to jump from high windows. Not our boy. He was busy promoting a new automobile called the Durant, and watching stocks fall all the way to the gutter. Then Billy bought. All the stocks were selling at bargain rates. For once, he was wrong. The market fell again, and the little pitchman lost everything. He was less solvent than a church poorbox.

At the age of 75, stooped and snowy, still smiling, he was located in a hamburger stand at Asbury Park, washing dishes. He owned the place. Then he lost it. Eleven years later, without a coin in his pocket, Billy Durant died.

"Money? What is money?" he had said "It is only loaned to a man. He comes into the world with nothing, and he leaves with nothing." Who remembers Billy Durant? Nobody . . .

Health Course Ignores The Poor, Students Claim

By DICK KIRSCHTEN
Chicago Sun-Times Special

CHICAGO, Sept. 1 — A group of health students who spent the summer working in Chicago slum neighborhoods have declared that American medical education ignores the problems of hte poor.

"The average health school curriculum . . . teaches nothing of the disease-producing squalor that exists in our cities," said Fitshugh Mullan, co-director of the Federally-financed Chicago student health project.

Mullan, a fourth-year medical student at the University of Chicago, spoke at a conference marking the close of the 10-week project during which 96 medical, dental and nursing students worked with ghetto health problems.

The project was jointly sponsored by the student health organization and the U. of C. medical school. It was funded with grants totaling $233,000 from the Office of Economic Opportunity and the Department of Labor.

Mullan criticized the insulation of health-science education from the community. "Our experience is confined to the medical center," he said.

Another speaker, Barbara Britts, a nursing student from the University of California, commented: "We see only the climactic moment in the hospital. We never see the cause of the lead poisoning. We learn nothing about where rat bites or malnutrition come from."

The student project also included 70 high school students from ghetto areas who had shown interest in careers in the health field.

There are fewer than 20 Negroes among Chicago's 2,400 medical students, said Lambert King, director of the high school aspect of the project. "This is a commentary on both ghetto life and ghetto medical care.

"The high school students on the project . . . have shown a keen desire to work toward college and health careers," King said. "They have not been daunted by ghetto education."

Report Crank Calls

The telephone no longer is a source of "amusement" for a disturbing number of disturbed people here and elsewhere throughout the country. Telephone companies now have electronic devises which immediately trace the anonymous calls.

Every kind of call, whether lewd, larcenous, weird or just plain annoying can be coped with if the 'phone company is notified. The officaciousness of the electronic equipment and prompt reporting by unlucky recipients of crank calls has been demonstrated time and time again by the apprehension and conviction of these tetched individuals.

Despite these arrests, obscene calls erupt again and we note these few rules to be employed by anyone so annoyed:

If a threat is made at any time, call police.

Know to whom you are talking. Anyone who asks for information should be identified to your satisfaction. One device is to ask the unknown caller for his number so you can check it in the book or with Information.

Don't answer the question, "What number is this?" Instead ask the caller what number he is dialing and with whom he wants to speak. Many people have acquired steady nuisances by giving their number to random callers.

Instruct children and baby sitters not to give out information indiscriminately. Have them get the caller's name and say you will call back.

The old man, it seems, was trying to invent a plug-in electric icebox. Van Russell and Durant lost their happy minds together and, when the invention was ready for the market, called it Frigidaire.

By this time, Billy had $105 million in his own name, but he kept saying: "Money? What is money? It is only loaned to a man. He comes into the world with nothing and he leaves with nothing."

He proved it was nothing in July 1920. GM stock, selling at 38, began to tumble. Durant bought it as fast as it was offered, trying to hold the price up. By the time it fell to 12¾, the dreamer was in a nightmare. He was broke, and owed $20,000,000.

DuPont and Morgan decided that, as far as General Motors was concerned, Billy had to go. They dumped him, and gave him $3,000,000 to clean up his private debts. He paid it out, and was left, at age 60, with nothing. Did he quit? You don't appreciate Billy. He formed a friendly coalition of millionaires and began to monopolize certain issues on the stock exchange.

By 1928, Billy controlled three billion dollars in stock. His phone bill was $20,000 a week. He had 15 brokers working for him and one earned $4,000,000 in commissions from Durant in one year. The Durant group moved American Smelters stock—a dull dog—up 250 points, then dropped it. In May 1929, five months before the biggest crash in history, Durant began to pull out of the market. He sold slowly and quietly, and came out richer than ever.

The market tumbled, and brokers began to jump from high windows. Not our boy. He was busy promoting a new automobile called the Durant, and watching stocks fall all the way to the gutter. Then Billy bought. All the stocks were selling at bargain rates. For once, he was wrong. The market fell again, and the little pitchman lost everything. He was less solvent than a church poorbox.

At the age of 75, stooped and snowy, still smiling, he was located in a hamburger stand at Asbury Park, washing dishes. He owned the place. Then he lost it. Eleven years later, without a coin in his pocket, Billy Durant died.

"Money? What is money?" he had said "It is only loaned to a man. He comes into the world with nothing, and he leaves with nothing." Who remembers Billy Durant? Nobody . . .

Peace Efforts Loom

HONOLULU—Here in Hawaii you understand the full impact of the war in Southeast Asia, the tremendous job of planning of supply and command. For this is the hub of the war, the point where general policy is relayed from Washington to Saigon.

Here also you come to understand the political factors that make the war difficult to win in Southeast Asia.

And the conclusions seem inescapable that a chain of events is developing which should bring both sides to the peace conference table. They could bring an end to the fighting, or on the other hand lead to drastic and dangerous escalation.

The man in charge of this far-flung operation, Admiral U. S. Grant Sharp, commander of the Pacific Fleet, is a mild-mannered, pale-blue-eyed sailor, born in Montana, who commanded part of our naval operations in the Korean War and is now the over-all commander of Gen. William Westmoreland in South Vietnam.

It is Admiral Sharp's carriers which launch the daily bombing raids on North Vietnam. Naturally he is a firm believer in the wisdom of the bombing policy. He points out that bombing has seriously interrupted rail and truck traffice, has curtailed shipment of supplies south, diverted about 500,000 men to reconstruction work, forced farm labor to leave food production, destroyed half of the north's manufacturing potential, congested seaports, tripled the time it takes for communist ships to unload, and forced the dispersion of the oil industry. He also believes that bombing must be extended to the key cities of Hanoi and Haiphong.

Military Achievements

The work of supporting American troops and building up South Vietnam has made tremendous advances. In January 1965, 35,000 tons of military supplies were unloaded in Saigon. In 1967, this has increased to an average of 700,000 tons per month. Bien Hoa has become the biggest airport in the world, with a plane landing or taking off every 42 seconds.

The civilian pacification program has been intensified to the point where 2,400,000 students are now in secondary schools — double the number of five years ago.

Despite these military and civilian accomplishments, peace sentiment is strong in South Vietnam. And the Americans of oriental descent living in Hawaii who understand oriental philosophy explain the reasons why.

The military strategy of bombing the enemy to the peace table, they say, will never work in North Vietnam. It didn't work when Hitler rained bombs over London. It strengthened British morale. And it won't work in a primitive country where lives are cheap and people can escape to the hills and rice paddies overnight.

Orientals point to the fact it hasn't worked during 26 years of constant Vietnamese warfare and occupation under the Japanese, the French, and the Americans.

Factors for Peace

Meanwhile, several important factors point to the probability of peace talks. They are:

1—Every candidate for president in the South Vietnam elections talked peace. The war is so unpopular that they couldn't do otherwise. Even Gen. Nguyen Van Thieu, chief of state, proposed peace talks and a bombing holiday if the Americans agreed. He knew in advance the Americans would agree, because sagacious Ambassador Ellsworth Bunker had been encouraging him to open avenues to peace.

2—Another peace feeler has recently come from Hanoi. It's difficult to tell how firm these feelers are, but this one is reinforced by U.N. Secretary General Thant and neutralist Burma.

3—President Johnson has reached the point of political no return as far as the war is concerned. His Senate support for the war is now down to about 50-50, and his domestic program, especially for the big cities, is suffering badly as a result of war appropriations.

4—Gen. Westmoreland's request for 100,000 troops has been scaled down to 45,000, and even this number has not yet been supplied. Twice Secretary of Defense McNamara has vetoed the Joint Chiefs of Staff's request that the reserves be called up. The White House is opposed.

Most important development of all, however, may be the discovery that the Viet Cong have hauled Russian rocket launchers to within a short distance of Saigon. This will make Saigon as vulnerable to attack as Hanoi would be from U. S. Bombers.

The launchers throw a rocket two feet long and could fire into the heart of Saigon. So far Saigon has been outside the range of enemy guns. The Viet Cong have been forced to use secret agents to sneak in and blow up its buildings.

But with the new rocket-launchers, they could pour relentless day and night fire into a vast and teeming city which is much less prepared for bombing than Hanoi. There has been so much talk about bombing Hanoi that it has dispersed its strategic offices and prepared bomb shelters. Saigon, however, is totally unprepared.

These are some of the factors in the turbulent, ever-changing picture of the war which point toward a precarious peace.

By HENRY J. TAYLOR

The left-wingers lost a sweet asset when American Nazi George Lincoln Rockwell was killed. He was their ideal straw man. And the Communists and fellow travelers among us, busy throwing smoke in our eyes, were never handed a better distraction than this nut, Rockwell, and his little band of kooks.

The FBI states that the group Rockwell founded contains between 200 and 800 followers. That's all. And on a Saturday night most of them couldn't distinguish their beds from a snowbank. Never have so many others who are a real danger benefited so heavily from a meaningless few.

Pickpockets perfect the technique of shouting "Stop thief!" and point to other people while they themselves make the snatch. This double game is the Communist tecnique all over the world, and we've been saturated by it whenever Rockwell managed to get himself and his handful of Nazi followers into the newspapers.

His tiny clique has no backing by a foreign power. None of them is entrenched in our communications facilities, trade unions or defense plants. They are not entrenched and have no cells in the State Department, the Pentagon, the Central Intelligence Agency, the White House.

In contrast, FBI Director J. Edgar Hoover recently stated: "Communist espionage rings are more intensely operated here today than at any time in the history of the United States." And could anyone seriously contend that even our clergy has not been infiltrated?

Because they can't, the Nazi kooks don't review books, sneak the party line into movies, infiltrate the newspaper, TV and radio world, or successfully subvert anyone in our scientific or teaching community. They're about as stealthy as the two-ton Komodo lizard of Southeast Asia.

The Nazi nuts influence no legislation. What economic other programs can they push toward adoption that could weaken our country? How can they sap our individual stamina on which the strength of our nation must depend? Where can they fit into spark-plugging the race riots, the destruction of law and order, the city-burning terrorism that is tearing our country apart? They're an ugly joke, this tiny band, and that's all.

Why, then, do so many of our left-wingers warn us against them so often? Why do such irrepressible southpaws as Arthur Schlesinger Jr., J. Kenneth Galbraith and Dr. Martin Luther King, to say nothing of Sen. Robert G. Kennedy, keep highlighting these Fascist nuts? If we had no more to worry about than the Rockwell ilk, this would be a safer country indeed.

The best defense against communism is to know its methods. Instead of this distraction, we need to be told how the Communist cells suck in fellow travelers and dupe us here. Our full enemy is all the people who are, knowingly or unknowingly, used on the Red side.

We need to be told the Sino-Soviet strategic plan, which is to weaken us within while the Reds pin down strategic areas abroad to encircle us in an immense pincer movement from which we ultimately could not escape without the challenge of atomic war.

We need to be told that to the Kremlin, the human race outside the Soviet border falls into two categories: agents of communist imperialism and enemies. Inside, there are three categories: Communists, conformists and subversives.

The Communist masters have put the world in marching boots with the same cynical disregard for human life that Ivan the Terrible displayed in putting his enemies in cages in Moscow's Red Square and setting them on fire.

We need to be reminded that Cuba remains a Soviet bastion, fringed with striking power, 90 miles from our shore and that Red Castro's executions occur at 5 o'clock in the morning. Many Cubans say: "Don't ask me the day, I only know the hour."

We need to be told that the Communists and fellow travelers among us know how to take hold of public opinion by well-tried precedents; to bribe, to distract, or bemuse it, or, in the last resort, to shoot it down.

We're really taught anything we may need to know by the tiny band of Fascist nuts that accompanied Rockwell's hearse in the Culpeper Cemetery confrontation. Straw man, good-bye.

Health Course Ignores The Poor, Students Claim

By DICK KIRSCHTEN
Chicago Sun-Times Special

CHICAGO, Sept. 1 — A group of health students who spent the summer working in Chicago slum neighborhoods have declared that American medical education ignores the problems of hte poor.

"The average health school curriculum . .. teaches nothing of the disease-producing squalor that exists in our cities," said Fitshugh Mullan, co-director of the Federally-financed Chicago student health project.

Mullan, a fourth-year medical student at the University of Chicago, spoke at a conference marking the close of the 10-week project during which 96 medical, dental and nursing students worked with ghetto health problems.

The project was jointly sponsored by the student health organization and the U. of C. medical school. It was funded with grants totaling $233,000 from the Office of Economic Opportunity and the Department of Labor.

Mullan criticized the insulation of health-science education from the community. "Our experience is confined to the medical center," he said.

Another speaker, Barbara Britts, a nursing student from the University of California, commented: "We see only the climactic moment in the hospital. We never see the cause of the lead poisoning. We learn nothing about where rat bites or malnutrition come from."

The student project also included 70 high school students from ghetto areas who had shown interest in careers in the health field.

There are fewer than 20 Negroes among Chicago's 2,400 medical students, said Lambert King, director of the high school aspect of the project. "This is a commentary on both ghetto life and ghetto medical care.

"The high school students on the project . . . have shown a keen desire to work toward college and health careers," King said. "They have not been daunted by ghetto education."

The Second School System

'I Taught in Ghetto School'

(Second in a Series)

By L. F. PALMER JR.
NEA Special Writer

CHICAGO — (NEA) — My experience as a teacher in the Chicago public schools was a brief one. It lasted about three months.

It began when I answered the call for provisional teachers. The shortage of teachers was critical but in the ghetto schools it bordered on being an emergency.

I was working nights as a newspaperman then, and because I had the qualifications—at least a bachelor's degree, though shy of education credits required for regular certification—I applied and was placed.

My career as a teacher ended when I was shifted to daylight hours by my newspaper.

By this time, I had been transferred from one school to another ,had presided over every grade from kindergarten to sixth. In those three months, I learned far more than I was able to teach.

What I learned was chilling.

The dangerously low rate of progress discernible in the ghetto schools was disturbing. But infinitely more frightening was evidence that so many of the pupils appeared to have no interest in the learning experience.

As one principal put it: "These children are hostile toward learning."

I had been told about 'inferior" education in the inner city schools. I had read about the effects of unequal education. When I came face to face with it, I was startled, then alarmed.

I discovered a principal was asking his first grade teachers for extra primers so they could be used by eighth grade teachers.

I visited an upper grade center which had sent half of it graduates into high school reading between the second and fifth grade levels.

The principal of another upper grade center admitted his school meets the needs of "only half the students."

Desperately overcrowded, it has an enrollment of 2,400.

I talked to a thoughful and scholarly man, Samuel A. Stratton, who has retired after 32 years of teaching in Chicago's schools.

"When I first started teaching," he told me, "I had to ask myself if society really wants to educate the Negro. When I retired, I was still asking myself the same question."

And Edwin C. Berry, executive director of the Chicago Urban League and a harsh critic of Chicago's public school system, warned bluntly

"If the school situation gets any worse, this city is going to hell."

Was I—a newspaper man who has moonlighted as a teacher—being too critical of Chicago schools? Were my evaluations unfair since I entered the classroom as an inexperienced teacher, lacking training in teaching methods?

I put these questions to a teacher of eight years experience, all of them in ghetto schools. He is Charles Tannyhill, president of the Teachers Committee for Quality Education.

"You are not alone by a long shot," he said. Tannyhill unburdened himself and confessed an aching frustration which is common to many teachers in Chicago's inner city schools.

"We try. We try hard," he said. "But there are so many of these youngsters we just can't reach."

Tannyhill and more than a hundred of his fellow ghetto school teachers are trying so hard they have banded together to form the Teachers Committee for Quality Education. They are bombarding the board of education with recommendations for improving inner city schools.

"Quality education for Negro students of inner city schools is impossible as presently organized," one of the committee's brochures states. "We believe that Negro students have the same capacity to learn as any other students."

But Negro students in ghetto schools are not learning as other students. This was confirmed in a report commissioned by the Chicago Board of Education and supervised by Robert J. Havighurst of the University of Chicago.

The Havighurst survey of 1964 revealed that in school districts serving deprived children—by an overwhelming majority, these are Negro pupils — achievement levels fall as much as two or three years below national norms.

On Chicago's West Side the dropout figure for the four high schools serving Negro students is close to 70 per cent. The picture is much the same across the nation.

New York psychologist Kenneth B. Clark, author of "Dark Ghetto," recounted the inevitable results of inferior education at the planning session of the White House conference, "To Fulfill These Rights," in late 1965:

Marked cumulative academic retardation in a disproportionately high percentage of children who attend these schools.

A high percentage of dropouts in the junior and senior high schools; these students are characteristically unequipped academically and occupationally for a constructive role in society.

A pattern of rejection and despair and hopelessness resulting in massive human wastage.

And now, after this nation's most dismal summer of rioting and insurrection, social surgeons are pointing accusing fingers at the ghetto school in their frantic search for reasons.

New City Hall

September 2, 1967

Editor, The Freeman:

May I offer a suggestion for the location of our new City Hall?

Why not level the hill in front of the present structure (as was done by the Kingston Hospital), erect a four or six story building air-conditioned, with self-service elevators, same distance from the sidewalks as the Hospital leaving space for the flag pole.

Removal of the present hall would provide parking space, the World War Plaque could be placed within the building, the Civil War Memorial another place in the city.

Thus the City Hall would remain in the central location and no purchase of land in a different area needed.

Thanking you and with the best interests of our city at heart, I am,

Belgium Wants Out in Congo

By BRUCE OUDES
Chicago Daily News Service

KINSHASA, Congo, Sept. 2—The United States has embarked on another round of trying to persuade Belgium to stay in Congo.

This is not a new mission but one that is becoming more difficult each time around.

Congo is America's number one commitment in Africa and U. S. influence there has been growing while Belgium's has been dwindling.

American diplomats have the job of holding the line on American aid and political commitment to Congo while Belgium is phasing itself out of its formal colonial paradise.

The latest round in this 7-year-old game stems from the slaying of a dozen Belgian civilians and beating of dozens more by Congolese army soldiers plus the sacking of Belgian Embassy. These events have occurred in the two months since white mercenaries rebelled as President Joseph Mobuto was about to fire them.

As a result, the Belgian government announced this week further retrenchment of its assistance to Congo. It is holding up the return of Belgian technical assistance personnel after their summer vacations in Europe until it has satisfactory guarantees of their safety.

Mobutu's response to the Belgian reaction was to call it "blackmail" and say the Congo can rely on itself.

"I think they've crossed the watershed this time," said an American diplomat of the Belgian decision, indicating that Brussels has lost any desire to stay on in the country.

"Belgium stayed in the Congo since independence for two reasons — to protect its private investments and protect its citizens," he said.

He added "The nationalization of Union Miniere cut their private investment by two-thirds to $400,000,000(M) and the killings and beatings prove the Belgian government has no influence on the security situation."

So far the American commitment since days of Katanga secession has been limited to maintaining Congo's territorial integrity, although there always has been considerable activity to keep the central government of the day afloat.

Robert McBride, the U. S. Ambassador since last spring, is a qualified diplomat but a Congo neophyte. He came here from the American Embassy in Paris.

26 Nurses Quit Upstate Office In Salary Rift

SYRACUSE, N.Y. (AP) — Twenty-six public health nurses have resigned in a dispute that began last May with the Onondaga County Health Department over salaries.

In addition, six other nurses said Tuesday they would resign in a month, leaving the county agency with only three public health nurses and seven registered nurses.

The department provides home care for about 600 persons.

The nurses, whose current annual pay ranges from $5,590 to $6,800, sought a yearly pay increase of about $800 made retroactive to Jan. 1 of this year.

The county's board of supervisors, however, voted to grant the increase beginning Jan. 1, 1968.

The retroactive plan was recommended by George Moskowitz of the American Arbitration Association. Moskowitz was hired by the county to study the situation and offer recommendations.

Dr. David E. Bigwood, county health commissioner, said the resignations Tuesday "will have a devastating effect..."

Most of the county's present health programs will be eliminated and "only emergency service" will be provided, Bigwood said.

ST. LOUIS (AP) — Many national, state and local government officials, and news executives gathered in St. Louis today to attend the funeral of Richard H. Amberg.

Amberg, 55, publisher of the St. Louis Globe-Democrat and a member of The Associated Press board of directors, died in New York Sunday, apparently of a heart attack. He was on a combined business and pleasure trip with his wife and three children.

Masonic funeral services were conducted Tuesday night at the Scottish Rite Temple, where the body lay in state more than 24 hours, attended by an honor guard of U.S. naval reservists, Boy Scouts, a boys club, and members of the Masonic order.

Fifteen executives and editors of the Globe-Democrat were named as pallbearers for the services today at Central Presbyterian Church in Clayton, a St. Louis suburb.

A native of New York, Amberg will be bured in St. Louis, his home for the past 12 years.

President Johnson and former President Eisenhower joined hundreds of others in paying tribute to the newspaper executive.

"The tragic loss of Richard Amberg is a loss to our country as well as the newspaper world," the President said in a wire to the Amberg family.

"I share with all who knew and admired him the sense of loss that they feel today."

Eisenhower described Amberg as a working newspaperman who knew his countrymen from country town to great city.

"He was able to persuasively address himself to them with a knowledge of their interest and aspirations that was fortified by his own patriotism and commitment to the American way," Eisenhower said.

Auto Group Endorses Transportation Bond

The New York State Automobile Association and its 21 AAA affiliated clubs has begun distribution of a quarter of a million leaflets endorsing Governor Rockefeller'sc $2.5 billion transportation bond issue, it was announced today by Ford E. Mulford of Binghamton, the Association's president.

Distribution of the leaflet is the first step in the association's educational campaign to obtain members' support of the proposal that will come before the voters on Nov. 7 as Proposition Number 1.

In announcing distribution of the leaflet, Mulford was critical of efforts in some quarters "to purport that the $1.25 billion earmarked in the measure for state highways will or can be expended on other purposes."

Specifically, he said, the leaflet stresses the following facts:

The $1.25 billion of the bond issue will be dedicated by law for highway construction.

These funds cannot be used to subsidize the operation of any means of transportation or to offset subway fare deficits anywhere in the state.

None of the highway money can be used to finance toll bridges or a proposed jet port.

The leaflet also notes that under the highway program announced by the state, passage of the bond issue will benefit all regions and will assure the completion of many vitally-needed roads.

"The alternative," Mulford said, "will be worsening of congestion that could only bring about stagnation and decline in the state's business and economic vitality."

Copies of the publication will be included in correspondence by Clubs to members between now and election day. Additional copies are available at all AAA offices.

As approved by an Assembly vote of 136 to 10 and a Senate vote of 55 to 1, the $2.5 billion bond issue will make available $1.25 billion for highway construction, $1 billion for mass transportation systems and $250 million for aviation.

Reagan Planning Tour To Add Candidates

SACRAMENTO, Calif. (AP) — Gov. Ronald Reagan plans to swing through at least nine states in coming months on behalf of Republican senatorial and congressional candidates.

Reagan announced this Tuesday at his first capital news conference since late July. He insisted once again that "I am not a candidate" for president.

Pressed further about his plans by newsmen, the governor remarked that "anything I say has got to be wrong on this, and it just—I find myself wishing I hadn't even come in today."

The governor said that he had agreed to travel to Illinois, Kansas, Connecticut, Texas, Ohio, Iowa, Kentucky, South Carolina and Wisconsin. A few of these trips had been announced before, but most were new.

Reagan, who is being pushed for the 1968 GOP presidential nomination by many who backed 1964 nomininee Barry Goldwater, said it took "a little arm twisting" from Senate and House campaign committees to get his approval for the trips.

He said most would be to raise campaign funds for Republican candidates, and that he would try to space them out "so that I am not gone for long extended periods."

Rail Sabotage

SEOUL (AP) — Ten Persons were injured Tuesday night in the derailment of a passenger train on the central front. Although North Korean guerrilla attacks have been frequent since last October, it was the first railroad sabotage since the Korean War.

The train, bound for Yonchon, just south of the armistice line, was derailed and overturned by TNT which had been planted under the rails 35 miles northeast of Seoul, railroad officials reported.

High Prices Quoted On Abnormal Stamps

By PHIL THOMAS
AP Business Writer

NEW YORK (AP) — On May 13, 1918, a stock broker's clerk went to the Washington, D.C., post office on his lunch hour to buy a sheet of the first U.S. air-mail stamp.

He paid $24 for the sheet of 100, 24-cent, red and blue stamps showing a Curtiss "Jenny" in flight.

Looked at Sheet

As he turned to leave, the clerk looked at the sheet to his hand and, as he said later, his "heart stood still." Every stamp showed the biplane flying upside down.

Collectors call stamps with a printing abnormality in them freaks, and they all dream of coming across at least one someday. Few do.

The clerk who paid $24 for his sheet with the inverted airplanes sold it for $15,000. The buyer broke up the sheet and sold it piecemeal.

In 1964, four of the stamps were sold to a dealer for $67,000. The newest edition of Scott's Standard Postage Stamp Catalogue prices them at $20,000 for each 24-cent stamp.

This doesn't mean the owner of one of the inverted airmails can rush right out and sell it for $20,000, although that might be the retail price a dealer would charge if he sold it to a collector.

Stamps, like other commodities, swing to the tune played by the law of supply and demand.

A stamp may be listed in the Scott catalogue as having a value of $100, but to actually get $100 for it depends on the seller's luck in finding someone who wants that particular stamp badly enough to pay $100 for it.

Get Cross-Section

In setting a value on a stamp, says Gordon R. Harmer, editor in chief of the Scott catalogue, "we try to get a cross-section of prices from dealers, auctions, and philatelic publications."

The prices quoted, Harmer says, try to represent the average retail price of the stamp at the time the catalogue is printed—the price an informed dealer would charge an informed buyer for a fine specimen.

The prospect that new U.S. stamp issues will increase dramatically in value is not bright.

Forty years ago, when the government issued a stamp, the odds were the stamps would be used as postage and eventually destroyed when the envelopes on which they were stuck were thrown away.

Today, with most bulk mailings handled by postage meters, new stamp issues are purchased in great part by collectors and speculators, who store them away. Those new stamps that do get used as postage often are torn off the envelope and saved by collectors or people who know collectors. This means that when the new issue is withdrawn from sale the bulk of it still is in existence and a glut on the market.

Hold Sound Out Principal on Fraud Warrant

Jocko Moffitt, 27, who gave his address as Sound Out, Woodstock, was arrested Tuesday afternoon by Ulster County Investigator Harold T. Bowers of the Sheriff's Department, on a warrant issued out of Kingston City Court which charged "theft of services," formerly defraunding an innkeeper.

Bowers made the arrest at the Woodstock Sound Off grounds on Glasco Turnpike which had been rented for a three-day period and was the scene of a demonstration on Labor Day.

Bail was set at $500, Bowers said, for appearance of Moffitt in City Court before City Judge Hubert Richter at 9 a. m. Thursday. Moffitt's address prior to the Sound Out address, Bowers said, was Old Wagon Road, Woodstock.

UR Suspension

ton Sept. 15, reporting in Pottsville, a city of 25,000 in western Pennsylvania, on the 18th.

The lifting of the suspension on Kingston's urban renewal program came only three days after Congressman Joseph Y. Resnick wrote Horan requesting the same.

Javits Team Due

On tap is an inspection of urban renewal in the city by a team from the office of Senator Jacob K. Javits. They are expected in Kingston on the 11th. A check by The Freeman with the Senator's office in Washington revealed that the trip was still on in the wake of the lifting of the suspension.

Finally, William T. Mahoney officially submitted his resignation from the urban renewal agency to Mayor Garraghan.

In his statement to the mayor, Mahoney said he wished to disassociate himself from previous resignation statements because "they serve no useful purpose at this time."

Reis and Vincent G. Connelly had blasted Congressman Resnick in their resignation statements last week.

Eddyville Man Injured in Fall

Thomas T. Kerwin, 60, of Eddyville, was injured early Tuesday afternoon, when he fell off the roof of a shed while putting up an awning at his home. He was taken to Benedictine Hospital by Doctors Ambulance.

At his residence today it was said Kerwin suffered a dislocated shoulder and other injuries.

Financial and Commercial

By ED MORSE
AP Business Writer

NEW YORK (AP) — The stock market continued to rise early Wednesday despite the midnight deadline for an auto strike. Trading was active.

Ford, strike target of the auto workers union, took another fractional loss. General Motors also backed away slightly. Chrysler held steady.

American Motors resumed its rise, gaining a fraction as Wall Street continued to respond to news of heavy buying by a mutual fund.

Texas Gulf Sulphur spurted about 3 points, while Studebaker, Polaroid and Xerox advanced about 2 points each.

Up about a point were Eastern Air Lines, Olin Mathieson, International Telephone and General Dynamics.

Analysts said the threat of an auto strike seemed to be outweighted at the moment by forecasts of a nine-million-car year in 1968, big backlogs of orders for machine tools and inflationary implications of recent price increases.

Opening blocks included:

Thiokol, up ½ at 23¾ on 15,000 shares; Chrysler, up ¼ at 51⅛ on 9,000; American Telephone, up ⅛ at 51¼ on 9,700; Standard Oil (New Jersey) off ⅛ at 62⅛ on 6,800; and Westinghouse Electric, up ⅜ at 71 on 5,800.

Prices were irregularly higher on the American Stock Exchange. Most changes were fractional. Gainers included Ipco Hospital Supply, Marty Carter Paints "A," Kirby Petroleum and Molybdenum. Among losers were Syntex, Valley Metallurgical and Scurry Rainbow Oil.

Quotations by Wood, Walker & Company, members of the New York Stock Exchange, 62 Wall Street, New York City; branch office, 52 Main Street, Lowell S. Brooks, manager.

Probe Burglary In Ellenville Establishment

A burglary at a dress shop in Ellenville operated by Joseph Lustig was under investigation today by police of that village in charge of Chief Abe Rand.

Entry was gained by smashing a window to a storeroom. Taken by the intruders were dresses, skirts, sweaters and other articles. Rand said some of the loot was recovered behind a nearby store.

The chief reported no developments in the investigation of a burglary Friday at the home of Abe Levine, 9 Center Street. A safe containing an unestimated amount of cash and jewelry was stolen. The house was entered by smashing a side window while the family was away.

SUCCESSFUL INVESTING....

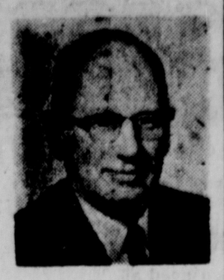
Investment Advisor & Analyst



Make Sales on Basis Of Future Potential

Q) "Due to unforseen personal problems, at 65 I must increase my ready cash by selling some stocks. I own Ford; Interchemical; I.T.T.; PepsiCo; Rockewell - Standard; T.W.A.; Winn-Dixie with losses on the last two. Would you advise which to sell in numerical order?" R.A.

A) I am very sorry that you have had losses in two good stocks resulting mainly from unfortunate timing. An old Street maxim says take your losses but let your profits run, but this applies more to traders than to investors like yourself. To pinpoint the order in which sales should be made is always difficult but I will give you my best opinion and you can take it from there.

If I were you, I would dispose of my stocks in the order of past technical action and relative potential for future good basis, I would sell in this order; T.W.A.; Winn-Dixie; Rockwell-Standard; Interchemical; Ford; PepsiCo; International Tel. & Tel. This is an arbitary judgment, but I hope it will have some value for you.

Q) "My mother has $10,000 in Treasury bills which have just matured. She would like to put the money into income stocks. What do you suggest?" M.M.

A) I assume that your mother wants stability and the best return she can get with safety under present circumstances. Income stocks vary in price as money rates change. The present tendency appears to be for further tightening of credit as business picks up in the latter part of the year. In her position she might do better with bonds which will also fluctuate with money rates but probably less than income stocks at current levels. She can get close to six per cent return on American Telephone 6s of 2000 and Cincinnati Gas & Electric 1st 5⅛s of 1997. Both will be fully registered in her name and I recommend them to her.

Coordinate Local Units Of Government: RFK

POUGHKEEPSIE, N.Y. (AP) — Sen. Robert F. Kennedy, D-N.Y., described today what he termed "fragmentation of local governments" that has resulted in "endless miles of garish, neon-lit roadside shops and cafes."

Kennedy arrived at Dutchess County Airport by chartered plane from Hyannisport, Mass. He was accompanied by his oldest son, Joseph, 14.

He was the principal speaker at a joint Rotary-Kiwanis luncheon meeting.

Calling for more coordination of local government, Kennedy said a six-county area—Duchess, Columbia, Putnam, Orange, Ulster, and Greene—currently has 121 planning boards, 61 separate zoning laws, and 90 comprehensive planning programs.

Before he spoke, Kennedy and city officials toured Poughkeepsie's renewal project area.

Kennedy was scheduled to fly to New York City in the afternoon.

High Prices Quoted On Abnormal Stamps

By PHIL THOMAS
AP Business Writer

NEW YORK (AP) — On May 13, 1918, a stock broker's clerk went to the Washington, D.C., post office on his lunch hour to buy a sheet of the first U.S. air-mail stamp.

He paid $24 for the sheet of 100, 24-cent, red and blue stamps showing a Curtiss "Jenny" in flight.

Looked at Sheet

As he turned to leave, the clerk looked at the sheet to his hand and, as he said later, his "heart stood still." Every stamp showed the biplane flying upside down.

Collectors call stamps with a printing abnormality in them freaks, and they all dream of coming across at least one someday. Few do.

The clerk who paid $24 for his sheet with the inverted airplanes sold it for $15,000. The buyer broke up the sheet and sold it piecemeal.

In 1964, four of the stamps were sold to a dealer for $67,000. The newest edition of Scott's Standard Postage Stamp Catalogue prices them at $20,000 for each 24-cent stamp.

This doesn't mean the owner of one of the inverted airmails can rush right out and sell it for $20,000, although that might be the retail price a dealer would charge if he sold it to a collector.

Stamps, like other commodities, swing to the tune played by the law of supply and demand.

A stamp may be listed in the Scott catalogue as having a value of $100, but to actually get $100 for it depends on the seller's luck in finding someone who wants that particular stamp badly enough to pay $100 for it.

Get Cross-Section

In setting a value on a stamp, says Gordon R. Harmer, editor in chief of the Scott catalogue, "we try to get a cross-section of prices from dealers, auctions, and philatelic publications."

The prices quoted, Harmer says, try to represent the average retail price of the stamp at the time the catalogue is printed—the price an informed dealer would charge an informed buyer for a fine specimen.

The prospect that new U.S. stamp issues will increase dramatically in value is not bright.

Forty years ago, when the government issued a stamp, the odds were the stamps would be used as postage and eventually destroyed when the envelopes on which they were stuck were thrown away.

Today, with most bulk mailings handled by postage meters, new stamp issues are purchased in great part by collectors and speculators, who store them away. Those new stamps that do get used as postage often are torn off the envelope and saved by collectors or people who know collectors. This means that when the new issue is withdrawn from sale the bulk of it still is in existence and a glut on the market.

Hold Sound Out Principal on Fraud Warrant

Jocko Moffitt, 27, who gave his address as Sound Out, Woodstock, was arrested Tuesday afternoon by Ulster County Investigator Harold T. Bowers of the Sheriff's Department, on a warrant issued out of Kingston City Court which charged "theft of services," formerly defrauding an innkeeper.

Bowers made the arrest at the Woodstock Sound Off grounds on Glasco Turnpike which had been rented for a three-day period and was the scene of a demonstration on Labor Day.

Bail was set at $500, Bowers said, for appearance of Moffitt in City Court before City Judge Hubert Richter at 9 a. m. Thursday. Moffitt's address prior to the Sound Out address, Bowers said, was Old Wagon Road, Woodstock.

UR Suspension

ton Sept. 15, reporting in Pottsville, a city of 25,000 in western Pennsylvania, on the 18th.

The lifting of the suspension on Kingston's urban renewal program came only three days after Congressman Joseph Y. Resnick wrote Horan requesting the same.

Javits Team Due

On tap is an inspection of urban renewal in the city by a team from the office of Senator Jacob K. Javits. They are expected in Kingston on the 11th. A check by The Freeman with the Senator's office in Washington revealed that the trip was still on in the wake of the lifting of the suspension.

Finally, William T. Mahoney officially submitted his resignation from the urban renewal agency to Mayor Garraghan.

In his statement to the mayor, Mahoney said he wished to disassociate himself from previous resignation statements because "they serve no useful purpose at this time."

Reis and Vincent G. Connelly had blasted Congressman Resnick in their resignation statements last week.

Eddyville Man Injured in Fall

Thomas T. Kerwin, 60, of Eddyville, was injured early Tuesday afternoon, when he fell off the roof of a shed while putting up an awning at his home. He was taken to Benedictine Hospital by Doctors Ambulance.

At his residence today it was said Kerwin suffered a dislocated shoulder and other injuries.

Financial and Commercial

By ED MORSE
AP Business Writer

NEW YORK (AP) — The stock market continued to rise early Wednesday despite the midnight deadline for an auto strike. Trading was active.

Ford, strike target of the auto workers union, took another fractional loss. General Motors also backed away slightly. Chrysler held steady.

American Motors resumed its rise, gaining a fraction as Wall Street continued to respond to news of heavy buying by a mutual fund.

Texas Gulf Sulphur spurted about 3 points, while Studebaker, Polaroid and Xerox advanced about 2 points each.

Up about a point were Eastern Air Lines, Olin Mathieson, International Telephone and General Dynamics.

Analysts said the threat of an auto strike seemed to be outweighted at the moment by forecasts of a nine-million-car year in 1968, big backlogs of orders for machine tools and inflationary implications of recent price increases.

Opening blocks included:

Thiokol, up ½ at 23¾ on 15,000 shares; Chrysler, up ¼ at 51⅛ on 9,000; American Telephone, up ⅛ at 51¼ on 9,700; Standard Oil (New Jersey) off ⅛ at 62⅛ on 6,800; and Westinghouse Electric, up ⅜ at 71 on 5,800.

Prices were irregularly higher on the American Stock Exchange. Most changes were fractional. Gainers included Ipco Hospital Supply, Marty Carter Paints "A," Kirby Petroleum and Molybdenum. Among losers were Syntex, Valley Metallurgical and Scurry Rainbow Oil.

Quotations by Wood, Walker & Company, members of the New York Stock Exchange, 62 Wall Street, New York City; branch office, 52 Main Street, Lowell S. Brooks, manager.

Probe Burglary In Ellenville Establishment

A burglary at a dress shop in Ellenville operated by Joseph Lustig was under investigation today by police of that village in charge of Chief Abe Rand.

Entry was gained by smashing a window to a storeroom. Taken by the intruders were dresses, skirts, sweaters and other articles. Rand said some of the loot was recovered behind a nearby store.

The chief reported no developments in the investigation of a burglary Friday at the home of Abe Levine, 9 Center Street. A safe containing an unestimated amount of cash and jewelry was stolen. The house was entered by smashing a side window while the family was away.

SUCCESSFUL INVESTING....

Investment Advisor & Analyst

Make Sales on Basis Of Future Potential

Q) "Due to unforseen personal problems, at 65 I must increase my ready cash by selling some stocks. I own Ford; Interchemical; I.T.T.; PepsiCo; Rockewell - Standard; T.W.A.; Winn-Dixie with losses on the last two. Would you advise which to sell in numerical order?" R.A.

A) I am very sorry that you have had losses in two good stocks resulting mainly from unfortunate timing. An old Street maxim says take your losses but let your profits run, but this applies more to traders than to investors like yourself. To pinpoint the order in which sales should be made is always difficult but I will give you my best opinion and you can take it from there.

If I were you, I would dispose of my stocks in the order of past technical action and relative potential for future good basis, I would sell in this order; T.W.A.; Winn-Dixie; Rockwell-Standard; Interchemical; Ford; PepsiCo; International Tel. & Tel. This is an arbitary judgment, but I hope it will have some value for you.

Q) "My mother has $10,000 in Treasury bills which have just matured. She would like to put the money into income stocks. What do you suggest?" M.M.

A) I assume that your mother wants stability and the best return she can get with safety under present circumstances. Income stocks vary in price as money rates change. The present tendency appears to be for further tightening of credit as business picks up in the latter part of the year. In her position she might do better with bonds which will also fluctuate with money rates but probably less than income stocks at current levels. She can get close to six per cent return on American Telephone 6s of 2000 and Cincinnati Gas & Electric 1st 5⅛s of 1997. Both will be fully registered in her name and I recommend them to her.

A volcano in El Salvador, Izalco, once was known as the "lighthouse of the Pacific" because it erupted regularly every eight minutes and sailors could see its smoke and fires from far out at sea.

Coordinate Local Units Of Government: RFK

POUGHKEEPSIE, N.Y. (AP) — Sen. Robert F. Kennedy, D-N.Y., described today what he termed "fragmentation of local governments" that has resulted in "endless miles of garish, neon-lit roadside shops and cafes."

Kennedy arrived at Dutchess County Airport by chartered plane from Hyannisport, Mass. He was accompanied by his oldest son, Joseph, 14.

He was the principal speaker at a joint Rotary-Kiwanis luncheon meeting.

Calling for more coordination of local government, Kennedy said a six-county area—Dutchess, Columbia, Putnam, Orange, Ulster, and Greene—currently has 121 planning boards, 61 separate zoning laws, and 90 comprehensive planning programs.

Before he spoke, Kennedy and city officials toured Poughkeepsie's renewal project area.

Kennedy was scheduled to fly to New York City in the afternoon.

Observer in North Viet Says Dikes Prime Air Targets

EDITOR'S NOTE — Amando Doronila, correspondent of the Manila Times, is touring North Vietnam. This dispatch was made available to The Associated Press by the Manila Times.

By AMANDO DORONILA
Manila Times Correspondent

NINH BINH, North Vietnam (AP) — Dikes in the fertile Red River delta—North Vietnam's rice basket—have come under increasing air attack lately.

The bombing appears intended not only to demoralize and harass the population in the most densely populated region of the country but also to destroy the rice crops in the vast alluvial plains with its vulnerable open spaces.

Over 100 Years Old

The great dikes system near Hanoi and Haiphong, built over a hudred years to shield these cities from floods and divert the floodwaters to irrigate fields, have been reported to have been attacked only lightly and the bombing of dikes in Hanoi was connected with the strikes at the Paul Doumier Bridge, which disrupted the main traffic link between the capital and Haiphong and areas to the north Aug. 11-12.

The destruction of major dikes is regarded here with serious international political complications and Americans have so far withheld their heavy air blows from these targets. But here in the delta region, whose paddy fields provide the bulk of rice supply of 17 million North Vietnamese, there have been almost daily attacks on dikes along the numerous small confluences of the Red River which empties into the Tonkin Gulf.

By Hanoi officials' account there were 50 attacks in this province on dams, sluice gates and dikes from June to December, 1966, alone with the intensity increasing to the daily rate during the past three months. One particular dike we visited last Thursday in Gia Ninh village, district of Gia Vien, was bombed Aug. 27. Eight 500-pound bombs were dropped and three left a 20-foot breach in the dike.

Flood Village

The breaching of the dike flooded a small village and the rice cropp 9.8 feet below the water level at a time when rains were heavy.

The pattern of bombing in the delta seems evident—to interdict agricultural production. No military targets are visible in the dikes. The heaviest artillery we saw were antiquated rifles of the peasant militia

To illustrate the pattern, near the coast are towns, Dong Giao and Binh Minh, which have large state farms. The Dong Giao farm has been bombed and strafed 129 times, during which 298 head of cattle were killed, according to officials. They say Binh Minh has been raided 229 times, during which three workers have been killed and several buidings were destroyed.

These farms train agricultural workers and are showcases for agriculture, visited recently by Romanian agriculturists.

Since the province is near the Tonikn Gulf, it is the route of naval aircraft on bombing missions inland and the coastal villages are often shelled by naval guns, officials said.

When we were in Phat Dien, a town demolished by previous heavy bombing and thunderous shelling from naval guns for three hours, we were told by officials and villagers they believe that the area is a convenient dumping ground for bombs jettisoned by naval bombers returning to their floating airdromes after missions in other parts of the country.

Asked the basis of this belief, they said the bombs came from aircraft flying toward the Tonkin Gulf.

You may even have read about how "We Care...about you."
Well, everything you've heard and read is true.
Your local A&P is a great place to shop.

Here's why. We took a good hard look at ourselves.
We analyzed our century of experience.
We made a check list of the things that made A&P America's leading food store.

Then, we decided to look for ways to do them even better.
We redoubled our efforts to make
A&P a friendly, dependable store to shop, to prove, "We Care...About You."

If you've been away, come on back.
If you've never been an A&P shopper, give it a try.
You may discover it's fun to be cared about.

Says Gotham Makes Medicaid Plan Difficult

NEW YORK (AP) — New York City is failing to pay fees due to physicians under the medicaid program, a citizens' committee charges, and consequently many doctors are quitting the program.

"We have reluctantly come to the conclusion that the city, either by intention or as a result of gross incompetence, has made it difficult and in some cases impossible for the people and physicians to participate in the medicaid program," said Frederick W. Richmond at a news conference Tuesday.

He is chairman of the Citizens' Committee for Medicaid which is trying to enroll both doctors and patients in the program.

Richmond, without citing figures, claimed fewer doctors are participating now than when the program began 17 months ago.

Petty Thefts Occur in City

Automobile accessories, bicycles and a pocketbook were listed in police records of petty thefts reported by city residents Tuesday and today.

Jack Musillo of Jack's Body Shop, 482 Albany Avenue, complained to police this morning that sometime during the night a 1957 car belonging to Cheryl Hoffman was jacked up and two wheels and tires were stolen. The 1957 car had been left for repairs, police said. The report also noted gasoline had been taken from the tank of the vehicle. The tires and wheels were valued at $50.

Diane Houghtaling of 55 West O'Reilly Street, complained to police that a pocketbook containing $6, an operator's license, bank book and other important papers, had been taken from her car parked on Wall Street.

Bessie Rice notified police that someone stole a hubcap from her car parked in front of 72 Summer Street.

Mark Gallagher, 65 Flatbush Avenue, reported to authorities that his bicycle had been taken from the front porch of his home. Andrew Giacoma of 115 Fairview Avenue, also told police his bicycle had been stolen.

Upstate Bank Robbery Loot Totals $36,972

PLATTSBURGH, N.Y. (AP) — Three men wearing ski masks and armed with sawed-off carbines, robbed a Marine Midland branch bank near here Tuesday of $36,972 in cash.

About 20 persons were in the bank during the mid - morning holdup but no one was reported injured. A customer in the bank told police the men ordered everyone to lie face down on the floor.

Witnesses told police that the trio arrived in a blue van and escaped in a late-model automobile.

State Police said the escape vehicle was found near Lake Champlain, about three miles from the bank along Route 9, just north of this city.

A second vehicle apparently was used by the trio at that point, troopers said.

The holdup was the third recent one at a branch of the Marine Midland Trust Co, with headquarters in Troy. A branch office in Troy was robbed of $500 on May 26 and the branch in Cohoes, near Albany, was robbed of $700 on Aug. 18. The bank has 15 offices in Northeastern New York.

Holiday Death Toll Reaches 605; Under 1966

CHICAGO (AP) — Deaths on the nation's highways climbed past the gloomy estimates of safety experts during the Labor Day weekend but remained below the record set during the 1966 holiday period.

The Labor Day toll in auto, truck and other motor vehicle accidents grew to 605 deaths between 6 p.m. Friday to midnight Monday.

This compared with 636 killed in traffic last Labor Day. The National Safety Council estimated before the holiday that 560-600 persons would be killed in highway mishaps.

For comparison, The Associated Press tabulated traffic deaths during a nonholiday weekend, Aug. 18-21. The count then was 533.

Child Killed

ROCHESTER, N.Y. (AP) — Barbara Bianchi, a 20-month-old Rochester girl, died Tuesday when struck by an automobile, police said.

THE CHOICE METALS

Paper money redeemable in silver is selling at a substantial premium. As this is written, a dollar silver certificate will bring $1.29. Why is that?

Well, silver, in short supply in America, is subject to the competitive forces in that market. Until recent months, it sold at about $1.29 an ounce. But with the law of supply and demand operating, silver has gone up to around $1.77 an ounce and it is likely to go higher.

Paper money floods the country. America is off the gold standard. The silver content in our metal currency has all but disappeared.

The character of the dollar has suffered in recent years. Almost everybody knows that everything is costing more but few understand why the social and economic forces in America are undermining the quality of the dollar.

As this column recently pointed out, quantity money is fast superseding quality money. And that condition infects our total life in America.

The large premium being paid for paper money redeemable in silver is eloquent testimony to the deteriorating dollar.

The New York City school teachers, for instance, are threatening a strike early in September unless their salaries are greatly increased. And the city budget is already bursting at the seams. Of course, they will get higher salaries.

And every last person living in New York City will, directly or indirectly, help to pay these added costs. Real estate taxes will advance and owners and renters will feel this impact. I, personally, expect to get a substantial rent boost on my luxury apartment.

The relief rolls in New York City are growing by leaps and bounds. People from the South and from Puerto Rico come to New York City and in a few hours, they are on relief. Legislation requiring residence in New York City for a year before relief payments can be made was badly defeated.

Now, the significance of the deteriorating dollar is stupendous. And it will grow. Thrifty, hard-working people, who have saved a few thousand dollars for a rainy day, are getting restless.

That is one important reason why today on the world's greatest market — the New York Stock Exchange — ten million shares or more are bought and sold every day. The urge on the part of dollar owners to buy values that will protect their money somewhat from inflation causes investors to buy stocks.

Money redeemable in silver that is bringing a big premium in the market is symbolic of what is happening to our social and economic life.

Silver has gone from $1.29 an ounce to about $1.77-$1.80. It has done this in a competitive market.

Gold at $35 an ounce is artificially priced. One of these days, it will burst out of its confinement.

All investors should own some values associated with silver and gold.

Assesses U. S. Posture

Exotic Weapon Hint

Editor's Note — Twenty five years ago the race for the atomic bomb began in Oak Ridge, Tenn. Following is an assessment of America's present nuclear arms posture—and a hint of things to come—given by Atomic Energy Commission and Defense Department officials.

By FRANK CAREY
AP Science Writer

WASHINGTON (AP) — Even as America's weapons makers revamp and improve stockpiled nuclear weapons, work is underway on exotic new types of armament.

Government officials say future objectives include not only the so-called "neutron bomb"—once described as a kind of death-ray weapon—but also pure-fusion weapons that would not require atomic bomb triggers and thus would produce no radioactive fallout.

Get Responses

These and other developments concerning America's present nuclear arms posture came out in response to queries submitted to the Atomic Energy Commission by The Associated Press.

The AEC collaborated with the Defense Department in preparing its answers. AEC Chairman Glenn T. Seaborg and Brig. Gen. Edward B. Giller, director of the AEC's Division of Military Applications, were interviewed separately.

In addition to references to research work on the pure-fusion weapons and the neutron bomb, the AEC's written answers offered these further highlights:

—The American stockpile of "tens of thousands" of individual nuclear weapons includes nuclear antisubmarine rockets, torpedoes and depth charges — weapons that have had little official mention in the past.

—Red China apparently has a "rational, well-organized" nuclear weapons development program—and conceivably could launch an intercontinental ballistic missile test vehicle before

Holds Lead

—The United States still holds an over-all lead in nuclear weapons over the Soviet Union.

Seaborg also referred to that over-all lead, but he cautioned: the end of this year.

"Weapons can become almost obsolete in comparison to those of a potential adversary. And that's why we need to test so frequently. We're rebuilding and re-working our stockpile constantly."

Seaborg also said, without mentioning any particular type of weapon, that the United States has "things on the drawing board that will be the weapons of the future" and "we have some good—yes, some very good—ideas coming along."

Giller said U.S. advances in nuclear weaponry go far beyond the expectations of the pioneer weapon-makers of a quarter-century ago.

A clear implication of Giller's remarks, though, was that the same scale of advance beyond expectations is also true of the Soviet program.

Other highlights of the interviews:

—Giller said the AEC's research weaponeers continue to try to develop "tailored outputs" of so-called conventional nuclear bombs—including continued work on the "neutron bomb."

—The Defense Department, said Giller, has shown interest, for possible military use, in comparatively "clean" nuclear explosive devices—that is, devices relatively low in radioactivity yield— that the AEC has developed from its "Plowshare" program. The latter program is aimed at using nuclear explosives for peaceful uses, such as carving out canals and harbors.

—Seaborg said that, for the present at least, the United States has no plans for further cutbacks in the production of plutonium, a key ingredient of nuclear explosives.

More Combat Men In Replacements

SAIGON (AP) — The 45,000 to 50,000 new U.S. troops ticketed for duty in South Vietnam by early next spring will include a larger percentage of front-line combat men than ever before.

At least 75 per cent of the new troops—probably 20 battalions or more—will be "trigger pullers," it was learned today.

The reason for the increase in combat soldiers is that over the last two years the United States had to build an enormous logistics base as well as help fight the war. The logistics base is now said to be capable of supporting the new combat troops with a proportionately much smaller increase in its own strength.

At the same time, it also was learned that the U.S. Command believes the estimated enemy strength in South Vietnam is perhaps much lower than the 297,000 carried in weekly U.S.headquarters reports over the past several weeks.

It is known that some high-ranking U.S. officers feel the figure is meaningless because it includes at least 57,000 men and women who are political cadres and administrative types.

American intelligence lists 120,000 North Vietnamese and Viet Cong main force units in South Vietnam, plus another 120,000 local guerrillas.

The American command, it is understood, now has a much larger base of solid intelligence, including more documents, better interrogators and more informers. A broad new intelligence analysis of the enemy strength is being made and results are expected to be made public in a month.

The new American forces scheduled for Vietnam will include several helicopter units. The U.S. Command wants to get the new troops into South Vietnam as soon as possible.

There is no target date, but by present reckoning, barring unforeseen logistical problems, all of the new troops can be expected in the country by next March or April instead of July as earlier indicated. One new Army brigade, the 198th Light Infantry, is expected here by the end of this year.

The command now lists 462,000 U.S. troops in South Vietnam, as of the week ending Aug. 26. There are another 69,000 U.S. military men involved in air war operations out of Thailand and Guam and aboard destroyers and cruisers bombarding the North Vietnamese coast, and aboard carrier units in the Gulf of Tonkin.

Report Rampage in Nyack Involving Young Negroes

NYACK, N.Y. (AP) — About 50 young Negroes went on a rampage Tuesday night, setting a number of fires with kerosene firebombs and breaking some windows.

No injuries were reported. Three young men were arrested and charged with disorderly conduct.

Police said they could give no reason for the disturbance, which broke out at about 11 p.m. in a predominantly Negro section on South Franklin Street.

Fire and police departments in neighboring communities were alerted and rushed to the scene. The disorder ended about 2 a.m.

Buildings set ablaze included a lumber yard, restaurant, a warehouse, and a construction trailer at an urban development building site. The fires were put out quickly. No estimate of damage was immediately available.

A window was broken at a liquor store, but no theft was reported.

Sea of Red Goo

OAKLAND, Calif. (AP) — Ripe tomatoes—19½ tons of them —plopped onto a main Oakland street Tuesday, creating a squishy sea of red goo.

The tomatoes were in a pair of 18-foot-long trailers that overturned when the tractor's air brakes failed.

The accident held up traffic on Broadway for two hours while the fire department plowed into the muck with hoses and flushed it away.

Plan Move to Boston

To Close Saugerties Novitiate

The Augustinians of the Assumption, better known as the Assumptionists, will close their novitiate at 48 Spaulding Lane, Saugerties, and move to Boston, Mass., by Sept. 18. Announcement of the change was made today by the Rev. Armand Desautels, AA, provincial superior.

In a statement explaining the move, Father Desautels, "After long and careful deliberation, it has been decided that the spirit of the times as well as the practical needs of the congregation require such a move. The major reason for the move to Boston is to bring together in one community and in a metropolitan area all the young men training for the religious and priestly life in the Assumptionist congregation.

"Until now, the initial training for the religious life was generally given in an area withdrawn from the city. In addition, the Assumptionist major seminarians have been receiving their training for the priesthood in Europe. Finally, young men known as coadjutor brothers, full-fledged religious who do not desire to become priests, often spent several years of their training period in Saugerties. Now, all these men will be together and enjoy the advantages that the city offers for their professional as well as their religious training.

"It is the confident belief of the men in charge of this program, that the concept of greater openness to the world of man will help to produce both better men of God and better servants of the fellow men everywhere. In addition, the new arrangement will also permit an economy in housing and the staffing of houses."

The Assumptionists, about 25 in number, will first take up temporary residence with Society of African Missions in Dedham, Mass., while searching for a permanent home of their own in Boston. The major seminarians will commute to Weston to study theology at the Jesuit-run seminary. The Rev. Edgar Bourque, AA, will continue as superior and master of novices in the new quarters.

Negotiations are in progress for the sale of the Saugerties property.

The Rev. Oliver Blanchette, AA., speaking for the community at Saugerties said that the Assumptionists are not leaving without regret.

He said, "The people of Saugerties have been very kind to us since our arrival in 1954. We want to thank our many friends from every walk of life and from every faith for all they have done for us, and simply for their friendship. May the Lord bless and keep them. We leave Saugerties, but we feel that we depart enriched by the experience of this loyal and sincere friendship and we like to believe that in God's merciful providence, our stay in Saugerties was a source of peace and happiness in the community. Our friends from the Saugerties area will always find a warm welcome, whenever they come to Boston."

On Sunday, Sept. 10, the Assumptionists will be at home from 2 to 5 p. m. to say farewell to any friends who would like to visit them.

Assumptionist priests frequently celebrated Mass in area parishes that were short of priests or had enlarged Mass schedules to accommodate vacationists. They also served on inter-faith ecumenical groups of clergymen in Ulster County.

The brothers taught released time religious education classes in two Saugerties parishes. The community was also active in working with the program of the Office of Economic Opportunity and in visiting and helping the patients at local nursing homes.

The new temporary address of the community will be: Assumptionist Center, 370 Common Street, Dedham, Mass. 02026.

Pope Better, Vatican Says

CASTEL GANDOLFO, Italy (AP) — The Vatican reported today that Pope Paul VI has recovered from the slight illness that struck him Monday.

The 69-year-old pontiff came down Monday with a cold, stomach cramps and fever. His activities for the week were cancelled.

Language Too Much

CHICAGO (AP) — A language barrier proved too much for three bandits Tuesday.

Police said the gunmen tried to force three cleaning men to let them into a North Side restaurant. But the workers, who were cleaning outside the restaurant, were unable to understand because they had arrived recently from Brazil and spoke only Portuguese.

After a brief struggle, the gunmen fled empty handed.

Police were vague about details of the encounter because they, too, were having trouble with the language.

Assesses U. S. Posture

Exotic Weapon Hint

Editor's Note — Twenty five years ago the race for the atomic bomb began in Oak Ridge, Tenn. Following is an assessment of America's present nuclear arms posture—and a hint of things to come—given by Atomic Energy Commission and Defense Department officials.

By FRANK CAREY
AP Science Writer

WASHINGTON (AP) — Even as America's weapons makers revamp and improve stockpiled nuclear weapons, work is underway on exotic new types of armament.

Government officials say future objectives include not only the so-called "neutron bomb"—once described as a kind of death-ray weapon—but also pure-fusion weapons that would not require atomic bomb triggers and thus would produce no radioactive fallout.

Get Responses

These and other developments concerning America's present nuclear arms posture came out in response to queries submitted to the Atomic Energy Commission by The Associated Press.

The AEC collaborated with the Defense Department in preparing its answers. AEC Chairman Glenn T. Seaborg and Brig. Gen. Edward B. Giller, director of the AEC's Division of Military Applications, were interviewed separately.

In addition to references to research work on the pure-fusion weapons and the neutron bomb, the AEC's written answers offered these further highlights:

—The American stockpile of "tens of thousands" of individual nuclear weapons includes nuclear antisubmarine rockets, torpedoes and depth charges — weapons that have had little official mention in the past.

—Red China apparently has a "rational, well-organized" nuclear weapons development program—and conceivably could launch an intercontinental ballistic missile test vehicle before

Holds Lead

—The United States still holds an over-all lead in nuclear weapons over the Soviet Union.

Seaborg also referred to that over-all lead, but he cautioned: the end of this year.

"Weapons can become almost obsolete in comparison to those of a potential adversary. And that's why we need to test so frequently. We're rebuilding and re-working our stockpile constantly."

Seaborg also said, without mentioning any particular type of weapon, that the United States has "things on the drawing board that will be the weapons of the future" and "we have some good—yes, some very good—ideas coming along."

Giller said U.S. advances in nuclear weaponry go far beyond the expectations of the pioneer weapon-makers of a quarter-century ago.

A clear implication of Giller's remarks, though, was that the same scale of advance beyond expectations is also true of the Soviet program.

Other highlights of the interviews:

—Giller said the AEC's research weaponeers continue to try to develop "tailored outputs" of so-called conventional nuclear bombs—including continued work on the "neutron bomb."

—The Defense Department, said Giller, has shown interest, for possible military use, in comparatively "clean" nuclear explosive devices—that is, devices relatively low in radioactivity yield— that the AEC has developed from its "Plowshare" program. The latter program is aimed at using nuclear explosives for peaceful uses, such as carving out canals and harbors.

—Seaborg said that, for the present at least, the United States has no plans for further cutbacks in the production of plutonium, a key ingredient of nuclear explosives.

Peking Faces Another Rejection for Seat in U.N.

By WILLIAM N. OATIS

UNITED NATIONS, N.Y. (AP) — The annual campaign to seat Communist China in the United Nations has not even started yet and its failure is being predicted already.

Request Due Soon

Communist sources said Secretary-General U Thant would get a request from some nonaligned and Communist countries this week that the General Assembly convening Sept. 19 should take up an item titled "Restoration of the Lawful Rights of the People's Republic of China in the United Nations."

Debate on that subject in recent years has always ended with the defeat of a resolution aimed to recognize Peking representatives as "the only lawful representatives of China to the United Nations" and to oust the Chinese Nationalists from all U. N. bodies.

Pro - Nationalist diplomats forecast that it would be voted down by about the same margin as last year.

The margin against the resolution at that time was 57-46, with seven abstentions. That was much better for the Nationalist side than the year before, when a similar resolution failed on a 47-17 tie, with 20 abstentions. The assembly has ruled that a two-thirds vote is needed to make a change.

The United States, a strong supporter of Nationalist China, has angered the Arabs by taking what the Arabs said was a pro-Israeli stand during and after the Israeli-Arab war of last June. Communist China itself has shocked friends and enemies alike with the riots of Mao Tse-tung's Red Guards inside China and out. But indications are that neither factor will count for much in the voting here.

Reports Disproved

One Western diplomat said there had been reports that, to spite the United States, some Arab countries would switch from abstaining to voting for Communist China, but these had been disproved.

Another pro-Nationalist source remarked that the Chinese Reds' backers seemed to stick by them no matter what they did. He said, "India has been in trouble with the Chinese Communists for years and she still keeps working for them."

Analysis shows that how a country votes on the China-seating issue depends not so much on how Peking behaves as on which Chinese government it recognizes, which is the more persuasive in lobbying for its vote and what its traditional position is on the issue.

The Communist sources said Algeria and Cambodia recently drafted a memorandum to explain the case for seating Communist China and circulated it for the approval of the other seven countries that put the question before the 1966 assembly—Albania, the Congo (Brazzaville), Cuba, Guinea, Mali, Romania and Syria.

They said these other countries since had been waiting for their governments' instructions on whether to join in the request again this year. The informants expected that all or nearly all of them would do so.

Mao's Thoughts Evident

Communist China sometimes alleges that the United Nations is merely an instrument for U.S.-Soviet collaboration against the world revolutionary movement. But the fact that her friends keep trying to get her seated here would seem to indicate that U.N. ambitions are not entirely excluded from Mao's thoughts.

A. E. WOOLLEY

Seeks Paltz Demo Approval As Councilman

An educator, journalist, and author of numerous photographic stories and essays that have appeared in American publications as well as many foreign books and magazines, will attempt to capture the Democratic nomination for the office of New Paltz Town Councilman at the party caucus on Saturday at 8 p. m. at the Town Hall.

"My decision to seek the nomination," said A. E. "Al" Woolley, "is based on a long established interest in politics and in my desire to make a contribution to the ever-growing and developing community of New Paltz. This is my home even though I am not a native. There is no community that means as much to me as does this town."

The Democratic hopeful said that he wants to help the town "reach its optimum of potentials," and he adds, "My background in education and in journalism, and the broad range of experiences I have had from the people and places I have met and visited in my travels, have prepared me for the challenging demands that a public service office will make."

"In the roll of Town Councilman," Woolley concluded, "I will constantly seek the most effective, efficient, and economical solution to the problems of government."

Presently the associate director of the Mid-Hudson Regional Center, he is a member of the Methodist Church serving on its official board, a member of Rotary, an active member in the American Society of Magazine Photographers, and a veteran of World War II.

Woolley joined the State University Campus at New Paltz in 1957, and the following year was an associate professor in the Art Department.

Following his departure from the college in 1961, Woolley specialized in photographic journalism for national magazines.

Among the scores of published works produced by the Democrat are such essays as Many Shadowed Lives (a visual story of mental illness), Hong Kong Samaritan (a report on Dr. Jim Turpin and his Project Concern; Almost a Woman (a story about a New Paltz teenager as she turned into young adulthood), Normandy Revisited (a pictorial journey to the D-Day beaches in France on the 20th anniversary of the World War II invasion), and Its Terrible, (a documentary on the drug LSD).

Later this year his photographic report on the country of South Africa will be published.

Marbletown GOP Resumes Fall Schedule

The Marbletown Republican Club will resume monthly meetings Thursday at the American Legion Hall, Route 209, Stone Ridge, at 8 p. m.

The Legion Hall will be utilized for all future meetings.

Fred Meyer, president, said today town and county candidates have been invited to attend the first meeting. Town caucus will be Sept. 9, Meyer reminded members.

Orvil E. Norman, chairman of the picnic committee will present his report on the recent successful club event.

Another pro-Nationalist source remarked that the Chinese Reds' backers seemed to stick by them no matter what they did. He said, "India has been in trouble with the Chinese Communists for years and she still keeps working for them."

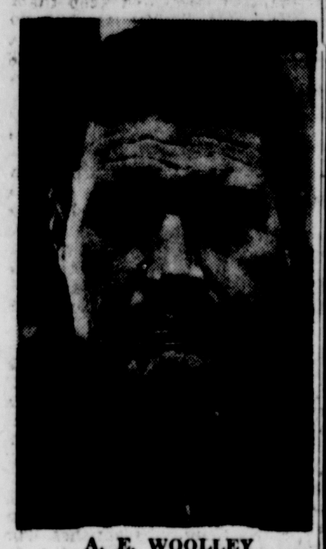
Analysis shows that how a country votes on the China-seating issue depends not so much on how Peking behaves as on which Chinese government it recognizes, which is the more persuasive in lobbying for its vote and what its traditional position is on the issue.

The Communist sources said Algeria and Cambodia recently drafted a memorandum to explain the case for seating Communist China and circulated it for the approval of the other seven countries that put the question before the 1966 assembly—Albania, the Congo (Brazzaville), Cuba, Guinea, Mali, Romania and Syria.

They said these other countries since had been waiting for their governments' instructions on whether to join in the request again this year. The informants expected that all or nearly all of them would do so.

Mao's Thoughts Evident

Communist China sometimes alleges that the United Nations is merely an instrument for U.S.-Soviet collaboration against the world revolutionary movement. But the fact that her friends keep trying to get her seated here would seem to indicate that U.N. ambitions are not entirely excluded from Mao's thoughts.



A. E. WOOLLEY

Seeks Paltz Demo Approval As Councilman

An educator, journalist, and author of numerous photographic stories and essays that have appeared in American publications as well as many foreign books and magazines, will attempt to capture the Democratic nomination for the office of New Paltz Town Councilman at the party caucus on Saturday at 8 p. m. at the Town Hall.

"My decision to seek the nomination," said A. E. "Al" Woolley, "is based on a long established interest in politics and in my desire to make a contribution to the ever-growing and developing community of New Paltz. This is my home even though I am not a native. There is no community that means as much to me as does this town."

The Democratic hopeful said that he wants to help the town "reach its optimum of potentials," and he adds, "My background in education and in journalism, and the broad range of experiences I have had from the people and places I have met and visited in my travels, have prepared me for the challenging demands that a public service office will make."

"In the roll of Town Councilman," Woolley concluded, "I will constantly seek the most effective, efficient, and economical solution to the problems of government."

Presently the associate director of the Mid-Hudson Regional Center, he is a member of the Methodist Church serving on its official board, a member of Rotary, an active member in the American Society of Magazine Photographers, and a veteran of World War II.

Woolley joined the State University Campus at New Paltz in 1957, and the following year was an associate professor in the Art Department.

Following his departure from the college in 1961, Woolley specialized in photographic journalism for national magazines.

Among the scores of published works produced by the Democrat are such essays as Many Shadowed Lives (a visual story of mental illness), Hong Kong Samaritan (a report on Dr. Jim Turpin and his Project Concern; Almost a Woman (a story about a New Paltz teenager as she turned into young adulthood), Normandy Revisited (a pictorial journey to the D-Day beaches in France on the 20th anniversary of the World War II invasion), and Its Terrible, (a documentary on the drug LSD).

Later this year his photographic report on the country of South Africa will be published.

Area Delegates Attend Parley Of Witnesses

"God's intervention in men's affairs is necessary and is now imminent," was the declaration heard by more than 120 persons from the Kingston area as Jehovah's Witnesses climaxed a three-day circuit convention in Troy's RPI Field House Sunday.

Ernest Kidd Jr. of Hurley, presiding minister of the Kingston congregation of Jehovah's Witnesses, said that 1,354 persons were on hand to hear District Minister Paul R. Ruggles deliver the featured public address, Will God Intervene in Men's Affairs?

An assembly highlight was on Saturday when 20 persons became newly ordained ministers of Jehovah's Witnesses.

Throughout the three-day programs of interviews, lectures, stage dramas and a model Ministry Development Class, the delegates representing 17 congregations from eastern New York State received updated training in applying Bible principles to the problems of life and in the field ministry, Kidd said.

School Systems Near Strike

BY THE ASSOCIATED PRESS

The vast school systems of New York City and Detroit moved closer to massive strikes today and empty classrooms in cities across the nation marked the failure of school boards and teachers to agree on issues of salary and educational policy

New York City's United Federation of Teachers rejected what was described as a final proposal from a mediation panel Tuesday only hours after Mayor John V. Lindsay strongly recommended acceptance. The teachers threaten mass resignations on Monday, the first day of school, a move that would affect 1 million pupils.

Detroit's 300,000 pupils, scheduled to go back to school today, stayed home as the opening was put off to Thursday so negotiations could continue between the Board of Education and the Federation of Teachers. Lt. Gov. William Milliken said, "There is no sign of a settlement."

Some 19,000 pupils who trooped to classrooms in other Michigan school districts were sent home Tuesday when their teachers refused to show up without new contracts.

Milliken expected another 74,000 to be sent home today.

By Thursday, he said, the figure could reach 500,000.

About 24,000 pupils in East St. Louis, Ill., were in their second week at home as a teacher boycott closed most classes. Only 300 of the 920 teachers have reported for work.

The Broward County school board in Fort Lauderdale, Fla., decided Tuesday to close its schools until Sept. 25 after members of the Classroom Teachers Association voted Tuesday to submit resignations.

The action by the Fort Lauderdale Teachers came just after Gov. Claude R. Kirk Jr. named a commission to develop a plan for quality education, but said he would not call a special session of the legislature to appropriate more money for education and salaries—as demanded by teacher groups—until the 15-month study is completed.

Teacher-school board disputes also threatened Newport, R.I., Groton, Conn., Randolph, Mass., and McCracken County, Ky., schools. Negro protests troubled schools in Milwaukee, Wis., and Woodville, Miss.

Survey Indicates Nixon Holds Lead

BOSTON (AP) — Richard M. Nixon holds a decided lead for the Republican presidential nomination, and it will take "an impressive showing in primaries" for Michigan Gov. George Romney to overtake him, the Christian Science Monitor reports.

A state-by-state survey shows the former vice president is preferred by political leaders in 28 states with 628 convention delegate votes, the Monitor said Tuesday in a copyright dispatch by Washington correspondent Godfrey Sperling Jr.

By himself, Romney is the preference of Republican leaders in nine states with 254 delegates, the article said, and "only 16 states, that will have 488 delegate votes, are leaning toward the Romney—(New York Gov. Nelson A.) Rockefeller camp, when combined."

The survey added that should Nixon and California Gov. Ronald Reagan, the choice of three states with a potential total of 152 delegates, "combine their forces, there may be no stopping them."

The Monitor said that, despite the Nixon lead, 'It is the opinion of political leaders and GOP professionals in several states that a convention deadlock will ensue."

The article said Sen. Charles E. Percy of Illinois is the most frequently mentioned "dark horse" candidate, closely followed by Reagan.

Students Jailed On Drug Charges

DIXON, Ill. (AP) — John McAndrews, 19, of Orlando, Fla., and Diane Brown, 20, of Alfred, N.Y., were in jail here today on charges of illegal possession of marijuana.

Miss Brown and McAndrews told police they were students at Antioch College in Yellow Springs, Ohio.

The two, who were arrested Monday in a city park, were being held in lieu of $2,000 bond each.

Schiskey Change of Venue Move Possible on Friday

An application for a change of venue in the first degree murder charge against Arthur Wilfred Schiskey could remove the trial from Ulster County Court to another county and before the Supreme Court. William A. Kelly, assigned counsel, on Tuesday before County Judge Raymond J. Mino was given until Friday at 10 a. m. to make such motion.

In Dietz Death

The Schiskey indictment charged the defendant with the death of 72-year-old Herman O. Dietz at his Hasbrouck Avenue Grocery store on the night of Feb. 4. Also by the indictment, Schiskey is charged with second degree murder and robbery in the first degree.

Two Kingston police officers stopped their patrol car at the grocery to investigate when they observed a broken glass in the front door of the small neighborhood store at 448 Hasbrouck Avenue.

The Schiskey case headed the 82 case criminal calendar which was called Tuesday afternoon in County Court by District Attorney Joseph P. Torraca.

Many of the cases will be delayed due to requests for Huntley hearings to determine the admissability of certain evidence.

Other cases were moved to the Youthful Offender calendar after defendants waived their right to jury trial and consented to have their cases disposed of under the Youthful Offender statute.

Other Cases

An assault, second degree, and malicious mischief indictment against Antonio Oyola Santiago, New Paltz, was announced ready for trial by Edward Greene, defense counsel, and was set down for trial at 10 a. m. Thursday. Santiago allegedly assaulted one Louis Bevier and broke windows in the Bevier car.

Judge Mino granted an application by Thomas Saccoman, appearing for William Mullany, in the case of Daniel F. Van Leuvan, 18, to be treated under the Youthful Offender statute. Van Leuven is charged with possession of a dangerous weapon.

Several defendants indicted following narcotic raids, had their cases adjourned to Sept. 13 at 11 a. m.

Pasquale J. Pasqua, charged with third degree burglary, unlawful entry, second degree grand larceny, illegal possession of stolen property, illegal possession of fireworks and illegal possession of burglar tools, will seek an inspection of the grand jury minutes. He was returned from Attica Prison to answer to the charge. T. Rosenberg appeared for defendant. A similar motion is to be made in the case of Samuel Weiss, charged with the same violations.

Michael Frank Lynch, III, who was returned from Comstock Prison for arraignment, entered a plea of not guilty to a charge of burglary, unlawful entry and second degree larceny. William Gruner appeared for defendant.

Assigns Counsel

Judge Mino assigned George Beck as counsel to George Leonard, also known as Mickey Leonard who is charged with second degree grand larceny and conspiracy as a misdemeanor arising out of an affair at the Vineyard Restaurant. The case was adjourned to Sept. 13 at 11 a. m.

George Greenidge, Kingston, who is serving 120 days in jail for a series of traffic violations, had his bail revoked under a third degree burglary, unlawful entry and grand larceny, first degree, indictment. Sherwood E. Davis appeared for Greenidge and said he was ready for trial.

William Hasbrouck entered a plea of guilty to a charge of operating a motor vehicle while in an intoxicated condition as a felony and admitted he had been convicted of drunk driving in Kingston City Court Dec. 2, 1959 while operating a car on Fair Street. The indictment alleged the second offense took place on Feb. 16 last, in Kingston. Imposition of sentence was postponed until Sept. 27, at 11 a. m. Bail was continued.

A charge of criminally receiving stolen property as a felony, and criminally concealing and withholding stolen and wrongfully acquired property as a felony against Ihor Michael Nowakiwskyj, was adjourned to give counsel an opportunity to provide the court with evidence that defendant was unable to appear. It was stated he was in a Jersey City, N. J., hospital with injuries suffered in an automobile accident. Alex Nirenberg is attorney.

Bail Continued

Michael Staccio, 16, was arraigned on a grand larceny, second degree, and unauthorized use of a motor vehicle charge and entered a plea of innocent. Charles Saccoman, attorney for defendant, moved to have defendant treated as a Youthful Offender. Judge Mino reserved. Bail was continued.

In the cases of Giboney Whyte and Thomas L. Blackwell, Woodstock, charged with sale and possession of a narcotic drug and conspiracy to sell narcotics, the case was adjourned to Sept. 13 at 11 a. m. when Attorney G. Wapner announced he was no longer attorney. He will be succeeded by an attorney for the Civil Liberties group.

Kabil Bajramovoc, New York City, who was found guilty of burglary, unlawful entry and second degree grand larceny Dec. 2, 1964, and sentenced to Elmira for a term of not to exceed five years, was back in court. At that time, he and companions were charged with entering a Route 28 restaurant and taking a meat slicing machine. Early in 1965 he went to Elmira. Last week he was released on parole. However, his conviction has been reversed by the Appellate Division which ordered a new trial. Kabil is out of prison after serving his sentence. He wants to go back to Albania to see his folks but he still faces a new trial on the violation for which he has served his sentence. Marshall Lipton, who represented Kabil at the last trial, was assigned to look into the matter and the case was adjourned to Sept. 7 at 10 a. m. and defendant was remanded to jail.

Bowling Lanes Razed in Blaze West of Malone

MOIRA, N.Y. (AP)—An early-morning fire today destroyed a six-lane bowling alley at the Crossroads Restaurant in this North Country hamlet 15 miles west of Malone. Owners estimated the loss at $150,000.

The five occupants of the two-story, stone and frame building escaped without injury, three by jumping from the roof.

Firemen from seven fire departments prevented flames from reaching the restaurant.

They said the fire apparently broke out in a second - floor apartment occupied by the chef, Maurice Jobin, his wife, and two children.

The cause was not determined.

Jobin and a maintenance man, Henry Recore, said they smelled smoke at about 4:30 a.m. They summoned firemen.

Meanwhile, Mrs. Jobin, Mark, 12, and Ann, 15, made their way to the roof. Firemen rescued Mrs. Jobin and the boy. Ann jumped about eight feet to the ground.

The fire was contained in approximately three hours.

Bryce LaVigne of Malone, the restaurant-owner, estimated his building loss at $75,000. Jerry Cervais of Moira, who leased the bowling section, said his loss, including equipment, also would be about $75,000.

The building is at the intersection of Routes 11 and 95.

Targets: New York, Detroit

School Systems Near Strike

By THE ASSOCIATED PRESS

The vast school systems of New York City and Detroit moved closer to massive strikes today and empty classrooms in cities across the nation marked the failure of school boards and teachers to agree on issues of salary and educational policy

New York City's United Federation of Teachers rejected what was described as a final proposal from a mediation panel Tuesday only hours after Mayor John V. Lindsay strongly recommended acceptance. The teachers threaten mass resignations on Monday, the first day of school, a move that would affect 1 million pupils.

Detroit's 300,000 pupils, scheduled to go back to school today, stayed home as the opening was put off to Thursday so negotiations could continue between the Board of Education and the Federation of Teachers. Lt. Gov. William Milliken said, "There is no sign of a settlement."

Some 19,000 pupils who trooped to classrooms in other Michigan school districts were sent home Tuesday when their teachers refused to show up without new contracts.

Milliken expected another 74,000 to be sent home today.

By Thursday, he said, the figure could reach 500,000.

About 24,000 pupils in East St. Louis, Ill., were in their second week at home as a teacher boycott closed most classes. Only 300 of the 920 teachers have reported for work.

The Broward County school board in Fort Lauderdale, Fla., decided Tuesday to close its schools until Sept. 25 after members of the Classroom Teachers Association voted Tuesday to submit resignations.

The action by the Fort Lauderdale Teachers came just after Gov. Claude R. Kirk Jr. named a commission to develop a plan for quality education, but said he would not call a special session of the legislature to appropriate more money for education and salaries—as demanded by teacher groups—until the 15-month study is completed.

Teacher-school board disputes also threatened Newport, R.I., Groton, Conn., Randolph, Mass., and McCracken County, Ky., schools. Negro protests troubled schools in Milwaukee, Wis., and Woodville, Miss.

Survey Indicates Nixon Holds Lead

BOSTON (AP) — Richard M. Nixon holds a decided lead for the Republican presidential nomination, and it will take "an impressive showing in primaries" for Michigan Gov. George Romney to overtake him, the Christian Science Monitor reports.

A state-by-state survey shows the former vice president is preferred by political leaders in 28 states with 628 convention delegate votes, the Monitor said Tuesday in a copyright dispatch by Washington correspondent Godfrey Sperling Jr.

By himself, Romney is the preference of Republican leaders in nine states with 254 delegates, the article said, and "only 16 states, that will have 488 delegate votes, are leaning toward the Romney—(New York Gov. Nelson A.) Rockefeller camp, when combined."

The survey added that should Nixon and California Gov. Ronald Reagan, the choice of three states with a potential total of 152 delegates, "combine their forces, there may be no stopping them."

The Monitor said that, despite the Nixon lead, 'It is the opinion of political leaders and GOP professionals in several states that a convention deadlock will ensue."

The article said Sen. Charles E. Percy of Illinois is the most frequently mentioned "dark horse" candidate, closely followed by Reagan.

Carries Rifle Openly, Ruffles No One

By MIKE NAUER
Rochester Democrat & Chronicle Reporter

ROCHESTER, N.Y. (AP) — For the price of a few cartons of cigarettes, a kook could buy a rifle, load it, walk down Main Street in Rochester and there is little authorities could do until he started shooting.

A Rochester newspaper reporter did that Tuesday except for the shooting. He walked around downtown Rochester for an hour toting the rifle without raising more than three eyeeyebrows.

It began with the purchase of a Russian-made carbine and 20 rounds of ammunition from a local store for $17.75 plus tax. No proof of identification was requested. He was only asked his name.

Then, the reporter, armed with the carbine, which was empty but had the bolt closed, marched toward a shopping plaza for five or six blocks through a throng of afternoon shoppers.

Hundreds of people were passed, but none turned their heads nor commented except for one woman, who asked what kind of rifle it was. Asked if she thought there was anything wrong with a person carrying a rifle downtown, she replied, "No, not at all."

The reporter loitered inside a mall in the heart of the business district for 20 minutes before he was approached by a security guard who commented briefly.

In the course of the afternoon, four policemen were encountered and only one stopped and questioned him.

"Wait a minute," commanded the policeman. "What are you doing with that?"

"Just walking around," the reporter answered.

"Where are you going."

"No where, just walking around town," the reporter said.

"Is that loaded? Why is the bolt closed?"

"What's the matter?" the newsman asked. "Can't I carry this around town if I want to? Is there any law against this?"

"Step over here and let's discuss this," the officer suggested.

The policeman could not cite a specific law prohibiting the carrying of an unloaded or loaded rifle through crowded downtown streets because there is none on the books.

There are statutes governing concealed weapons and loaded firearms in automobiles, but none for the man with the rifle on the street.

Detective Capt. James Cavoti of the Rochester Police Department said he had spent the better part of that morning digging for a law governing this type of situation but said he found none.

Catholic Candidates Strong in Viet Vote

By BARRY KRAMER

SAIGON (AP) — Catholic candidates in South Vietnam's senatorial election surged ahead in returns today, and the nation's 2 million Roman Catholics apparently will have strong representation in the new upper house.

Earlier returns had indicated that supporters of Vice President-elect Nguyen Cao Ky would be in the majority, but lists known to support him are no longer among the top six. Six lists of 10 candidates each will be elected to form the 60-member body.

The latest returns were still incomplete, and although some of the leading tickets are sure winners, others could lose out by the time the final vote is announced.

The leading ticket with a margin insuring victory is led by retired Gen. Tran Van Don, a former minister of defense who was once rumored to be Ky's vice presidential choice when Premier Ky was planning to run for president.

Two other leading tickets are predominantly Roman Catholic, one of South Vietnamese natives and one made up of refugees from North Vietnam. The Southern ticket is led by Nguyen Van Huyen, a civilian member of the national directorate which now helps rule the country.

In all senatorial tickets there is some balance, so the Catholic tickets have a few representatives of other religious or political groups.

Exactly how the new Senate will work with the Thieu-Ky government cannot be forecast now. The Senate slates are not expected to stay together but to split up among blocs just as the assembly has done.

In addition, a 137-member House of Representatives will be elected Oct. 22.

Fumes Fatal

Seek Burglar In Beating of Elderly Woman

TOWANDA, Pa. (AP)—Investigators said today a burglar who virtually shredded the downstairs of a home in a search for loot was responsible for the ferocious beating death of Mrs. Thomas Fitzgerald, 81.

Mrs. Fitzgerald, a widow, was found beatten to death in the kitchen of her home Tuesday. She was wearing the same clothes and coat she wore to church Sunday and policemen said she apparently was killed when she returned from services.

State and city policemen said virtually everything in the down stairs was torn apart. Pictures were pulled off walls, a mattress was ripped to pieces, pockets in clothes were turned out and drawers were dumped on the floor.

Police said Mrs. Fitzgerald may have surprised the burglar and then ran for the door, but was killed before she got outside.

An autopsy Tuesday night showed she had been beaten by a heavy object, such as a pipe or wrench.

Carries Rifle Openly, Ruffles No One

By MIKE NAUER
Rochester Democrat & Chronicle Reporter

ROCHESTER, N.Y. (AP) — For the price of a few cartons of cigarettes, a kook could buy a rifle, load it, walk down Main Street in Rochester and there is little authorities could do until he started shooting.

A Rochester newspaper reporter did that Tuesday except for the shooting. He walked around downtown Rochester for an hour toting the rifle without raising more than three eyebrows.

It began with the purchase of a Russian-made carbine and 20 rounds of ammunition from a local store for $17.75 plus tax. No proof of identification was requested. He was only asked his name.

Then, the reporter, armed with the carbine, which was empty but had the bolt closed, marched toward a shopping plaza for five or six blocks through a throng of afternoon shoppers.

Hundreds of people were passed, but none turned their heads nor commented except for one woman, who asked what kind of rifle it was. Asked if she thought there was anything wrong with a person carrying a rifle downtown, she replied, "No, not at all."

The reporter loitered inside a mall in the heart of the business district for 20 minutes before he was approached by a security guard who commented briefly.

In the course of the afternoon, four policemen were encountered and only one stopped and questioned him.

"Wait a minute," commanded the policeman. "What are you doing with that?"

"Just walking around," the reporter answered.

"Where are you going."

"No where, just walking around town," the reporter said.

"Is that loaded? Why is the bolt closed?"

"What's the matter?" the newsman asked. "Can't I carry this around town if I want to? Is there any law against this?"

"Step over here and let's discuss this," the officer suggested.

The policeman could not cite a specific law prohibiting the carrying of an unloaded or loaded rifle through crowded downtown streets because there is none on the books.

There are statutes governing concealed weapons and loaded firearms in automobiles, but none for the man with the rifle on the street.

Detective Capt. James Cavoti of the Rochester Police Department said he had spent the better part of that morning digging for a law governing this type of situation but said he found none.

Catholic Candidates Strong in Viet Vote

By BARRY KRAMER

SAIGON (AP) — Catholic candidates in South Vietnam's senatorial election surged ahead in returns today, and the nation's 2 million Roman Catholics apparently will have strong representation in the new upper house.

Earlier returns had indicated that supporters of Vice President-elect Nguyen Cao Ky would be in the majority, but lists known to support him are no longer among the top six. Six lists of 10 candidates each will be elected to form the 60-member body.

The latest returns were still incomplete, and although some of the leading tickets are sure winners, others could lose out by the time the final vote is announced.

The leading ticket with a margin insuring victory is led by retired Gen. Tran Van Don, a former minister of defense who was once rumored to be Ky's vice presidential choice when Premier Ky was planning to run for president.

Two other leading tickets are predominantly Roman Catholic, one of South Vietnamese natives and one made up of refugees from North Vietnam. The Southern ticket is led by Nguyen Van Huyen, a civilian member of the national directorate which now helps rule the country.

In all senatorial tickets there is some balance, so the Catholic tickets have a few representatives of other religious or political groups.

Exactly how the new Senate will work with the Thieu-Ky government cannot be forecast now. The Senate slates are not expected to stay together but to split up among blocs just as the assembly has done.

In addition, a 137-member House of Representatives will be elected Oct. 22.

Fumes Fatal

BUFFALO, N.Y. (AP) — James C. Peeler, about 65, died Tuesday when he suffocated from fumes caused by a small fire which burned itself out in the room of a vacant building, medical examiner Arthur G. Elsaesser said.

Seek Burglar In Beating of Elderly Woman

TOWANDA, Pa. (AP)—Investigators said today a burglar who virtually shredded the downstairs of a home in a search for loot was responsible for the ferocious beating death of Mrs. Thomas Fitzgerald, 81.

Mrs. Fitzgerald, a widow, was found beatten to death in the kitchen of her home Tuesday. She was wearing the same clothes and coat she wore to church Sunday and policemen said she apparently was killed when she returned from services.

State and city policemen said virtually everything in the down stairs was torn apart. Pictures were pulled off walls, a mattress was ripped to pieces, pockets in clothes were turned out and drawers were dumped on the floor.

Police said Mrs. Fitzgerald may have surprised the burglar and then ran for the door, but was killed before she got outside.

An autopsy Tuesday night showed she had been beaten by a heavy object, such as a pipe or wrench.

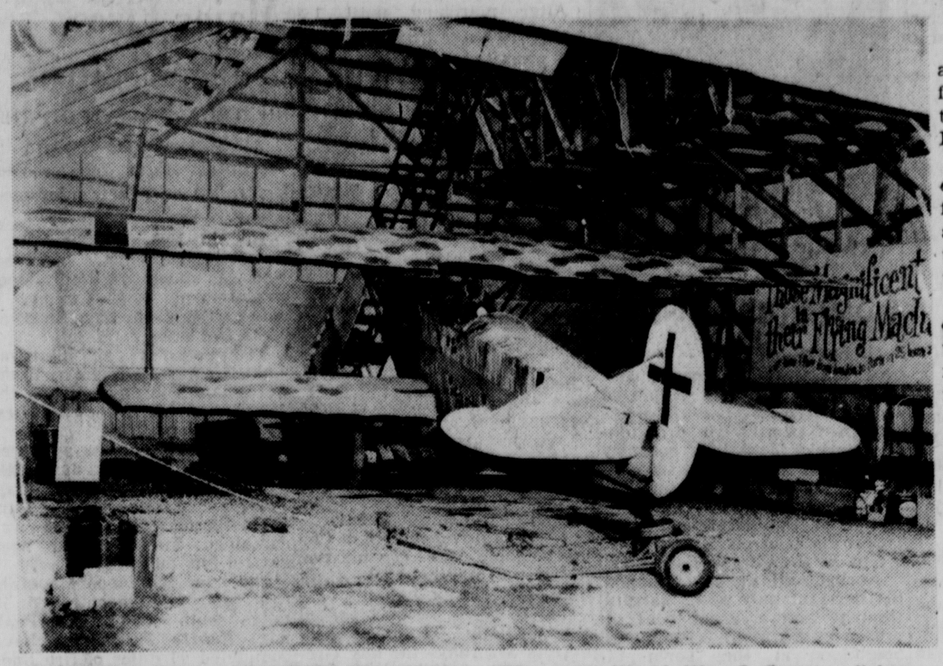
Rhinebeck Aerodrome — Air War Relived



GERMAN WW I FIGHTER—This Fokker VII, a top World War I German fighter plane, 50 years old, is still operational today. (Freeman photo by Kruh)

By RAY TYSON

The stench of the trenches, an exhorbitant price in human flesh and the conflict's duration characterized World War I as an awesome struggle.

Strangely, the most romantic epic of this century emerged from those charred ruins. Man and his plane, locked in immortal battle, were written into the pages of history.

The early machines and the daredevils who piloted them were an odd lot. Later these men would establish America's mail routes, fly the Atlantic in a single sitting, and barnstorm the country for free beer and a few dollars cash.

Resembles A Museum

However, the experience and ccurage that would enable them to pioneer an era were gained over France in clear, blue skies.

Today, across the Hudson, just off Route 9, along the Stone Church Road near Rhinebeck, sits a tiny airstrip. It stands as a memorial to those early fliers and their twin-gunned craft 50 years back.

The Rhinebeck Aerodrome, owned and operated by Cole Palen, resembles a museum more than it does a flying field. It could be mistaken for a museum were it not for the fact that the runway and the vintage planes are operational.

Included in this ancient collection are a Fokker D-VII, a Sopwith "Snipe," a Nieport 28, and an old Bieriot 11, first built in 1909 and used until 1914.

The latter was a French plane used as a trainer for student pilots prior to America's intervention into the war.

The 'Snipe," a British creation, will still fly at its standard 121 mph and is armed with a pair of Vickers machine-guns.

Highly Maneuverable

Likewise, the Fokker has a top speed of 120 mph and is highly maneuverable. It is armed with twin Spandau machine-guns and during World War I the Germans, in one month, shot down 550 allied planes with this same type ship.

Also included in the collection is a Spad 13, capable of the astounding speed of 138 mph, a tremendous accomplishment 50 years ago.

Palen opened his airport in 1958. Ever since he has been building his collection. The last Sunday of every month Palen and several of his friends simulate a 1917 dogfight. The show is thrilling and unusually realistic.

And so 50 years after its end the last traces of a dirty war remain alive and somehow pretty glamorous.

Test New Firefighting Technique In Pacific Northwest Forest Blaze

MISSOULA, Mont. (AP)—Nature has accommodated man this year in the Pacific Northwest by giving him more than 110,000 acres of blazing timber on which to test a new fire fighting tool.

The new tool is a manmade crystal one ten-thousandth of an inch square. It has been tagged by U.S. Forest Service scientists as having the potential of saving several million dollars annually in the nation's fire suppression costs.

Called indium antimonide, the tiny solid-state crystal is the key ingredient in infrared light detection equipment which has been developed into a fire spotting device that can pinpoint a campfire eight miles away. Since its inception in 1962 until this fire season, project "Fire Scan" was tested and redesigned until its capabilities reached a point termed "beyond all expectations" by researchers at the Northern Forest Fire Laboratory in Missoula, Mont.

Stanley Hirsch, project leader in charge of "Fire Scan" research, said an airplane equipped with an infrared detector can scan 3,000 square miles per hour compared with 600 miles per hour coverage by visual air patrol.

"About seven such planes could effectively patrol all the nation's forests," he said. "They would cost a total of $2.8 million, and I believe they would save that much during their first year of operation." He said the Forest Service has an annual fire suppression bill of about $50 million.

Two planes are being operated in the northwest this year. One, a Convair "flying laboratory" equipped with several thousand pounds of equipment, is designed to fly in the wake of thunderstorms and take infrared pictures of fires only minutes old. The other, smaller plane is used to record infrared images of larger fires.

The images are then relayed to ground crews who use them as "maps" to aid in combatting the fires.

"Regular aerial photos seldom do much good," said one fire boss; "and neither do visual reports. Neither man nor camera can see through the thick palls of smoke that hang over these fires. Often we have no idea of a fire's perimeter and just have to fight the flames as we come to them.

"But this new Fire Scan can see right through smoke and clouds. It takes a perfect map of the fire and even registers its intensity at various points."

Bipartisan Nominations Assured Today for Judges Breitel, Jasen

ALBANY, N.Y. (AP) — Republican Charles D. Breitel and Democrat Matthew J. Jasen were assured of bi - partisan nomnations today as the GOP and Democratic state committees gathered here to designate candidates for the state's highest court.

Party leaders had agreed in advance to avoid election contests next November by cross-endorsing nominees for the two openings on the Court of Appeals.

Guaranteed Election

Breitel, a Manhattan resident, already is serving on the high court, through a temporary appointment by Gov. Rockefeller. Jasen has been serving on the State Supreme Court in Buffalo.

Barring any last-minute hitch in the arrangements, Breitel and Jasen thus were guaranteed election to full, 14-year terms on the seven-member tribunal. The judgeships pay $39,500 a year, plus a $6,000 expense allowance.

As further insurance, Breitel and Jasen also can have the Liberal and Conservative party nominations if they want them.

Liberal Chairman Donald S. Harrington said his state committee would endorse Breitel and Jasen at a meeting in New York City on Thursday night.

The Conservatives' vice chairman, Charles E. Rice, said his party would like to give them its nominations if they will accept them.

The Republican - Democratic agreement, not unprecedented for Court of Appeals elections, was worked out primarily by GOP Chairman Charles A. Schoeneck Jr. and his Democratic counterpart, John J. Burns.

Burns said that his state committee's executive committee already had approved the arrangement and that he would so report to the full committee meeting, scheduled to begin at noon in a downtown Albany hotel. He said candidates would appear after their nominations to make acceptance speeches.

Meanwhile, in another hotel two blocks away, Republicans were working on a timetable calling first for executive committee approval, followed by formal nominations by the full committee.

Succeeded Fuld

Breitel, 59, was serving on the State Supreme Court in Manhattan when he was tapped by Rockefeller last December to fill a vacancy created by Associate Judge Stanley H. Fuld's advancement to chief judge. Breitel took office on Jan. 1.

He went to the Supreme Court in 1950, after having served for seven years as counsel to former Gov. Thomas E. Dewey. Breitel previously had been a principal assistant to Dewey during Dewey's days as a racket - busting prosecutor in New York City.

Jasen, 51, will run for the seat be to vacated at year's end by the retirement of Associate Judge John Van Voorhis of Rochester.

Jasen has been serving on the Supreme Court since 1957, first by appointment of former Gov. Averell Harriman, and then by election in his own right. He had served three years previously as a special U.S. judge in Heidelberg, Germany.

Election of the Bretiel - Jasen tandem will restore the Democrats' 4-3 majority on the Court of Appeals. Republicans have had a 4-3 edge since Fuld, a Republican, replaced Democrat Charles S. Desmond as chief judge and Fuld was replaced as associate judge by Brietel.

Although Jasen will be running in place of Van Voorhis, a Republican, the Democrats argued that this only would be fair because Breitel actually was an indirect replacement for Desmond.

APPOINTED—President Johnson yesterday named Ernest Goldstein, 49, former law professor at the University of Texas, as a special assistant. Goldstein, shown at the White House after his appointment was announced, was born in Pittsburgh, Pa. He will assume many of the duties formerly performed by Robert Kitner who resigned from the White House staff earlier this year. (UPI TELEPHOTO)

Air Streamlining

WASHINGTON (AP) — Twenty-one National Guard generals have told Gen. Harold K. Johnson, Army chief of staff, their opinions of a Pentagon plan to streamline the Guard and the Army Reserve.

The conference, the Army says, "proved very useful in obtaining a first-hand understanding of mutual problems" involved in the reorganization plan and "other matters relating to the National Guard."

While not explained, the "other matters" were believed to center on expanded riot control training and other issues springing from criticism of Guard performance during recent rioting in Detroit and other cities.

Warsaw Awaits DeGaulle Visit

WARSAW (AP) — Warsaw streets were decked with the French Tricolor and banners attacking the United States and West Germany in preparation for the arrival today of President Charles de Gaulle on a six-day state visit.

"American aggression in Vietnam threatens world peace," said one banner in French and Polish along De Gaulle's scheduled route.

"Warsaw says 'No' to the militarists and revenge-seekers of Bonn," said another in Victory Square, where the general is to lay a wreath at the tomb of Poland's Unknown Soldier. This sign was left up from last week's 28th anniversary of the German invasion of Poland.

Interest in Warsaw focused on what, if anything, De Gaulle would say about Germany's frontier with Poland and whether he would meet either of Poland's two Roman Catholic cardinals.

It was believed in Warsaw that opposition from Polish officials would rule out a meeting with either Stefan Cardinal Wyszynski, the Polish primate and a frequent antagonist of the Communist government, or Karol Cardinal Wotjila of Krakow.

World News In Brief

Island Power Back

SAN JUAN, P.R. (AP) — Electricity was flowing again to all of Puerto Rico by 9 p.m. Tuesday after a power failure affecting about 60 per cent of Puerto Rico's 2.4 million people.

In three towns the power was out for nine hours.

The failure began just before the noon rush hour and traffic was jammed by the blackout of traffic signals. Some Puerto Ricans were stranded in elevators.

The Water Resources Authority said the failure started in a unit of a thermo-electric substation. The unit was automatically disconnected from the rest of the power system, but demand for electricity on other units became too great and they, too, shut down.

Busman's Holiday

NEW YORK (AP) — Capt. John Treasure Jones has skippered the giant British liner Queen Mary into its Hudson River dock innumerable times, but, until this trip he'd never seen the East River just two miles away across Manhattan Island.

While 3,000 sightseers took advantage of their last chance to tour the 81,237-ton luxury vessel, Capt. Treasure Jones and his wife went for some sightseeing of their own.

They took one of the tiny Circle Line boats and cruised all around Manhattan Island Tuesday. Because of the courtesy of the sea, they didn't have to buy the $2.75 tickets.

The Queen Mary will be retired in October and serve Long Beach, Calif., as a combination hotel and convention Hall. She was on her next-to-last visit to New York, but next time will not be open to the public.

In Fair Condition

Howard Fortin, 16, of 7 Cedar Street, who was injured in a traffic accident Sunday on Route 32 near Glasco, was reported in fair condition today at Benedictine Hospital. It was said he suffered fractures of both legs and lacerations.

Middie Girl Charges Rape In Central Park

NEW YORK (AP) A 15-year-old girl, who said she was married to a 19-year-old boy she knows only as "The Poet" in a "flower ceremony," told police she was raped and the young man stomped unconscious in Central Park early today.

Police discovered the hippie couple about 2:30 a.m. and rushed them to Roosevelt Hospital where "The Poet" was in critical condition. The girl, identified only as being from Middletown, N.Y., because of her age, was treated for shock.

She told detectives that a patrolman had ordered them out of the park about 1 a.m. but that they had returned and fallen asleep at the Sheep Meadow, not far from the Tavern-on-the-Green restaurant.

The girl said she was awakened shortly after 2 a.m. by her friend's cries. Then two men grabbed her and took her to The Mall in the park where, she told police, she was assaulted.

Her screams attracted patrolmen whom she led back to "The Poet." The youth was unconscious, apparently from a stomping, police said. No identification was found on him.

There is a midnight curfew at the park, established years ago after nightime incidents there and at other parks.

HAROLD T. ATKINS

Seeks Ulster Collector Post

A former special officer of the Kingston Police Department and currently employed by the Needes-Arrow Express Company as a freight dispatcher, Harold T. Atkins recently announced that he will attempt to capture the nomination for tax collector for the Town of Ulster at the Republican caucus to be held on Saturday at 7 p.m. at the Chamber's School.

Atkins said that he reached his decision only after careful thought and a great deal of urging by his many friends and neighbors in the Town of Ulster.

Employed for the last 32 years by Needes-Arrow, and a member of International Teamsters Union Local 445, Atkins has been active for many years in the town Republican Club.

The nomination hopeful pledged that, if elected, he will do "all in (his) power to facilitate ease in tax payments," and he added that he will "always be available in (his) home for the collection of taxes."

Atkins has resided on Lay Street for the past 22 years with his wife, the former Betty Reilly.

NEW YORK (AP) — Four Japanese destroyers arrived in New York harbor Tuesday for a four-day stay—the first visit to the city by a Japanese training squadron since 1936.

Negroes Continue Marathon March

MILWAUKEE, Wis. (AP) — Negro demonstrators pushed their marathon marching past the 100-mile mark early today and promised to keep on walking until the city delivers an open-housing code.

After marching until 1:30 a.m., the marchers disbanded but promised to regroup within hours for a daytime demonstration in the business district.

For the second straight day, demonstration leaders, the Rev. James E. Groppi and Negro comedian Dick Gregory, suggested that Negro youths join the march instead of going to school.

Milwaukee school attendance on opening day Tuesday was 2350 students below the number in school on the first day of school last year. The decline was particularly sharp in schools in the Inner Core where most of Milwaukee's 86,000 Negroes live.

"We just walked from Milwaukee to Chicago," said Prentice McKinney, one of the young leaders of the Milwaukee Youth Council of the National Association for the Advancement of Colored People, the organization behind the marches. "We want to go to California, baby."

The marches, which turned into virtually 'round-the-clock protests Saturday—the day Gregory began participating— are designed to wear down resistance to a city code that would bar discrimination in the sale or rental of housing.

Four times in the past, the Common Council has rejected by an 181-1 vote such an ordinance. Each time Vel Phillips, the only Negro council member, cast the only affirmative vote.

The council refused to reconsider the proposal Tuesday despite a march on City Hall led by Father Groppi, a white Roman Catholic priest.

Major Fires Under Control

By THE ASSOCIATED PRESS

All major forest fires in the Northwest states were reported controlled or near containment today.

But in British Columbia, a new 10,000-acre blaze burst out and was uncontrolled on a steep mountainside near Lumby, 50 miles south of the huge Shuswap Lake fire area.

Temperatures at Shuswap Lake dropped as much as 23 degrees late Tuesday, slowing the 45,000-acre blaze for the first time in two weeks.

North Idaho crews appeared to be winning their 25-day battle against the 16,500-acre Trapper Peak fire 10 miles south of Canada's border. The blaze was contained Tuesday and near control this morning.

The huge Sundance Mountain fire was still uncontrolled 18 miles south of Trapper Peak line. Nearly 2,000 men have completed 40 miles of fire lines and containment is expected by Thursday, barring heavy winds.

Officials hoped the blaze could be controlled by next week.

In Montana, the 2,000-acre Glacier Wall fire in Glacier National Park was near control. No other major fires were reported.

Bipartisan Nominations Assured Today for Judges Breitel, Jasen

ALBANY, N.Y. (AP) — Republican Charles D. Breitel and Democrat Matthew J. Jasen were assured of bi - partisan nomnations today as the GOP and Democratic state committees gathered here to designate candidates for the state's highest court.

Party leaders had agreed in advance to avoid election contests next November by cross-endorsing nominees for the two openings on the Court of Appeals.

Guaranteed Election

Breitel, a Manhattan resident, already is serving on the high court, through a temporary appointment by Gov. Rockefeller. Jasen has been serving on the State Supreme Court in Buffalo.

Barring any last-minute hitch in the arrangements, Breitel and Jasen thus were guaranteed election to full, 14-year terms on the seven-member tribunal. The judgeships pay $39,500 a year, plus a $6,000 expense allowance.

As further insurance, Breitel and Jasen also can have the Liberal and Conservative party nominations if they want them.

Liberal Chairman Donald S. Harrington said his state committee would endorse Breitel and Jasen at a meeting in New York City on Thursday night.

The Conservatives' vice chairman, Charles E. Rice, said his party would like to give them its nominations if they will accept them.

The Republican - Democratic agreement, not unprecedented for Court of Appeals elections, was worked out primarily by GOP Chairman Charles A. Schoeneck Jr. and his Democratic counterpart, John J. Burns.

Burns said that his state committee's executive committee already had approved the arrangement and that he would so report to the full committee meeting, scheduled to begin at noon in a downtown Albany hotel. He said candidates would appear after their nominations to make acceptance speeches.

Meanwhile, in another hotel two blocks away, Republicans were working on a timetable calling first for executive committee approval, followed by formal nominations by the full committee.

Succeeded Fuld

Breitel, 59, was serving on the State Supreme Court in Manhattan when he was tapped by Rockefeller last December to fill a vacancy created by Associate Judge Stanley H. Fuld's advancement to chief judge. Breitel took office on Jan. 1.

He went to the Supreme Court in 1950, after having served for seven years as counsel to former Gov. Thomas E. Dewey. Breitel previously had been a principal assistant to Dewey during Dewey's days as a racket - busting prosecutor in New York City.

Jasen, 51, will run for the seat be to vacated at year's end by the retirement of Associate Judge John Van Voorhis of Rochester.

Jasen has been serving on the Supreme Court since 1957, first by appointment of former Gov. Averell Harriman, and then by election in his own right. He had served three years previously as a special U.S. judge in Heidelberg, Germany.

Election of the Breitel - Jasen tandem will restore the Democrats' 4-3 majority on the Court of Appeals. Republicans have had a 4-3 edge since Fuld, a Republican, replaced Democrat Charles S. Desmond as chief judge and Fuld was replaced as associate judge by Brietel.

Although Jasen will be running in place of Van Voorhis, a Republican, the Democrats argued that this only would be fair because Breitel actually was an indirect replacement for Desmond.

APPOINTED—President Johnson yesterday named Ernest Goldstein, 49, former law professor at the University of Texas, as a special assistant. Goldstein, shown at the White House after his appointment was announced, was born in Pittsburgh, Pa. He will assume many of the duties formerly performed by Robert Kitner who resigned from the White House staff earlier this year. (UPI TELEPHOTO)

Air Streamlining

WASHINGTON (AP) — Twenty-one National Guard generals have told Gen. Harold K. Johnson, Army chief of staff, their opinions of a Pentagon plan to streamline the Guard and the Army Reserve.

The conference, the Army says, "proved very useful in obtaining a first-hand understanding of mutual problems" involved in the reorganization plan and "other matters relating to the National Guard."

While not explained, the "other matters" were believed to center on expanded riot control training and other issues springing from criticism of Guard performance during recent rioting in Detroit and other cities.

Warsaw Awaits DeGaulle Visit

WARSAW (AP) — Warsaw streets were decked with the French Tricolor and banners attacking the United States and West Germany in preparation for the arrival today of President Charles de Gaulle on a six-day state visit.

"American aggression in Vietnam threatens world peace," said one banner in French and Polish along De Gaulle's scheduled route.

"Warsaw says 'No' to the militarists and revenge-seekers of Bonn," said another in Victory Square, where the general is to lay a wreath at the tomb of Poland's Unknown Soldier. This sign was left up from last week's 28th anniversary of the German invasion of Poland.

Interest in Warsaw focused on what, if anything, De Gaulle would say about Germany's frontier with Poland and whether he would meet either of Poland's two Roman Catholic cardinals.

It was believed in Warsaw that opposition from Polish officials would rule out a meeting with either Stefan Cardinal Wyszynski, the Polish primate and a frequent antagonist of the Communist government, or Karol Cardinal Wotjila of Krakow.

World News In Brief

Island Power Back

SAN JUAN, P.R. (AP) — Electricity was flowing again to all of Puerto Rico by 9 p.m. Tuesday after a power failure affecting about 60 per cent of Puerto Rico's 2.4 million people.

In three towns the power was out for nine hours.

The failure began just before the noon rush hour and traffic was jammed by the blackout of traffic signals. Some Puerto Ricans were stranded in elevators.

The Water Resources Authority said the failure started in a unit of a thermo-electric substation. The unit was automatically disconnected from the rest of the power system, but demand for electricity on other units became too great and they, too, shut down.

Busman's Holiday

NEW YORK (AP) — Capt. John Treasure Jones has skippered the giant British liner Queen Mary into its Hudson River dock innumerable times, but, until this trip he'd never seen the East River just two miles away across Manhattan Island.

While 3,000 sightseers took advantage of their last chance to tour the 81,237-ton luxury vessel, Capt. Treasure Jones and his wife went for some sightseeing of their own.

They took one of the tiny Circle Line boats and cruised all around Manhattan Island Tuesday. Because of the courtesy of the sea, they didn't have to buy the $2.75 tickets.

The Queen Mary will be retired in October and serve Long Beach, Calif., as a combination hotel and convention Hall. She was on her next-to-last visit to New York, but next time will not be open to the public.

MRS. ROBERT F. LONGFIELD JR.
(Photo Workshop)

Miss Bernadette Marie Foley Weds Robert F. Longfield Jr., Saturday

St. Joseph's Church, New Paltz, was the setting Saturday, Sept. 2, for the wedding of Miss Bernadette Marie Foley, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Joseph Peter Foley Sr., 58 North Chestnut Street, New Paltz, to Robert F. Longfield Jr., son of Mr. and Mrs. Robert F. Longfield Sr., 18 Jansen Road, New Paltz.

The Rev. Michael Gilleece of Our Lady of Lourdes High School, Poughkeepsie, performed the double ring ceremony. Baskets of white gladioli and daisies decorated the altar and palm trees served as a background.

Given in marriage by her father, the bride wore an empire gown of white dotted swiss over peau de soie accented with short puffed sleeves appliqued with daisies. A large bow held a matching chapel length train. Her cathedral length silk illusion veil was held in place by tiny buds of stephanotis. She carried a nosegay of stephonotis and daisies with white satin streamers.

Miss Elizabeth Ann Foley, New Paltz, was maid of honor for her sister. She wore a white dotted swiss over yellow peau de soie floor length gown. The empire bodice featured a square neckline front and back and had short puffed sleeves. She carried a large arm bouquet of white daisies and wore a cluster of white daisies as her headpiece.

Attendants were Mrs. Herbert Van Valkenburgh, New Paltz, Mrs. Thomas Brinckerhoff, New Paltz, Miss Victoria Gany, Rego Park, L. I. Their gowns were styled identically to that of the maid of honor. They carried arm bouquets of yellow daisies and wore a cluster of yellow daisies as their headpieces.

The Misses Patricia Ann, Mary Denise and Barbara Lee Foley, daughters of Mr. and Mrs. Joseph P. Foley Jr., Peekskill, nieces of the bride, and Mary Elizabeth Pavelchak, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. J. Pavelchak, Dewitt, N. Y., served as flower girls. Their gowns were identical in styling to the other attendants. They wore crowns of yellow daisies and carried nosegays of yellow daisies.

William and Joseph P. Foley III, sons of Mr. and Mrs. Joseph P. Foley Jr., Peekskill, nephews of the bride, served on the altar.

Roger N. Longfield, brother of the bridegroom, New Paltz, was best man. Groomsmen were Herbert VanValkenburgh, New Paltz, Carl Reed, Rochester, and George Bond Jr., Narragansett, R. I. Ushers were Joseph P. Foley Jr., brother of the bride, Peekskill, and J. Pavelchak, brother-in-law of the bride, Dewitt.

After the wedding a reception for 150 guests was held at the Governor Clinton Hotel, this city.

For her wedding trip the bride selected a yellow linen coat-dress ensemble with brown alligator accessories.

The bride, a graduate of Our Lady of Lourdes High School, attended State University at New Paltz where she is a member of Clionian Sorority, and attended Florida State University, Tallahassee, Fla.

Her husband, an alumnus of New Paltz Central High School and Syracuse University, will attend Harvard School of Design, Cambridge, Mass.

Mr. and Mrs. Longfield will reside at Cambridge, Mass.

Doing the Right Thing

WHAT TO DO WITH THE APPETIZER KNIFE

Dear Mrs. Post: My husband and I are always debating this question. If your appetizer is one that must be cut with a knife, such as herring, should you leave the used knife on the plate to be removed, or should you keep it? It doesn't seem correct to place a used knife on the tablecloth and yet, if the knife is taken away with the dish, we find we must always ask for a new one. I sincerly hope you will solve this small eating problem for me. — Diana G.

Dear Diana: This is a small problem but one that has puzzled many people. The only solution is to put your knife on the plate to be removed, and request another. One would hope that restaurants who offer appetizers which may require a knife would place two on the table, but it is not correct to soil the tablecloth by laying the used knife on it, and there is no other way to handle the situation.

Cheers for Boy Who Admits His Guilt

Dear Mrs. Post: The other day a seven year old neighbor boy accidentally broke our dining room window. He nervously came to the door by himself to admit his guilt and to offer to pay for the damage. The bill came to approximately 30 dollars. I admire the little fellow for just "confessing," and I hesitate to present him or his parents with this bill. What is the proper method of taking care of such a situation?—Mrs. Grimes

Dear Mrs. Grimes: Good for the little boy who had the good manners to confess his sin. However, this does not mean that you should be obliged to pay the cost of repairing the window which he broke. I suggest you should call his parents, compliment them on their son's behavior and ask them over for a cup of coffee to discuss the arrangements and cost for replacing the window.

MRS. ROBERT F. LONGFIELD JR.
(Photo Workshop)

Miss Bernadette Marie Foley Weds Robert F. Longfield Jr., Saturday

St. Joseph's Church, New Paltz, was the setting Saturday, Sept. 2, for the wedding of Miss Bernadette Marie Foley, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Joseph Peter Foley Sr., 58 North Chestnut Street, New Paltz, to Robert F. Longfield Jr., son of Mr. and Mrs. Robert F. Longfield Sr., 18 Jansen Road, New Paltz.

The Rev. Michael Gilleece of Our Lady of Lourdes High School, Poughkeepsie, performed the double ring ceremony. Baskets of white gladioli and daisies decorated the altar and palm trees served as a background.

Given in marriage by her father, the bride wore an empire gown of white dotted swiss over peau de soie accented with short puffed sleeves appliqued with daisies. A large bow held a matching chapel length train. Her cathedral length silk illusion veil was held in place by tiny buds of stephanotis. She carried a nosegay of stephonotis and daisies with white satin streamers.

Miss Elizabeth Ann Foley, New Paltz, was maid of honor for her sister. She wore a white dotted swiss over yellow peau de soie floor length gown. The empire bodice featured a square neckline front and back and had short puffed sleeves. She carried a large arm bouquet of white daisies and wore a cluster of white daisies as her headpiece.

Attendants were Mrs. Herbert Van Valkenburgh, New Paltz, Mrs. Thomas Brinckerhoff, New Paltz, Miss Victoria Gany, Rego Park, L. I. Their gowns were styled identically to that of the maid of honor. They carried arm bouquets of yellow daisies and wore a cluster of yellow daisies as their headpieces.

Pavelchak, Dewitt, N. Y., served as flower girls. Their gowns were identical in styling to the other attendants. They wore crowns of yellow daisies and carried nosegays of yellow daisies.

William and Joseph P. Foley III, sons of Mr. and Mrs. Joseph P. Foley Jr., Peekskill, nephews of the bride, served on the altar.

Roger N. Longfield, brother of the bridegroom, New Paltz, was best man. Groomsmen were Herbert VanValkenburgh, New Paltz, Carl Reed, Rochester, and George Bond Jr., Narragansett, R. I. Doing the Right Thing

WHAT TO DO WITH THE APPETIZER KNIFE

Dear Mrs. Post: My husband and I are always debating this question. If your appetizer is one that must be cut with a knife, such as herring, should you leave the used knife on the plate to be removed, or should you keep it? It doesn't seem correct to place a used knife on the tablecloth and yet, if the knife is taken away with the dish, we find we must always ask for a new one. I sincerly hope you will solve this small eating problem for me. — Diana G.

Dear Diana: This is a small problem but one that has puzzled many people. The only solution is to put your knife on the plate to be removed, and request another. One would hope that restaurants who offer appetizers which may require a knife would place two on the table, but it is not correct to soil the tablecloth by laying the used knife on it, and there is no other way to handle the situation.

Cheers for Boy Who Admits His Guilt

Dear Mrs. Post: The other day a seven year old neighbor boy accidentally broke our dining room window. He nervously came to the door by himself to admit his guilt and to offer to pay for the damage. The bill came to approximately 30 dollars. I admire the little fellow for just "confessing," and I hesitate to present him or his parents with this bill. What is the proper method of taking care of such a situation?—Mrs. Grimes

Dear Mrs. Grimes: Good for the little boy who had the good manners to confess his sin. However, this does not mean that you should be obliged to pay the cost of repairing the window which he broke. I suggest you should call his parents, compliment them on their son's behavior and ask them over for a cup of coffee to discuss the arrangements and cost for replacing the window.

Youngsters Like Old-Fashioned Parties

Their teen-aged brothers and sisters may be turned on by psychedilly parties with jangling sound and Martian lighting effects, but youngsters ready for their first year in school will take parties topped with old-fashioned food and fun.

Except for the back-to-school crowd whose parents turn them loose in a catered atmosphere, with hired clowns and a merry-go-round, the young men and women still enjoy pin-the-tail-on-the-donkey or a round of musical chairs.

Key to success is activity. The mothers who plan a short party, chockful with prizes for everyone and plenty to eat know their offspring.

Keep a party simple. Uncomplicated foods, familiar games and decorations don't overwhelm anyone concerned. The arrangement also helps the hostess duck a cleanup headache.

And the hostess isn't bossy if she sees that the games are thoroughly supervised. She is wise. Even normally gregarious children will sit around, looking at their shoe tops, if not guided into a game.

A back-to-school party is ideal for youngsters to renew acquaintances since most will have been apart at least some weeks in the summer. It also is a good time for a new family to ease their youngsters' back-to-school worries by meeting a few of the future classmates at a party.

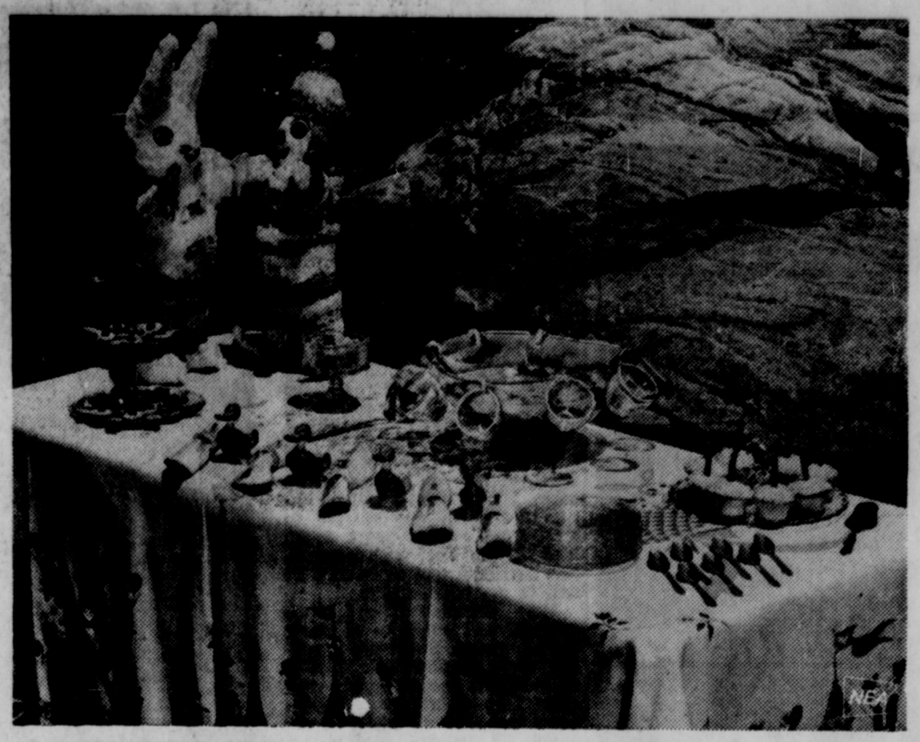
Generally, parties are most successful if the sexes are segregated. The young boys like to have their little friends to a party and the young girls like to entertain their future gossip mates.

If gifts are part of the events, set a low price so no child will feel slighted at the value of the toy or clothing he gets. For games, try to spread the prizes around and send everyone home with a favor.

One way to distribute favors also provides table decorations for the snacks. These are pinta figures stuffed with candies or small toys. Generally these are broken open as part of the game. Another favor dispenser could be a large paper bag, decorated like a clown or pupil with dunce cap and filled with gifts. The child with a lucky number under his plate gets to break it open.

One mother used her storybook bedspread on a table outdoors to set the party theme and added papier mache pintas and azure blue crystal figurines, all set on saw horses and a plywood support.

(Newspaper Enterprise Assn.)



BACK-TO-SCHOOL PARTY setting starts with a table of saw horses and plywood support. Tablecloth is a storybook balloon bedspread. More formal setting to start the youngsters on their way includes a punch bowl, duck figures, handled tidbit tray, crystal luncheon tray and salad plates. Pinatas of papier mache contain small favors for all at the party. Setting designed by Fostoria.

HIGH FASHION is filtering down to the middle-class masses. As a sign of the changing times, the famous designers of Paris are opening ready-to-wear shops. These two fashions are from the boutique collection of Yves Saint Laurent and are inspired by Haute Couture. (UPI TELEPHOTO)

Mrs. Jack Clair Returns From Italy

This past summer, Mrs. Jack Clair, member of the teaching faculty at Onteora Central School, West Hurley, visited some of her old favorite cities of Italy and Greece. Her sister, Mrs. Richard Gilkeson of Albany, accompanied her on the Mediterranean cruise which included stops at Athens, Venice, Florence, Rome, Milan, Como and Lago Maggiore in North Italy.

Particularly interesting to see was the wonderful work of restoration in Florence, Mrs. Clair told the Freeman woman's page editor, although damage to some of its priceless treasures is great.

Mrs. Clair said her summer was most exciting "because the spectacular beauty of the Italian lakes plus the likewise spectacular beauty of Italy's great works of art are very tremendous."

Enroute home, Mrs. Clair and her sister visited Barcelona, Spain and Lisbon, Portugal.

Mrs. Clair spends the summer aboard every year. During the fall and winter she is called upon by clubs and organizations to give lecture-slide programs.

A New Look for School Togs

By HELEN HENNESSY
NEA Women's Editor

NEW YORK — (NEA) — Durability is still a prime requisite for school clothes. But the drab, serviceable look will be gone this fall.

Permanent press, new knits and easy-care fabrics will make it possible for classrooms to sparkle with bright color, prints, checks and stripes that mom can wash in minutes. And the ironing board need seldom rear its ugly head.

Back-to-school colors include earthy brown, red, orange and gold in the desert family. Borrowed from the Far East are fuschia, hot pink and bright purple. In the blue-green group there are teal, emerald, moss and forest green.

The new interest in the military look also gives impetus to navy, khaki and olive. And these are often combined with the bright oranges, golds and reds.

Old reliable corduroy in various wale widths now makes news in stripes and prints.

The menswear look in glen plaid, chalk stripes, pin stripes and district checks will be big favorites also.

Permanent press, the process that eliminates ironing and is every mother's dream story, has more to offer than ever before. Polyester and cotton blends in gay prints, bright solids and plaids allow an even greater selection than last season of good-looking school clothes.

Every silhouette available to mom for fall is on hand for her offsprings' return to the halls of ivy.

First there is the return of the belt — high up, low down or right at the waist. There is the free-flowing tent as well as the body fit and flare line. And the trim, slim shape still remains strong on the scene.

Pantdresses are found in a bevy of fabrics. Some have matching shortie pants. Others, all in one, zip down the front for easy wearability.

All told, this fall will usher a fresh new look into schoolrooms everywhere. If the kids aren't any brighter than last semester's group, at least they will look bright.

(Newspaper Enterprise Assn.)

Bridge Results

The Glenerie Bridge Club held its regular fractional point game at the Elks Club and played 28 boards in a Mitchell movement.

On the North-South side Miss Dorothy Maroon and Dr. Habeeb Maroon of Kingston took first place.

On the East-West side, Mr. and Mrs. James Brandon of Wappingers Falls took top spot.

On the North-South side, second place went to Miss Rosemary Olivet and Mrs. John Olivet of Kingston; third place was taken by Mr. and Mrs. James Cavin of Kingston.

On the East-West side,second place went to Mrs. I. H. Wheatcroft and Thomas Baggot of Kingston; third spot was taken by Mr. and Mrs. C. Russell Edwards of Kingston.

Youngsters Like Old-Fashioned Parties

Their teen-aged brothers and sisters may be turned on by psychedilly parties with jangling sound and Martian lighting effects, but youngsters ready for their first year in school will take parties topped with old-fashioned food and fun.

Except for the back-to-school crowd whose parents turn them loose in a catered atmosphere, with hired clowns and a merry-go-round, the young men and women still enjoy pin-the-tail-on-the-donkey or a round of musical chairs.

Key to success is activity. The mothers who plan a short party, chockful with prizes for everyone and plenty to eat know their offspring.

Keep a party simple. Uncomplicated foods, familiar games and decorations don't overwhelm anyone concerned. The arrangement also helps the hostess duck a cleanup headache.

And the hostess isn't bossy if she sees that the games are thoroughly supervised. She is wise. Even normally gregarious children will sit around, looking at their shoe tops, if not guided into a game.

A back-to-school party is ideal for youngsters to renew acquaintances since most will have been apart at least some weeks in the summer. It also is a good time for a new family to ease their youngsters' back-to-school worries by meeting a few of the future classmates at a party.

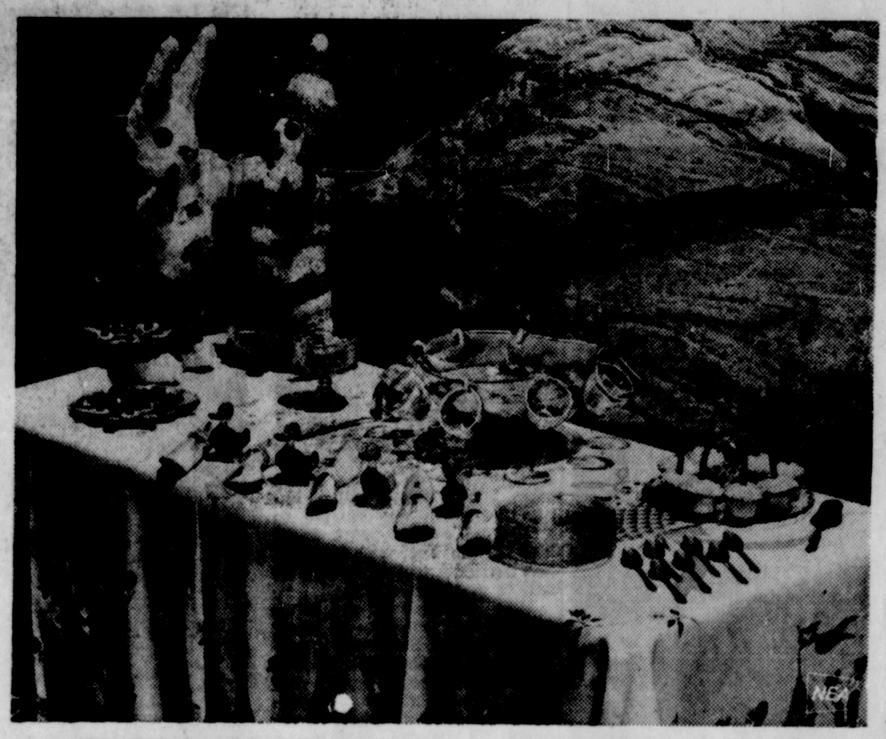
Generally, parties are most successful if the sexes are segregated. The young boys like to have their little friends to a party and the young girls like to entertain their future gossip mates.

If gifts are part of the events, set a low price so no child will feel slighted at the value of the toy or clothing he gets. For games, try to spread the prizes around and send everyone home with a favor.

One way to distribute favors also provides table decorations for the snacks. These are pinta figures stuffed with candies or small toys. Generally these are broken open as part of the game. Another favor dispenser could be a large paper bag, decorated like a clown or pupil with dunce cap and filled with gifts. The child with a lucky number under his plate gets to break it open.

One mother used her storybook bedspread on a table outdoors to set the party theme and added papier mache pintas and azure blue crystal figurines, all set on saw horses and a plywood support.

(Newspaper Enterprise Assn.)



BACK-TO-SCHOOL PARTY setting starts with a table of saw horses and plywood support. Tablecloth is a storybook balloon bedspread. More formal setting to start the youngsters on their way includes a punch bowl, duck figures, handled tidbit tray, crystal luncheon tray and salad plates. Pinatas of papier mache contain small favors for all at the party. Setting designed by Fostoria.

HIGH FASHION is filtering down to the middle-class masses. As a sign of the changing times, the famous designers of Paris are opening ready-to-wear shops. These two fashions are from the boutique collection of Yves Saint Laurent and are inspired by Haute Couture. (UPI TELEPHOTO)

Mrs. Jack Clair Returns From Italy

This past summer, Mrs. Jack Clair, member of the teaching faculty at Onteora Central School, West Hurley, visited some of her old favorite cities of Italy and Greece. Her sister, Mrs. Richard Gilkeson of Albany, accompanied her on the Mediterranean cruise which included stops at Athens, Venice, Florence, Rome, Milan, Como and Lago Maggiore in North Italy.

Particularly interesting to see was the wonderful work of restoration in Florence, Mrs. Clair told the Freeman woman's page editor, although damage to some of its priceless treasures is great.

Mrs. Clair said her summer was most exciting "because the spectacular beauty of the Italian lakes plus the likewise spectacular beauty of Italy's great works of art are very tremendous."

Enroute home, Mrs. Clair and her sister visited Barcelona, Spain and Lisbon, Portugal.

Mrs. Clair spends the summer aboard every year. During the fall and winter she is called upon by clubs and organizations to give lecture-slide programs.

A New Look for School Togs

By HELEN HENNESSY
NEA Women's Editor

NEW YORK — (NEA) — Durability is still a prime requisite for school clothes. But the drab, serviceable look will be gone this fall.

Permanent press, new knits and easy-care fabrics will make it possible for classrooms to sparkle with bright color, prints, checks and stripes that mom can wash in minutes. And the ironing board need seldom rear its ugly head.

Back-to-school colors include earthy brown, red, orange and gold in the desert family. Borrowed from the Far East are fuschia, hot pink and bright purple. In the blue-green group there are teal, emerald, moss and forest green.

The new interest in the military look also gives impetus to navy, khaki and olive. And these are often combined with the bright oranges, golds and reds.

Old reliable corduroy in various wale widths now makes news in stripes and prints.

The menswear look in glen plaid, chalk stripes, pin stripes and district checks will be big favorites also.

Permanent press, the process that eliminates ironing and is every mother's dream story, has more to offer than ever before. Polyester and cotton blends in gay prints, bright solids and plaids allow an even greater selection than last season of good-looking school clothes.

Every silhouette available to mom for fall is on hand for her offsprings' return to the halls of ivy.

First there is the return of the belt — high up, low down or right at the waist. There is the free-flowing tent as well as the body fit and flare line. And the trim, slim shape still remains strong on the scene.

Pantdresses are found in a bevy of fabrics. Some have matching shortie pants. Others, all in one, zip down the front for easy wearability.

All told, this fall will usher a fresh new look into schoolrooms everywhere. If the kids aren't any brighter than last semester's group, at least they will look bright.

(Newspaper Enterprise Assn.)

Bridge Results

The Glenerie Bridge Club held its regular fractional point game at the Elks Club and played 28 boards in a Mitchell movement.

On the North-South side Miss Dorothy Maroon and Dr. Habeeb Maroon of Kingston took first place.

On the East-West side, Mr. and Mrs. James Brandon of Wappingers Falls took top spot.

On the North-South side, second place went to Miss Rosemary Olivet and Mrs. John Olivet of Kingston; third place was taken by Mr. and Mrs. James Cavin of Kingston.

On the East-West side,second place went to Mrs. I. H. Wheatcroft and Thomas Baggot of Kingston; third spot was taken by Mr. and Mrs. C. Russell Edwards of Kingston.

For her wedding trip to Canada, the bride selected a gold knit dress with black patent shoes and accessories.

Mr. and Mrs. Malarczyk will reside at 19 Tracy Road, New Paltz.

Huguenot Descendants Hold Branch Meeting

As part of a program to preserve a group of stone houses and a street which has become known as the oldest street in America with its original houses, descendants and friends of the families Freer, DuBois, Hasbrouck, Bevier, Deyo, Crispell, LeFevre, Elting, Rutan and Cantine, met at Cafe 422, Warren, Ohio, on Aug. 19 for a dinner meeting.

Helen Hart Hurlbert, president and general manager of the Warren Tribune was hostess, aided by Michael S. Kuzmack and Sidney Williams. Mrs. Hurlbert is a member of the Freer family and continues an occupation that was made famous by Samuel Freer and Son who had a newspaper in 1800 in Kingston, New York, known as the Ulster County Gazette. One issue of the paper carried the death of George Washington and has probably been copied more often than any other paper in the country.

Kenneth E. Hasbrouck, president of the Huguenot Historical Society, New Paltz, and his family were present from New Paltz, Mr. Hasbrouck came to speak to the group and brought a large display of items dealing with the families. Although the organization was founded in 1894, it was Mr. Hasbrouck's idea in 1955 to form separate family groups, each dedicated to the preservation of the homestead or some other project on Huguenot Street. The membership of the Society throughout the nation is about 2,000 and more than 100 reside in the Ohio area. Forty-two were present at Warren on Saturday evening.

The Huguenot Historical Society, New Paltz, is probably the only group in the United States which through the efforts of its family organizations has provided the funds necessary to preserve the old stone houses, built in the period 1694-1712 and sufficient property to protect them. Each family group has its own officers and membership, however, all are a part of the Huguenot Historical Society. Fifteen trustees head the Society, aided by a Duzine. The Duzine, "The Twelve" are selected from members throughout the country on a geographic basis. They are people who because of their interest and loyalty throughout the years, can best advise and promote the welfare of the Society in the section of the nation from which they come.

Helen Hart Hurlbert represents the Ohio - Indiana area. When the Huguenot Village of New Paltz was founded in 1678, the community was governed by the head of each family which became known as the Duzine. New Paltz had a Duzine until 1823. Now the custom is continued as there is a need to keep in contact with the thousands of descendants. There are members in 49 states and eight foreign nations. The president of the Society, Mr. Hasbrouck noted that "We must find a member from Arkansas!" New York, New Jersey, California, Ohio and Pennsylvania have the greatest number of members.

Branches of the Society exist in Berkeley, Calif., Hinsdale, Ill., as well as Warren, Ohio. Branches will be founded in Jackson, Michigan and Houston, Texas in the near future. The first Michigan meeting will be held on Sunday, Aug. 20.

The stone houses and other property of the Society in the Town of New Paltz is a National Historic Site but completely owned and preserved by the descendants of its founding families and friends. The main purpose of the organization is to preserve the houses. Genealogical records of the families are kept and the numerous social activities of the Society are of interest to its membership. Scholarships to worthy students have become a vital part of the work of the group.

In addition to the stone houses, the group owns a large federal mansion located four miles south of New Paltz, which is completely furnished in period. A bird sanctuary has become a part of the farm museum near the mansion, Locust Lawn.

One complete restoration will be undertaken in the form of the First French Church, 1717, which will be accomplished by the Crispell family. Three other historic houses will probably be taken into the holdings of the Society before the physical aspects of the historic site are completed.

Branch meetings are held to bring before the members and prospective members the needs of the Society and to ask their help in the work that is being done. The displays of materials such as documents, books, heirlooms bring New Paltz to the people who do not find it possible to visit the Village except on rare occasions. Members enjoy seeing what has been done.

Y-WIVES DISCUSS FALL AGENDA—The executive committee of Y-Wives Club met with Mrs. Frederick Burness, president, on September 1st to discuss completion of plans for the season. Pictured are (l-r) Mrs. David VanEtten, program; Mrs. Raymond Peterson, membership; Mrs. Frederick Burnett, president; and Mrs. Donald Simmons, publicity. Other committee chairmen are Mrs. Frank DiPietro, hospitality; Mrs. William Schreiber, service; and Mrs. William Devine, cheer. Club activities will resume on September 21 with a covered dish supper at the YWCA, 209 Clinton Avenue. (Freeman photo by Kruh)

Hints From Heloise

By HELOISE CRUSE

Dear Folks:

A nice gentlemen from one of the largest manufacturers of washing machines sent me some very expert advice on laundering clothes.

* * *

Here's what he says:

"We read with interest your most recent article concerning the graying of clothes. We can only add the following to your excellent findings.

"Water turbidity, caused by the presence of fine particles of matter such as sand, clay, or vegetable matter suspended in the water, sometimes causes a gray appearance to the clothes and can be removed by bleaching.

"Hard water can also cause grayness. A water softener can correct this condition.

"Also, too little detergent may cause gray clothes from insufficient soil removal, or from the removed soil being redeposited on the clothes.

"If soil is allowed to settle back on the clothes after it has been suspended by detergent and water action, the soil becomes redeposited and is almost impossible to remove. A sufficient amount of detergent must be used in relation to the amount of soil present and the clothes should not be allowed to soak in the detergent solution for an extended period.

"Neither should they be agitated in the washer for an excessively long period of time, since the detergent cannot suspend the soil indefinitely."

Robert M. Gross

Dear Heloise:

I believe every young mother who has a kindergarten - age child would like to hear my idea:

A short time before your child starts to school, find out who a few of the other children are that are starting with him. They will usually be in your own neighborhood.

Give a little party — just something easy—so that he can meet and get acquainted with the other children.

I did this and my child was happy to start to school. He didn't feel he was among strangers and looked forward to seeing his new friends again.

Sally

Dear Heloise:

For my new king-size pillows, I let the hems out of the regular pillowcases I had on hand. Bought some print material and added to the end. I doubled this hem and attached it with rickrack, cording, bias tape, etc.

Very attractive, so economical and saved me the price of new king-size pillowcases.

Mrs. Louis Bodin

* * *

Dear Heloise:

In the last 100 years, we have progressed from washing clothes in a tub by hand, and hanging them outdoors . . . to automatic washers and dryers. From non-fast color cottons to fast color cottons and one-story homes.

Now we have the miracle fabrics, hand-wash only, drip-drys, guaranteed to bleed and modern homes without basements. Result, no place to drip.

This is progress?

Your Love

Dear Heloise:

This salad is pretty for any special occasion.

Put your gelatin salad in one of your fancy glass bowls. Set a pretty glass or sugar bowl in the center of the liquid gelatin. Weight it down by putting several spoons in it.

When the salad has set and you are ready to serve, remove the spoons and fill the center glass with salad dressing.

Edyth Moes

* * *

Thanks, Edyth, for writing. Your idea is great.

And did you know you could also use a little cold water in the glass to weight it down? Then just pour it out when you're ready to serve.

Mr. Hasbrouck came to speak to the group and brought a large display of items dealing with the families. Although the organization was founded in 1894, it was Mr. Hasbrouck's idea in 1955 to form separate family groups, each dedicated to the preservation of the homestead or some other project on Huguenot Street. The membership of the Society throughout the nation is about 2,000 and more than 100 reside in the Ohio area. Forty-two were present at Warren on Saturday evening.

The Huguenot Historical Society, New Paltz, is probably the only group in the United States which through the efforts of its family organizations has provided the funds necessary to preserve the old stone houses, built in the period 1694-1712 and sufficient property to protect them. Each family group has its own officers and membership, however, all are a part of the Huguenot Historical Society. Fifteen trustees head the Society, aided by a Duzine. The Duzine, "The Twelve" are selected from members throughout the country on a geographic basis. They are people who because of their interest and loyalty throughout the years, can best advise and promote the welfare of the Society in the section of the nation from which they come.

Helen Hart Hurlbert represents the Ohio - Indiana area. When the Huguenot Village of New Paltz was founded in 1678, the community was governed by the head of each family which became known as the Duzine. New Paltz had a Duzine until 1823. Now the custom is continued as there is a need to keep in contact with the thousands of descendants. There are members in 49 states and eight foreign nations. The president of the Society, Mr. Hasbrouck noted that "We must find a member from Arkansas!" New York, New Jersey, California, Ohio and Pennsylvania have the greatest number of members.

Branches of the Society exist in Berkeley, Calif., Hinsdale, Ill., as well as Warren, Ohio. Branches will be founded in Jackson, Michigan and Houston, Texas in the near future. The first Michigan meeting will be held on Sunday, Aug. 20.

The stone houses and other property of the Society in the Town of New Paltz is a National Historic Site but completely owned and preserved by the descendants of its founding families and friends. The main purpose of the organization is to preserve the houses. Genealogical records of the families are kept and the numerous social activities of the Society are of interest to its membership. Scholarships to worthy students have become a vital part of the work of the group.

In addition to the stone houses, the group owns a large federal mansion located four miles south of New Paltz, which is completely furnished in period. A bird sanctuary has become a part of the farm museum near the mansion, Locust Lawn.

One complete restoration will be undertaken in the form of the First French Church, 1717, which will be accomplished by the Crispell family. Three other historic houses will probably be taken into the holdings of the Society before the physical aspects of the historic site are completed.

Branch meetings are held to bring before the members and prospective members the needs of the Society and to ask their help in the work that is being done. The displays of materials such as documents, books, heirlooms bring New Paltz to the people who do not find it possible to visit the Village except on rare occasions. Members enjoy seeing what has been done.

Hints From Heloise

By HELOISE CRUSE

Dear Folks:

A nice gentlemen from one of the largest manufacturers of washing machines sent me some very expert advice on laundering clothes.

* * *

Here's what he says:

"We read with interest your most recent article concerning the graying of clothes. We can only add the following to your excellent findings.

"Water turbidity, caused by the presence of fine particles of matter such as sand, clay, or vegetable matter suspended in the water, sometimes causes a gray appearance to the clothes and can be removed by bleaching.

"Hard water can also cause grayness. A water softener can correct this condition.

"Also, too little detergent may cause gray clothes from insufficient soil removal, or from the removed soil being redeposited on the clothes.

"If soil is allowed to settle back on the clothes after it has been suspended by detergent and water action, the soil becomes redeposited and is almost impossible to remove. A sufficient amount of detergent must be used in relation to the amount of soil present and the clothes should not be allowed to soak in the detergent solution for an extended period.

"Neither should they be agitated in the washer for an excessively long period of time, since the detergent cannot suspend the soil indefinitely."

Robert M. Gross

Dear Heloise:

I believe every young mother who has a kindergarten-age child would like to hear my idea:

A short time before your child starts to school, find out who a few of the other children are that are starting with him. They will usually be in your own neighborhood.

Give a little party — just something easy—so that he can meet and get acquainted with the other children.

I did this and my child was happy to start to school. He didn't feel he was among strangers and looked forward to seeing his new friends again.

Dear Heloise:

For my new king-size pillows, I let the hems out of the regular pillowcases I had on hand. Bought some print material and added to the end. I doubled this hem and attached it with rickrack, cording, bias tape, etc.

Very attractive, so economical and saved me the price of new king-size pillowcases.

Mrs. Louis Bodin

Dear Heloise:

In the last 100 years, we have progressed from washing clothes in a tub by hand, and hanging them outdoors . . . to automatic washers and dryers. From non-fast color cottons to fast color cottons and one-story homes.

Now we have the miracle fabrics, hand-wash only, drip-drys, guaranteed to bleed and modern homes without basements. Result, no place to drip.

This is progress?

Dear Heloise:

This salad is pretty for any special occasion.

Put your gelatin salad in one of your fancy glass bowls. Set a pretty glass or sugar bowl in the center of the liquid gelatin. Weight it down by putting several spoons in it.

When the salad has set and you are ready to serve, remove the spoons and fill the center glass with salad dressing.

Edyth Moes

* * *

Thanks, Edyth, for writing. Your idea is great.

And did you know you could also use a little cold water in the glass to weight it down? Then just pour it out when you're ready to serve.

Sweep Orioles

Pearly Gates Beckon Rigney and His Angels

By HAL BOCK
Associated Press Sports Writer

The crush at the top of the American League remains unchanged today and don't look now but Bill Rigney is trying to toss another log into the jam.

Rigney's California Angels stand just six games off the pace after sweeping Baltimore 7-2 and 11-4 Tuesday. Bubba Morton drove in four runs with two hits in each game.

Ordinarily, six games behind with 20 or so to play wouldn't be so bad, but the Angels have a problem. There are four teams in front of them.

The status quo which survived four doubleheaders on Labor Day remained unchanged Tuesday when the first-place Minnesota Twins and pursuing Boston, Chicago and Detroit all won. Thus California, which took a pair, was the only team to gain ground Tuesday. The fifth-place Angels have won seven of their last eight games.

Minnesota battered Cleveland 9-2. Boston stayed one-half game back with an 8-2 triumph over Washington as Carl Yastrzemski cracked a pair of home runs. Chicago topped New York 5-3 and remained one game behind. Joe Sparma hurled a brilliant two-hitter as Detroit blanked Kansas City 4-0 and stayed 1½ games off the pace.

Phillies Win

In the only National League game played, Philadelphia nipped Atlanta 4-3 in 11 innings.

Morton tagged a pair of two-run doubles while Rick Reichardt and rookie Leo Rodriguez smacked solo home runs as Clyde Wright hurled a four-hitter for the Angels in the first game against the Orioles.

Then Morton knocked in four more runs with two two-run singles in the second game as California completed the sweep. Roger Repoz drove in three runs in the nightcap with a double and a homer.

Jim Kaat was rocked for 13 hits but threaded his way out of trouble and won his 11th game of the season as the Twins ripped Cleveland.

Rich Rollins' bases-loaded triple keyed a four-run first inning that got Kaat off to a quick lead against Sam McDowell.

Ted Uhlaender slammed a pair of triples and scored twice for the Twins.

Yastrzemski, fighting his way out of a 7-for-41 slump, walloped his 37th and 38th home runs, driving in four runs.

Sparma Fans Eight

Sparma struck out eight Athletics including the first four he faced. The only hits off him were a one-out single in the third by Phil Roof and Jim Gosger's grounder which struck base runner Ramon Webster in the seventh.

The Tigers pushed a run across in the fourth when Dick McAuliffe drew a bases-loaded walk and then added two more in the fifth on singles by Al Kaline, Jim Northrup and Bill Freehan. Jerry Lumpe's seventh-inning single drove in Detroit's final run.

Steve Jones and Bobby Locker hurled seven innings of scoreless relief protecting Chicago's victory over the Yankees.

The White Sox snapped a 3-3 tie in the third inning when their pinch hitting specialist, 41-year-old Smoky Burgess, drew a bases-loaded walk. Don Buford added an insurance run with an eighth-inning homer.

Chicago had loaded the bases on singles by Pete Ward and Ken Boyer and an intentional walk before Burgess drew his walk on a 3-1 pitch from loser Joe Verbanic.

Cookie Rojas drove in Philadelphia's tying run in the ninth inning and then delivered the winner in the 11th with a sacrifice fly as the Phillies edged the Braves.

FIRST OF TWO home runs for Boston leftfielder Carl Yastrzemski, who crosses home plate at Washington after slamming his 37th homer of the season with Gary Bell and Joe Foy ahead of him. Later he clouted No. 38. (UPI TELEPHOTO)

Beats Stubborn Foe

Mrs. Kennedy Keeps Title at Woodstock

Mrs. Harry (Libby) Kennedy is woman's golf champion at Woodstock Country Club for the third straight year. But winning the third jewel in the Triple Crown wasn't as easy as the form chart might have predicted.

Mrs. Joseph Fitzsimmons gave the smooth swinging champion one helluva scare before yielding 3 and 2 in the 36-hole championship playoff.

As a matter of fact, Mrs. Fitzsimmons carded a first nine 41 to lead the defending champion by three holes. Mrs. Kennedy rallied with 38 on the back nine to whittle Mrs. Fitzsimmons lead to one hole at the end of 18. The champion posted 43-38-81 to Mrs. Fitzsimmons 41-44-85.

MRS. HARRY KENNEDY

Takes Lead on 24th

It wasn't until the 24th hole that Mrs. Kennedy was able to overhaul her stubborn challenger. She won the 24th and 25th with 6-4 but Mrs. Fitzsimmons, still battling formidable odds, rallied with 5-4 to a pair of 6's by Mrs. Kennedy to bring the match all even at the end of 27 holes.

It was on the fourth trip around the village links that Mrs. Kennedy flashed true championship form to salvage her title. She reeled off five consecutive pars to build a 3-up lead with 4 holes to go. But Mrs. Fitzsimmons didn't succumb easily. She matched Mrs. Kennedy's 3-5-6 on the 13th, 14th and 15th. Both players bogeyed No. 16 and that closed out the match 3 and 2 in Mrs. Kennedy's favor.

Admitting that she was surprised by Mrs. Fitzsimmons resolute opposition, Mrs. Kennedy had only the highest praise for her opponent.

"Her putting throughout the day was simply fantastic," said Mrs. Kennedy. "She opened with six consecutive one-putt greens and I suddenly found myself three down."

Mrs. Kennedy's two fine thrusts saved the day—her 38 on the second nine and her run of 5 straights pars on the fourth nine.

Mrs. Thomas Dendy defeated Mrs. Homer Barnard for First Flight honors. Mrs. Gifford Morey won over Mrs. Eleanor Van Gogh in the Second Flight.

Egan-Sharpe Take Foursome

Harold Egan and Mrs. Alex Sharpe, Jr. combined for a net 65-68-133 to win first place in the Mixed Foursome event at Woodstock Country Club.

Runnersup were Ed Strohsahl and Mrs. Walter S. Van Wagenen with 68-67-135. Floyd A. DeWitt and Mrs. Sophie Bernard posted 70-66-136 and Jim Dills and Mrs. Percy Lyons had 64-76-140.

Nassau Winners

Nine hole winners in the men's Nassau tournament were Jim Dills with net 29; Anthony Pizzarelli, net 30; Harold Egan led the 18 hole division with 67.

Runnerup in the 9-hole event was Dick Hajec with net 33. Duke Hunter had net 32. Hank Schweizer was runnerup to Pizzarelli with 31 and Dr. Gordon Rubin had net 33.

Benjamin Cops Caddy Laurels

Marty Benjamin defeated Steve Lippincott, 5 and 4, in a 36 hole match for the Woodstock Country club caddie championship.

Benjamin carded 41-38-79 to Lippincott's 89 in the first round and had 44 on the third nine. Enroute to the title, he eliminated Roger Winchell, 4 and 3, and won from John Buoymaster by default.

Lippincott topped Brian Flick, 3 and 2, and Joe Myer, 3 and 2. In first round matches, Buoymaster won from Art DiNapoli by default and Myer topped Gary Liesendahl, 1 up.

Van Wagenens Flag Winners

Mr. and Mrs. Walter S. Van Wagenen dominated the Flag Day tournament at Woodstock Country Club. Van Wagenen, a 12 handicap player, finished in the 20th hole to lead the men's division, while Mrs. Van Wagenen ended on the 19th fairway to pace the women.

Runnerup in the men's division was Morton Brett (18) in the 20th fairway. Other leaders: Don Ferdon (16), 5 inches from cup on 19th; Arnold Broggi (8), 11 feet from cup, 19th hole; Floyd A. DeWitt (11), 8 feet over 19th green; Percy Lyon, 19th fairway.

Mrs. Alex Sharpe Jr., finished in the 18th cup for second place among the women. Mrs. Percy Lyons was on the 18th green and Mrs. Napier Dills on the 17th green.

Dr. Meyers Scores Ace at Twaalfskill

Dr. Douw S. Meyers, leading physician golfer in the city, fired the second hole-in-one of his career on the No. 2 hole at The Twaalfskill Club.

Dr. Meyers was playing with pro Alex Gerlak, Form Coughlin and William Merrill when he aced the 125-yard par 3 hole with a 6-iron.

Dismal Cup Picture Getting Even Worse

FOREST HILLS, N. Y. (AP)—The United States is looking around for a new Davis Cup tennis captain and nobody's breaking down doors to get the job.

"I really feel sorry for the guy who captains our team next year," Harcourt Woods, the chairman of the Davis Cup committee said today. "It looks like an impossible task.

"Arthur Ashe already is in the Army. Cliff Richey and Charley Pasarell are prime Army material since both are out of school. Our new kids coming up just don't seem to be hungry—they don't give a darn.

"Some of them have got college coming up, and after that maybe Vietnam. It's not much to look forward to."

The U.S. tennis picture took on a darker aspect Tuesday when two of the nation's top Davis Cup aces, Richey and Pasarell, lost third-round matches in the men's division and invaders again grabbed a hold on the aged grass court event at the West Side Tennis Club.

The outlook can't be any brighter today when the top half of the men's bracket is played with only one American, seventh-seeded Clark Graebner of Beechwood, Ohio, among the eight who will see action.

Here's the schedule:

Thomas Koch, Brazil, vs. Jan Leschly, Denmark; Ronald Barnes, Brazil, vs. Bill Bowrey, Australia; Mark Cox, Britain, vs. Graebner, and Marcello Lara, Mexico, vs. Roy Emerson, Australia.

Three Yanks managed to come through in the other half of the draw Tuesday but they don't figure to be around long. They are Ron Holmberg, the paunchy veteran from Highland Falls, N.Y.; Gene Scott of New York and Bob Lutz, one of the fresh young blood from Los Angeles.

Scott plays Holmberg, so America can be assured of at least another round of survival there. Lutz takes on Bob Hewitt, the Australian exile who now plays No. 1 for South Africa.

Hewitt threw a monkey-wrench into America's best-laid plans by knocking off eight-seeded Pasarell 3-6, 4-6, 6-3, 6-4, 12-10.

Richey put a tremendous battle against Wimbledon champion John Newcombe before losing 13-11, 6-2, 4-6, 6-3.

Palmer on TV For Golf Series

AKRON Ohio (AP)—The two top money winners in professional golf will be on hand for the World Series of Golf at Firestone Country Club this weekend, but Arnold Palmer will be describing the action for TV fans while Jack Nicklaus shoots for the $50,000 first prize.

Nicklaus is favored to win his third Series championship.

A veteran of four of the five preceding World Series, Nicklaus set the record for the event—a 66-69—135 in 1962 and won again in 1963 with a 70-70—140.

None of his three opponents this year has been in the Series before, and one of them—Roberto de Vicenzo—has appeared only once in a tournament at Firestone.

De Vicenzo qualified for the Series by winning the British Open, in which he edged Nicklaus by two strokes. Nicklaus is the U. S. Open champion, Gay Brewer qualified by winning the Masters Championship, and Don January won the PGA.

East Kingston Club To Meet on Monday

East Kingston Rod and Gun Club meets Monday, Sept. 11, at 8 p. m. at the VFW building, located at Delaware Avenue in Kingston.

All members are urged to attend. Among the items for discussion are pheasant release dates, posting and other club matters.

Y Basketball League Forms

The YMCA fall basketball league will return to its original format of two divisions, Physical Director Thomas A. Breese has announced.

The fall league will be made up of two divisions to be known as A and B, with hopefully six teams in each. All male members of YMCA high school age are eligible. New area teams and players are invited to join.

Games will be played every Tuesday, Wednesday and Friday evenings.

Team representatives are asked to submit their 10-man rosters as soon as possible to expedite reorganization of the league. Players not affiliated with a team may sign up with Breese for placement.

Hoffman Homers in 9th

Woody's Grill Ties Ellenville Playoff

Rich Hoffman slammed a two-run homer in the second extra inning to pace Woody's Bar and Grill to a 4-3 win over Schrade Walden and square the best-of-five championship series at two games each.

The fifth and final game will be played Thursday.

Hoffman pitched an 8 hitter, struck out 11 and collected a homer and two singles in four trips. Matt Crystal lost on a 9-hitter.

The Kingston pitcher launched Woody's two-run rally in the second with a single and scored on Blly Stone's double. The latter tallied on rundown after an attempted steal.

Charlie Page's two-run homer in the sixth for Schrade tied the score at 2-2. Crystal opened Schrade's ninth with a single, went to third on a wild pitch and passed ball. Mike Raimondo's double to left center chased him home.

Sweep Orioles

Pearly Gates Beckon Rigney and His Angels

By HAL BOCK
Associated Press Sports Writer

The crush at the top of the American League remains unchanged today and don't look now but Bill Rigney is trying to toss another log into the jam.

Rigney's California Angels stand just six games off the pace after sweeping Baltimore 7-2 and 11-4 Tuesday. Bubba Morton drove in four runs with two hits in each game.

Ordinarily, six games behind with 20 or so to play wouldn't be so bad, but the Angels have a problem. There are four teams in front of them.

The status quo which survived four doubleheaders on Labor Day remained unchanged Tuesday when the first-place Minnesota Twins and pursuing Boston, Chicago and Detroit all won. Thus California, which took a pair, was the only team to gain ground Tuesday. The fifth-place Angels have won seven of their last eight games.

Minnesota battered Cleveland 9-2. Boston stayed one-half game back with an 8-2 triumph over Washington as Carl Yastrzemski cracked a pair of home runs. Chicago topped New York 5-3 and remained one game behind. Joe Sparma hurled a brilliant two-hitter as Detroit blanked Kansas City 4-0 and stayed 1½ games off the pace.

Phillies Win

In the only National League game played, Philadelphia nipped Atlanta 4-3 in 11 innings.

Morton tagged a pair of two-run doubles while Rick Reichardt and rookie Leo Rodriguez smacked solo home runs as Clyde Wright hurled a four-hitter for the Angels in the first game against the Orioles.

Then Morton knocked in four more runs with two two-run singles in the second game as California completed the sweep. Roger Repoz drove in three runs in the nightcap with a double and a homer.

Jim Kaat was rocked for 13 hits but threaded his way out of trouble and won his 11th game of the season as the Twins ripped Cleveland.

Rich Rollins' bases-loaded triple keyed a four-run first inning that got Kaat off to a quick lead against Sam McDowell.

Ted Uhlaender slammed a pair of triples and scored twice for the Twins.

Yastrzemski, fighting his way out of a 7-for-41 slump, walloped his 37th and 38th home runs, driving in four runs.

Sparma Fans Eight

Sparma struck out eight Athletics including the first four he faced. The only hits off him were a one-out single in the third by Phil Roof and Jim Gosger's grounder which struck base runner Ramon Webster in the seventh.

The Tigers pushed a run across in the fourth when Dick McAuliffe drew a bases-loaded walk and then added two more in the fifth on singles by Al Kaline, Jim Northrup and Bill Freehan. Jerry Lumpe's seventh-inning single drove in Detroit's final run.

Steve Jones and Bobby Locker hurled seven innings of scoreless relief protecting Chicago's victory over the Yankees.

The White Sox snapped a 3-3 tie in the third inning when their pinch hitting specialist, 41-year-old Smoky Burgess, drew a bases-loaded walk. Don Buford added an insurance run with an eighth-inning homer.

Chicago had loaded the bases on singles by Pete Ward and Ken Boyer and an intentional walk before Burgess drew his walk on a 3-1 pitch from loser Joe Verbanic.

Cookie Rojas drove in Philadelphia's tying run in the ninth inning and then delivered the winner in the 11th with a sacrifice fly as the Phillies edged the Braves.

FIRST OF TWO home runs for Boston leftfielder Carl Yastrzemski, who crosses home plate at Washington after slamming his 37th homer of the season with Gary Bell and Joe Foy ahead of him. Later he clouted No. 38. (UPI TELEPHOTO)

Beats Stubborn Foe

Mrs. Kennedy Keeps Title at Woodstock

Mrs. Harry (Libby) Kennedy is woman's golf champion at Woodstock Country Club for the third straight year. But winning the third jewel in the Triple Crown wasn't as easy as the form chart might have predicted.

Mrs. Joseph Fitzsimmons gave the smooth swinging champion one helluva scare before yielding 3 and 2 in the 36-hole championship playoff.

As a matter of fact, Mrs. Fitzsimmons carded a first nine 41 to lead the defending champion by three holes. Mrs. Kennedy rallied with 38 on the back nine to whittle Mrs. Fitzsimmons lead to one hole at the end of 18. The champion posted 43-38-81 to Mrs. Fitzsimmons 41-44-85.

Takes Lead on 24th

It wasn't until the 24th hole that Mrs. Kennedy was able to overhaul her stubborn challenger. She won the 24th and 25th with 6-4 but Mrs. Fitzsimmons, still battling formidable odds, rallied with 5-4 to a pair of 6's by Mrs. Kennedy to bring the match all even at the end of 27 holes.

It was on the fourth trip around the village links that Mrs. Kennedy flashed true championship form to salvage her title. She reeled off five consecutive pars to build a 3-up lead with 4 holes to go. But Mrs. Fitzsimmons didn't succumb easily. She matched Mrs. Kennedy's 3-5-6 on the 13th, 14th and 15th. Both players bogeyed No. 16 and that closed out the match 3 and 2 in Mrs. Kennedy's favor.

Admitting that she was surprised by Mrs. Fitzsimmons resolute opposition, Mrs. Kennedy had only the highest praise for her opponent.

"Her putting throughout the day was simply fantastic," said Mrs. Kennedy. "She opened with six consecutive one-putt greens and I suddenly found myself three down."

Mrs. Kennedy's two fine thrusts saved the day—her 38 on the second nine and her run of 5 straights pars on the fourth nine.

Mrs. Thomas Dendy defeated Mrs. Homer Barnard for First Flight honors. Mrs. Gifford Morey won over Mrs. Eleanor Van Gogh in the Second Flight.

Egan-Sharpe Take Foursome

Harold Egan and Mrs. Alex Sharpe, Jr. combined for a net 65-68-133 to win first place in the Mixed Foursome event at Woodstock Country Club.

Nassau Winners

Nine hole winners in the men's Nassau tournament were Jim Dills with net 29; Anthony Pizzarelli, net 30; Harold Egan led the 18 hole division with 67.

Runnerup in the 9-hole event was Dick Hajec with net 33. Duke Hunter had net 32. Hank Schweizer was runnerup to Pizzarelli with 31 and Dr. Gordon Rubin had net 33.

Dismal Cup Picture Getting Even Worse

FOREST HILLS, N. Y. (AP)—The United States is looking around for a new Davis Cup tennis captain and nobody's breaking down doors to get the job.

"I really feel sorry for the guy who captains our team next year," Harcourt Woods, the chairman of the Davis Cup committee said today. "It looks like an impossible task.

"Arthur Ashe already is in the Army. Cliff Richey and Charley Pasarell are prime Army material since both are out of school. Our new kids coming up just don't seem to be hungry—they don't give a darn.

"Some of them have got college coming up, and after that maybe Vietnam. It's not much to look forward to."

The U.S. tennis picture took on a darker aspect Tuesday when two of the nation's top Davis Cup aces, Richey and Pasarell, lost third-round matches in the men's division and invaders again grabbed a hold on the aged grass court event at the West Side Tennis Club.

The outlook can't be any brighter today when the top half of the men's bracket is played with only one American, seventh-seeded Clark Graebner of Beechwood, Ohio, among the eight who will see action.

Here's the schedule:

Thomas Koch, Brazil, vs. Jan Leschly, Denmark; Ronald Barnes, Brazil, vs. Bill Bowrey, Australia; Mark Cox, Britain, vs. Graebner, and Marcello Lara, Mexico, vs. Roy Emerson, Australia.

Three Yanks managed to come through in the other half of the draw Tuesday but they don't figure to be around long. They are Ron Holmberg, the paunchy veteran from Highland Falls, N.Y.; Gene Scott of New York and Bob Lutz, one of the fresh young blood from Los Angeles.

Scott plays Holmberg, so America can be assured of at least another round of survival there. Lutz takes on Bob Hewitt, the Australian exile who now plays No. 1 for South Africa.

Hewitt threw a monkey-wrench into America's best-laid plans by knocking off eight-seeded Pasarell 3-6, 4-6, 6-3, 6-4, 12-10.

Richey put a tremendous battle against Wimbledon champion John Newcombe before losing 13-11, 6-2, 4-6, 6-3.

Palmer on TV For Golf Series

AKRON Ohio (AP)—The two top money winners in professional golf will be on hand for the World Series of Golf at Firestone Country Club this weekend, but Arnold Palmer will be describing the action for TV fans while Jack Nicklaus shoots for the $50,000 first prize.

Nicklaus is favored to win his third Series championship.

A veteran of four of the five preceding World Series, Nicklaus set the record for the event —a 66-69—135 in 1962 and won again in 1963 with a 70-70—140.

None of his three opponents this year has been in the Series before, and one of them—Roberto de Vicenzo—has appeared only once in a tournament at Firestone.

De Vicenzo qualified for the Series by winning the British Open, in which he edged Nicklaus by two strokes. Nicklaus is the U. S. Open champion, Gay Brewer qualified by winning the Masters Championship, and Don January won the PGA.

Benjamin Cops Caddy Laurels

Marty Benjamin defeated Steve Lippincott, 5 and 4, in a 36 hole match for the Woodstock Country club caddie championship.

Benjamin carded 41-38-79 to Lippincott's 89 in the first round and had 44 on the third nine. Enroute to the title, he eliminated Roger Winchell, 4 and 3, and won from John Buoymaster by default.

Lippincott topped Brian Flick, 3 and 2, and Joe Myer, 3 and 2. In first round matches, Buoymaster won from Art DiNapoli by default and Myer topped Gary Liesendahl, 1 up.

Van Wagenens Flag Winners

Mr. and Mrs. Walter S. Van Wagenen dominated the Flag Day tournament at Woodstock Country Club. Van Wagenen, a 12 handicap player, finished in the 20th hole to lead the men's division, while Mrs. Van Wagenen ended on the 19th fairway to pace the women.

Runnerup in the men's division was Morton Brett (18) in the 20th fairway. Other leaders: Don Ferdon (16), 5 inches from cup on 19th; Arnold Broggi (8), 11 feet from cup, 19th hole; Floyd A. DeWitt (11), 8 feet over 19th green; Percy Lyon, 19th fairway.

Mrs. Alex Sharpe Jr., finished in the 18th cup for second place among the women. Mrs. Percy Lyons was on the 18th green and Mrs. Napier Dills on the 17th green.

Dr. Meyers Scores Ace at Twaalfskill

Dr. Douw S. Meyers, leading physician golfer in the city, fired the second hole-in-one of his career on the No. 2 hole at The Twaalfskill Club.

Dr. Meyers was playing with pro Alex Gerlak, Form Coughlin and William Merrill when he aced the 125-yard par 3 hole with a 6-iron.

Hoffman Homers in 9th

Woody's Grill Ties Ellenville Playoff

Rich Hoffman slammed a two-run homer in the second extra inning to pace Woody's Bar and Grill to a 4-3 win over Schrade Walden and square the best-of-five championship series at two games each.

The fifth and final game will be played Thursday.

Hoffman pitched an 8 hitter, struck out 11 and collected a homer and two singles in four trips. Matt Crystal lost on a 9-hitter.

The Kingston pitcher launched Woody's two-run rally in the second with a single and scored on Billy Stone's double. The latter tallied on rundown after an attempted steal.

Charlie Page's two-run homer in the sixth for Schrade tied the score at 2-2. Crystal opened Schrade's ninth with a single, went to third on a wild pitch and passed ball. Mike Raimond's double to left center chased him home.

Select Dallas, Pittsburgh in Eastern Pro Division

By JACK HAND

NEW YORK (AP) — When the two division winners play for the Eastern Conference title of the National Football League Dec. 24 it will be the Pittsburgh Steelers and the Dallas Cowboys in the Cotton Bowl.

Dallas, despite troubles with its offense in the preseason games is a solid choice to repeat as Eastern champ and get another shot at the Western winner in the NFL title game Dec. 31.

The new Century Division of the East, composed of Pittsburgh, St. Louis, Cleveland and New York, looks like a wide open battle.

Before the Army called up Charley Johnson, the Cards appeared to have the best of it. Everybody has serious problems and any one of the four could be the fortunate survivor.

Dallas must beat off the challenges of Washington and Philadelphia in the Capitol Division as well as the threat of the New Orleans Saints who appear to be the best expansion team in league history.

★ ★ ★

Here's the way it looks from here in the two divisions:

CAPITOL
1. Dallas
2. Washington
3. Philadelphia
4. New Orleans

CENTURY
1. Pittsburgh
2. St. Louis
3. Cleveland
4. New York

The Redskins seem to be best equipped to challenge the Cowboys in the Capitol because of the passing of Sonny Jurgensen and the receiving of Charley Taylor and Bobby Mitchell.

If Ray McDonald, the big rookie from Idaho, lives up to his No. 1 draft pick, the Skins could have a balanced attack.

Dallas is the solid club with an experienced, talented defensive unit and a fast-striking offense built around Don Meredith, Bobby Hayes, Don Perkins and Dan Reeves.

Meredth's chronic arm trouble has made him erratic in the early games but Dandy Don will come around when the season starts. If the Cowboys have to go with Jerry Rhome or Craig Morton they could be in a real battle.

The Eagles shape up as a threat on the addition of men like Mike Ditka and Gary Ballman and the two fine rookie and Harry Jones.

If Joe Kuharich gets consistent quarterbacking from Norm Snead, he can put a flock of points on the board. The defense can be had although it has its spectacular blitzing moments with free safety Joe Scarpati on the loose.

Nobody expected the Saints to beat St. Louis, Pittsburgh and San Francisco in preseason but things will be different when they start playing for real.

Tom Fears has solid veterans in Billy Kilmer and Jim Taylor. His defensive group has done a surprisingly solid job. To use the coaches' favorite cliche, they're going to beat somebody.

The Century Division is something special. If Johnson hadn't gone into the Army, the Cards would be favored. If Cleveland had more depth and everybody was absolutely sure about Frank Ryan's arm, the Browns would be top ranked despite the effects of the five-man strike.

New York, a sad, sad 1-12-1 last year, has helped itself considerably and could win it if things continue to go wrong for the others.

Pittsburgh, however, is the pick here on the theory that (1) they are long overdue (2) Bill Nelsen is ready to become a top flight quarteback (3) Bill Austin brought order out of chaos last year.

The Steelers never have won but they closed strong in 1966 when Nelsen finally got back into action. They can not afford any more injuries like the loss of Ben McGee and Earl Gros.

In Golf, That Is

Blight on Marathons Is Just Too Much Time

By HAROLD V. RATLIFF

DALLAS, Tex. (AP) — Ever wonder what happened to marathon golf?

Better still, ever wonder what happened to the man who was the beginning and the end of marathon golf?

Well, for your information, this fellow—J. Smith Ferebee—plays 36 holes each Saturday and Sunday at Preston Trial Golf Club in Dallas.

He's 60 years old now, but his Spartan existence, which continues to this day, makes him appear at least 10 years younger.

The marathon golf mania began in 1939. Ferebee had played 144 holes of golf in one day in Chicago, then his home.

There came an avalanche of publicity. Ferebee was amazed to find his feat "on the front pages of 400 newspapers across the nation."

Suddenly, everyone started playing marathon golf," recalls the Dallas insurance executive. "One woman in Chicago played 145 holes to beat my record."

An executive friend of Ferebee became irritated because others were stealing his golfing buddy's thunder. He arranged a marathon tour and paid the $8,000 tab for plane expenses.

So Ferebee played 600 holes in four days, all across the nation. He traveled by chartered plane, hit Los Angeles, Phoenix, Kansas City, St. Louis, Milwaukee, Chicago and Philadelphia, and ended the tour with a final putt at the New York's World's Fair in view of Mayor LaGuardia and a welcoming delegation. He walked 180 miles making the tour.

Bet Up to $25,000

Ferebee had made wagers amounting to $25,000, getting odds as high of 15-1. So the tour was a money-making affair.

After the marathon ended in New York, Ferebee was pressed for an encore. After a good rest, he decided a short return performance that would help him unlimber after his arduous feat. He went out and played another round of golf.

"I wasn't trying to be smart," said Ferebee. "I just didn't want to be sore."

He shed 25 pounds on the tour and received over 100 telegrams, stacks of letters and four proposals of marriage.

Ferebee has done other things of the marathon variety. For instance he fired 2,400 shots in four hours and 18 minutes, breaking 86 per cent of the targets on a skeet range.

He has won wagers by swimming the length of a pool eight or ten times with his feet and hands tied behind his back. He says he can still swim eight or ten miles a day.

This latter-day spartain abstains from smoking and drinking, does calisthenics each day and hits the hay by 11 p. m.

Sounds dull, doesn't it? But J. Smith Ferebee seems to be enjoying himself and living longer than the "swingers."

Ferraro Helps In Spokane Win

Mike Ferraro's double was a key hit as Spokane won the Western division playoff in the Pacific Coast League, 6-1, Tuesday night at Portland.

The former Kingston High star went 1 for 3 at the plate and played errorless ball in the field as Spokane advanced to the best of seven final series against San Diego.

Portland and Spokane finished the regular season on Labor Day tied for first place. San Diego was an easy winner in the Eastern division of the league.

The division winners will play the first three games in San Diego. The rest of the playoff tilts will be held in Spokane.

DOUBLE PAYS, it says on the tote board and it did to the tune of $2,530.40, highest payoff in New York State this year Tuesday at Aqueduct. Jockeys Willie Shoemaker (L) and Oswaldo Rosado proudly point to the daily double figure. Shoemaker led Led Astray to victory in the first race and Rosado brought Celtic Wind home ahead in the second. (UPI TELEPHOTO)

First IL Flag For Richmond

By ED YOUNG

It was a long, frustrating wait, but Richmond's Braves have won their first pennant in the Class AAA International League, and no one can ever say they didn't earn it.

With pitcher Jim Britton casting his customary spell over Rochester and a lesser luminary in the line-up driving in the runs, the Braves took their flag-deciding playoff from the Red Wings 2-0 Tuesday night.

Thus, on the enemy's field and in its 17th season in the league, Richmond finally finished No. 1. Thirteen times in those 17 years, its IL team had wound up in the second division.

Rochester, which put up a fierce struggle for its 14th pannant and its second in a row, wouldn't argue the Braves' right to the flag. Tuesday's triumph was Richmond's 15th in 21 games with the Wings this year.

But the all-or-nothing playoff game, like the 140-game season that ended Monday with the Braves and Red Wings tied for first with 80-60 records, was in doubt right to the bitter end.

Until the seventh inning, Rochester's 19-year-old rookie, Mike Adamson, matched Britton pitch for pitch in a scoreless duel of right-handers. Then the roof fell in for Adamson and a Red Wing Stadium crowd of 11,459.

Jim Beauchamp led off the Braves' seventh with a single. Bobby Cox followed with a double, and moments later right fielder Mike Page, an unlikely hero, singled them both across the plate.

But it wasn't over yet. Britton, 6-for-6 against Rochester this season, went into the ninth with a two-hitter. Ron Stone then stroked a lead-off single for the Wings and, after retiring John Scruggs, Britton walked Curt Motton, bringing cleaniup man Steve Demeter to bat.

With the game-winning, pennant-winning run at the plate, right-hander Larry Maxie came to Britton's relief—and fanned Demeter on four pitches. Left-hander Skip Guinn then relieved Maxie and induced lefty hitter Ray Barker to ground to the infield for the final Red Wing out.

There was a tragic footnote to the game for the victorious Braves. In the tense final inning, Britton's father—who had come to Rochester to see his son pitch—suffered a heart attack and died.

Cutdown Day Comes For Grid Veterans

By MIKE RECHT
Associated Press Sports Writer

Cut down day was a cut up day for Tom Flores and Jacky Lee, but such players as Booth Lusteg, Glen Bass, Terry Southall and Lionel Taylor had no reason to celebrate.

Veterans like Lusteg, Bass, J.D. Smith and Jack Spikes and rookies Southall and John Hankinson felt the ax Tuesday as pro football teams reduced their rosters, and Taylor, the American League's all-time leading receiver, quietly chopped short his career.

Taylor, 30, led the AFL in receptions in five of his seven seasons and hauled in 543 passes in all before Oakland acquired him from Denver last winter in one of the biggest off-season trades. However, he caught only 35 passes last year.

The action topped a day of surprises from the Raider camp in a shakeup of receivers. The Raiders dropped sophomore tight end Tom Mitchell, who started part of last year after signing for a reported six-figure bonus, and acquired Dave Kocourek from Miami for a draft choice.

They also cut veterans Purvis Atkins, an end, and Bass, a flanker acquired with quarterback Daryle Lamonica from Buffalo in another big trade last winter for Flores and receiver Art Powell.

Had 98 Points

Lusteg was the placekicker who led Buffalo in scoring with 98 points last season as a replacement for Pete Gogolak. He lost his job to Mike Mercer, who had 98 points for Kansas City last year.

Smith, a veteran fullback, and Warren Livingston, a regular last season in his sixth year in the NFL, got the word from the Dallas Cowboys. Spikes, a running back entering his eighth AFL season, was waived by Buffalo.

Southall, lauded with publicity out of Baylor, was cut by Baltimore and Hankinson failed at Minnesota. Both are quarterbacks.

But two quarterbacks stepped into jobs instead of out of them as the AFL teams got down to 40 players and the NFL 43 (the NFL must cut to 40 by Monday).

Flores was named the starting quarterback for the Bills for their opener with New York Sunday.

Coach Wally Lemm gave Lee the starting assignment over Don Trull at Houston.

Turkey Shoot At Saugerties

Saugerties Fish and Game Club has set Sunday, Sept. 17 as the date for its annual fall turkey shoot. Proceeds will be used to assist the pheasant stocking committee which plans to stock 100 pheasants this season.

The annual rabbit-dog field trial has been set for Sunday, Oct. 23, at the dog training area in Asbury. Letters of invitation will be sent to all area clubs.

It was announced that the annual Federated Sportmen's field day and trapshoot will be held at Walker Valley on Sept. 24. Practice day for the shoot is Sept. 10, also at Walker Valley.

New members admitted to club include: Jack Lowther, Tom Dardani and Pat Clausi.

Swim O Links Champs In Saugerties BRL

Swim O Links of Woodstock, first half winners, defeated Ferroxcube in straight games, 4 to 1 and 11 to 6, for the Saugerties Babe Ruth League championship.

Eddie Mercer limited Ferroxcube to three hits and struck out 13 in the first game. The winners collected only four hits off Lou Whitaker and Jimmy Walsh but took advantage of Whitaker's wildness in the second inning and scored all their runs on two hits and five walks.

Fran Sinnott's triple was the big blow for the losers.

In the second game, Swim O Links jumped to a 4-2 lead then added two runs in the fourth and five in the fifth. Mark Haberstroh went all the way for Swim O Links, yielding seven hits and striking out 8. Bill Mellert stroked three singles to pace the winners' 11-hit attack on Gary Sperl. Jim Levins added two singles.

Select Dallas, Pittsburgh in Eastern Pro Division

By JACK HAND

NEW YORK (AP) — When the two division winners play for the Eastern Conference title of the National Football League Dec. 24 it will be the Pittsburgh Steelers and the Dallas Cowboys in the Cotton Bowl.

Dallas, despite troubles with its offense in the preseason games, is a solid choice to repeat as Eastern champ and get another shot at the Western winner in the NFL title game Dec. 31.

The new Century Division of the East, composed of Pittsburgh, St. Louis, Cleveland and New York, looks like a wide open battle.

Before the Army called up Charley Johnson, the Cards appeared to have the best of it. Everybody has serious problems and any one of the four could be the fortunate survivor.

Dallas must beat off the challenges of Washington and Philadelphia in the Capitol Division as well as the threat of the New Orleans Saints who appear to be the best expansion team in league history.

★ ★ ★

Here's the way it looks from here in the two divisions:

CAPITOL

1. Dallas
2. Washington
3. Philadelphia
4. New Orleans

CENTURY

1. Pittsburgh
2. St. Louis
3. Cleveland
4. New York

The Redskins seem to be best equipped to challenge the Cowboys in the Capitol because of the passing of Sonny Jurgensen and the receiving of Charley Taylor and Bobby Mitchell.

If Ray McDonald, the big rookie from Idaho, lives up to his No. 1 draft pick, the Skins could have a balanced attack.

Dallas is the solid club with an experienced, talented defensive unit and a fast-striking offense built around Don Meredith, Bobby Hayes, Don Perkins and Dan Reeves.

Meredth's chronic arm trouble has made him erratic in the early games but Dandy Don will come around when the season starts. If the Cowboys have to go with Jerry Rhome or Craig Morton they could be in a real battle.

The Eagles shape up as a threat on the addition of men like Mike Ditka and Gary Ballman and the two fine rookie and Harry Jones.

If Joe Kuharich gets consistent quarterbacking from Norm Snead, he can put a flock of points on the board. The defense can be had although it has its spectacular blitzing moments with free safety Joe Scarpati on the loose.

Nobody expected the Saints to beat St. Louis, Pittsburgh and San Francisco in preseason but things will be different when they start playing for real.

Tom Fears has solid veterans in Billy Kilmer and Jim Taylor. His defensive group has done a surprisingly solid job. To use the coaches' favorite cliche, they're going to beat somebody.

The Century Division is something special. If Johnson hadn't gone into the Army, the Cards would be favored. If Cleveland had more depth and everybody was absolutely sure about Frank Ryan's arm, the Browns would be top ranked despite the effects of the five-man strike.

New York, a sad, sad 1-12-1 last year, has helped itself considerably and could win it if things continue to go wrong for the others.

Pittsburgh, however, is the pick here on the theory that (1) they are long overdue (2) Bill Nelsen is ready to become a top flight quarterback (3) Bill Austin brought order out of chaos last year.

The Steelers never have won but they closed strong in 1966 when Nelsen finally got back into action. They can not afford any more injuries like the loss of Ben McGee and Earl Gros.

In Golf, That Is

Blight on Marathons Is Just Too Much Time

By HAROLD V. RATLIFF

DALLAS, Tex. (AP) — Ever wonder what happened to marathon golf?

Better still, ever wonder what happened to the man who was the beginning and the end of marathon golf?

Well, for your information, this fellow—J. Smith Ferebee—plays 36 holes each Saturday and Sunday at Preston Trial Golf Club in Dallas.

He's 60 years old now, but his Spartan existence, which continues to this day, makes him appear at least 10 years younger.

The marathon golf mania began in 1939. Ferebee had played 144 holes of golf in one day in Chicago, then his home.

There came an avalanche of publicity. Ferebee was amazed to find his feat "on the front pages of 400 newspapers across the nation."

Suddenly, everyone started playing marathon golf," recalls the Dallas insurance executive. "One woman in Chicago played 145 holes to beat my record."

An executive friend of Ferebee became irritated because others were stealing his golfing buddy's thunder. He arranged a marathon tour and paid the $8,000 tab for plane expenses.

So Ferebee played 600 holes in four days, all across the nation. He traveled by chartered plane, hit Los Angeles, Phoenix, Kansas City, St. Louis, Milwaukee, Chicago and Philadelphia, and ended the tour with a final putt at the New York's World's Fair in view of Mayor LaGuardia and a welcoming delegation. He walked 180 miles making the tour.

Bet Up to $25,000

Ferebee had made wagers amounting to $25,000, getting odds as high of 15-1. So the tour was a money-making affair.

After the marathon ended in New York, Ferebee was pressed for an encore. After a good rest, he decided a short return performance that would help him unlimber after his arduous feat. He went out and played another round of golf.

"I wasn't trying to be smart," said Ferebee. "I just didn't want to be sore."

He shed 25 pounds on the tour and received over 100 telegrams, stacks of letters and four proposals of marriage.

Ferebee has done other things of the marathon variety. For instance he fired 2,400 shots in four hours and 18 minutes, breaking 86 per cent of the targets on a skeet range.

He has won wagers by swimming the length of a pool eight or ten times with his feet and hands tied behind his back. He says he can still swim eight or ten miles a day.

This latter-day spartain abstains from smoking and drinking, does calisthenics each day and hits the hay by 11 p. m.

Sounds dull, doesn't it? But J. Smith Ferebee seems to be enjoying himself and living longer than the "swingers."

Coach School Slated by AJBC At Mid-City

Adults in the Kingston area who are interested in working with young people in the American Junior Bowling Congress program are invited to attend a one-day Certified Coach-Instructor school at Mid-City Lanes in Kingston on Sept. 12.

The school will begin at 4 p. m. There is no fee involved. Conducting the school will be AJBC Field Representative Robert Mason of Buffalo.

To qualify for certification as Certified Coach-Instructor, an individual must attend the entire class and pass a written examination given at the close of the day.

Ferraro Helps In Spokane Win

Mike Ferraro's double was a key hit as Spokane won the Western division playoff in the Pacific Coast League, 6-1, Tuesday night at Portland.

The former Kingston High star went 1 for 3 at the plate and played errorless ball in the field as Spokane advanced to the best of seven final series against San Diego.

Portland and Spokane finished the regular season on Labor Day tied for first place. San Diego was an easy winner in the Eastern division of the league.

The division winners will play the first three games in San Diego. The rest of the playoff tilts will be held in Spokane.

First IL Flag For Richmond

By ED YOUNG

It was a long, frustrating wait, but Richmond's Braves have won their first pennant in the Class AAA International League, and no one can ever say they didn't earn it.

With pitcher Jim Britton casting his customary spell over Rochester and a lesser luminary in the line-up driving in the runs, the Braves took their flag-deciding playoff from the Red Wings 2-0 Tuesday night.

Thus, on the enemy's field and in its 17th season in the league, Richmond finally finished No. 1. Thirteen times in those 17 years, its IL team had wound up in the second division.

Rochester, which put up a fierce struggle for its 14th pannant and its second in a row, wouldn't argue the Braves' right to the flag. Tuesday's triumph was Richmond's 15th in 21 games with the Wings this year.

But the all-or-nothing playoff game, like the 140-game season that ended Monday with the Braves and Red Wings tied for first with 80-60 records, was in doubt right to the bitter end.

Until the seventh inning, Rochester's 19-year-old rookie, Mike Adamson, matched Britton pitch for pitch in a scoreless duel of right-handers. Then the roof fell in for Adamson and a Red Wing Stadium crowd of 11,459.

Jim Beauchamp led off the Braves' seventh with a single. Bobby Cox followed with a double, and moments later right fielder Mike Page, an unlikely hero, singled them both across the plate.

But it wasn't over yet. Britton, 6-for-6 against Rochester this season, went into the ninth with a two-hitter. Ron Stone then stroked a lead-off single for the Wings and, after retiring John Scruggs, Britton walked Curt Motton, bringing cleaniup man Steve Demeter to bat.

With the game-winning, pennant-winning run at the plate, right-hander Larry Maxie came to Britton's relief—and fanned Demeter on four pitches. Left-hander Skip Guinn then relieved Maxie and induced lefty hitter Ray Barker to ground to the infield for the final Red Wing out.

There was a tragic footnote to the game for the victorious Braves. In the tense final inning, Britton's father—who had come to Rochester to see his son pitch—suffered a heart attack and died.

DOUBLE PAYS, it says on the tote board and it did to the tune of $2,530.40, highest payoff in New York State this year Tuesday at Aqueduct. Jockeys Willie Shoemaker (L) and Oswaldo Rosado proudly point to the daily double figure. Shoemaker led Led Astray to victory in the first race and Rosado brought Celtic Wind home ahead in the second. (UPI TELEPHOTO)

Cutdown Day Comes For Grid Veterans

By MIKE RECHT
Associated Press Sports Writer

Cut down day was a cut up day for Tom Flores and Jacky Lee, but such players as Booth Lusteg, Glen Bass, Terry Southall and Lionel Taylor had no reason to celebrate.

Veterans like Lusteg, Bass, J.D. Smith and Jack Spikes and rookies Southall and John Hankinson felt the ax Tuesday as pro football teams reduced their rosters, and Taylor, the American League's all-time leading receiver, quietly chopped short his career.

Taylor, 30, led the AFL in receptions in five of his seven seasons and hauled in 543 passes in all before Oakland acquired him from Denver last winter in one of the biggest off-season trades. However, he caught only 35 passes last year.

The action topped a day of surprises from the Raider camp in a shakeup of receivers. The Raiders dropped sophomore tight end Tom Mitchell, who started part of last year after signing for a reported six-figure bonus, and acquired Dave Kocourek from Miami for a draft choice.

They also cut veterans Purvis Atkins, an end, and Bass, a flanker acquired with quarterback Daryle Lamonica from Buffalo in another big trade last winter for Flores and receiver Art Powell.

Had 98 Points

Lusteg was the placekicker who led Buffalo in scoring with 98 points last season as a replacement for Pete Gogolak. He lost his job to Mike Mercer, who had 98 points for Kansas City last year.

Smith, a veteran fullback, and Warren Livingston, a regular last season in his sixth year in the NFL, got the word from the Dallas Cowboys. Spikes, a running back entering his eighth AFL season, was waived by Buffalo.

Southall, lauded with publicity out of Baylor, was cut by Baltimore and Hankinson failed at Minnesota. Both are quarterbacks.

But two quarterbacks stepped into jobs instead of out of them as the AFL teams got down to 40 players and the NFL 43 (the NFL must cut to 40 by Monday).

Flores was named the starting quarterback for the Bills for their opener with New York Sunday.

Coach Wally Lemm gave Lee the starting assignment over Don Trull at Houston.

Turkey Shoot At Saugerties

Saugerties Fish and Game Club has set Sunday, Sept. 17 as the date for its annual fall turkey shoot. Proceeds will be used to assist the pheasant stocking committee which plans to stock 100 pheasants this season.

The annual rabbit-dog field trial has been set for Sunday, Oct. 23, at the dog training area in Asbury. Letters of invitation will be sent to all area clubs.

It was announced that the annual Federated Sportmen's field day and trapshoot will be held at Walker Valley on Sept. 24. Practice day for the shoot is Sept. 10, also at Walker Valley.

New members admitted to club include: Jack Lowther, Tom Dardani and Pat Clausi.

Swim O Links Champs In Saugerties BRL

Swim O Links of Woodstock, first half winners, defeated Ferroxcube in straight games, 4 to 1 and 11 to 6, for the Saugerties Babe Ruth League championship.

Eddie Mercer limited Ferroxcube to three hits and struck out 13 in the first game. The winners collected only four hits off Lou Whitaker and Jimmy Walsh but took advantage of Whitaker's wildness in the second inning and scored all their runs on two hits and five walks.

Fran Sinnott's triple was the big blow for the losers.

In the second game, Swim O Links jumped to a 4-2 lead then added two runs in the fourth and five in the fifth. Mark Haberstroh went all the way for Swim O Links, yielding seven hits and striking out 8. Bill Mellert stroked three singles to pace the winners' 11-hit attack on Gary Sperl. Jim Levins added two singles.

NFL: New Orleans Saints

Tom Fears

Tom Hall

GENERAL COMMENT—The Saints go marching into pro football as possibly the best expansion team ever for one basic reason—they start off with the prime ingredients of fine quarterbacking and a top running back. But they'll still suffer effects of hurried organization.

OFFENSE

PASSING—Gary Cuozzo gets his wish—chance to be No. 1 man instead of Unitas' shadow. He's smart and has the sharp arm that Bill Kilmer, Gary Wood lack, though they scramble better. Rating—B

RECEIVING—Coach Tom Fears, an old pass-nabbing star himself, isn't complaining. Has a solid tight end in Kent Kramer, and good competition at the deep spots—Ray Ogden jousting with Jerry Simmons at split end, steady Tom Hall hustling to stay in front of Steve Heckard. Rating B

RUNNING—No sign that Jimmy Taylor won't be the combative, digging lineblaster he was at Green Bay. Too bad there's no Hornung alongside for company. Best Saints have been able to muster so far is rookie Don McCall, though burly Tom Barrington threatens to forge ahead. Rating B minus

LINE—There's long-range potential. Del Williams, guard from Florida State, has Fears raving, "Can't miss." Tackles Bill Sandeman, Ray Rissmiller are young guys who got sidetracked by injuries in past. Joe Wendryhoski, center, and Jake Kupp at guard have been around awhile. It's up to the young guys to show clss. Rating—C plus KICKING—Couple of pleasant surprises have popped up. Chuck Durkee as an effective field goal kicker, Tom McNeil as potentially sensational punter.

DEFENSE

LINE—Nice blend at age and youth. Jim Garcia, from Giants, has been pleasant surprise at end; Mike Tilleman looked good at tackle 'till injured. David Rowe is a rookie who will step right in at tackle. Ex-Bear Brian Schweda set at other end. And still they'll get much service from ex-Bears Doug Atkins, Earl Leggett. Rating—B minus

LINEBACKERS—Reaped a bonanza from Colts in Steve Stonebreaker, Ted Davis, Jackie Burkett. First two are starters at corners. Either Fred Whittingham or Dave Simmons will hold down middle with verve. And that still leaves Phil Vandersea, who was rated high by Packers. Rating—B

SECONDARY—Probably youngest part of team. Fears likes couple of rookie cornerbacks, John Douglas and Bruce Cortez, though vet Dave Whitsell likely will be regular. Jimmy Heidel, Obert Logan shap up as safeties—nothing sensational, but adequate. Bo Burris will make squad on versatility. Rating—C plus

SUMMARY—The Saints have a good shot at winning at least four games, more than any expansion team in either league. Lot depends on how fast their offensive line develops as a unit and if they can uncover another threat to ease Taylor's load. But no one's going to make them look bad. PREDICTION—Last on Capitol division.

Galie's Rhythm Mighty M Winner

MONTICELLO, New York—Galie's Rhythm, a seven-year-old Galophone gelding, won the featured trot at Monticello Raceway last night as driver Charley DeMore took him wire to wire in 2:09.4.

It was the second win in eight starts for Galie's Rhythm, owned by Jon Flipelli of Brooklyn. The winner returned $13.00, 6.60 and 4.60.

Second was Ronnie Star driven by Robert Bostic, with Adlai Hanover, closing to get third in a three-horse photo.

On the last night of the season for school children to view the pari-mutuel races at the Catskill Mountain oval—school opens here Wednesday and the state law prohibits them attending when classes are in session—a pair of heavy favorites won the opening races for a meager $11.40 daily double. The combination was 1-1 as Mr. Lindsay took the opener for pilot Robert Campbell and Earle Smith won the second behind Decidedly.

Chisox Blame Poor Weather For Bad Gate

By CHARLES CHAMBERLAIN

CHICAGO (AP) — You can blame the weather for a lot of things and that's what the Chicago White Sox are doing to explain disappointing home attendance.

For a red-hot American League pennant contender, the Sox' turnstiles haven't exactly flipped a cog. You'd think more than a million would have flocked in by now, but the count is only 774,308.

Some say the Sox play dull baseball — low scoring, one-run affairs without enough homers to keep the rust from collecting on the exploding scoreboard.

Some say the setting of Comisky Park on the fringe of the Negro ghetto on the South Side leaves something to be desired.

In addition to unusually poor weather this season, there are other extenuating things.

The top-struggling Boston Red Sox and White Sox met several weeks ago. The big Sunday doubleheader drew only 22,000. Five days before the series opened there were a couple of shootings around the parking areas. Advance sales slipped as the affair received frontpage treatment in the city's newspapers.

With the White Sox trying to hold their lead in the pennant chase, a series with Detroit, Cleveland and Kansas City July 25 to Aug. 16 came at a time when the Dan Ryan Expressway — main feeder line to Comisky Park — was undergoing extensive repairs. People stayed home rather than get involved in the massive traffic jams.

"Sure, our attendance hasn't been what we had hoped," said General Manager Eddie Short. "It's up 38,000, however. But we lost 300,000 in attendance as a result of seven rainouts."

Stote Leader In Trapshoot

Walt Stote led IBM's qualifying trapshoot for the IBM Watson Trophy shoot tonight with a .787 average at Lake Katrine Rod and Gun Club. Three shooters—Larry Hites, Pete Lemister and Brian Sawchuck—tied with .760.

Richard McManus posted .720 and Ted Blossom .704.

The weekly Wednesday night shoot at Lake Katrine is an open shoot, with all shooters invited. The IBM shooting scores are turned in for the same trophy shoot qualification but is not the primary purpose of the shoot. The majority of the shooters are not IBM employes.

Beautiful Lady stepped to a brisk 1¼ - length victory over Warrior Hanover Tuesday night and won the $1,300 pace at Batavia Downs.

The 4-year-old chestnut mare, driven by Dick Welch, circled the half-mile oval twice in 2:06. Joyous Lad was third in the conditioned mile, the evening's top event at harness tracks in New York State.

Beautiful Lady returned $17.80.

In races featured at other tracks:

Vernon Downs — Bill Rodney ($5) defeated Fair Lillian by four lengths and won the $900 trot in 2:05 4-5. Ina Lee was third.

Saratoga Raceway — The $700 pace was won by Schalmont ($2.20), a 7-year-old black gelding who defeated Morton W. by nearly six lengths. Rebel Land Wayne was third in the mile, clocked in 2:06 3-5.

Consolation To Nationwide

The 110th and final game of the season in the Saugerties Softball League saw the biggest comeback of the campaign, as Nationwide Insurance rallied with 8 runs in the top of the seventh to edge Boo's Tavern, 12-11, in the third and final game of the consolation playoffs in the Met division.

Barryney Hoyt was breezing on a 3-hitter and 9-4 lead when Nationwide erupted for eight runs. During the uprising, Bob Raucci's 2-run homer tied the score and three-run homer by pinch hitter Dan Simmons climaxed the inning to send Nationwide ahead, 12-10.

Boo's surged back with two runs and had the bases loaded with two outs when shortstop Fred Francello stopped a hard smash and threw the runner out from his knees.

Trophy Winners

Season trophy winners were: Yankee Division—pennant, Michael's Barber Shop; playoffs—Michael's; consolation, Southside Men's Club; Met Division—pennant, Ted's Esso; playoffs, Viking Lounge; consolation, Nationwide Insurance.

Two big games remain the All Star Thursday at 7:30 p.m. On Sunday, Sept. 17, Michael's Barber Shop meets Perry's Grill, the Kingston champions for the Ulster county championship. The league picnic is slated Saturday at 1 p. m. at Mickle's Farm in Asbury.

KICKING—Couple of pleasant surprises have popped up. Chuck Durkee as an effective field goal kicker, Tom McNeil as potentially sensational punter.

DEFENSE

LINE—Nice blend at age and youth. Jim Garcia, from Giants, has been pleasant surprise at end; Mike Tilleman looked good at tackle 'till injured. David Rowe is a rookie who will step right in at tackle. Ex-Bear Brian Schweda set at other end. And still they'll get much service from ex-Bears Doug Atkins, Earl Leggett. Rating—B minus

LINEBACKERS—Reaped a bonanza from Colts in Steve Stonebreaker, Ted Davis, Jackie Burkett. First two are starters at corners. Either Fred Whittingham or Dave Simmons will hold down middle with verve. And that still leaves Phil Vandersea, who was rated high by Packers. Rating—B

SECONDARY—Probably youngest part of team. Fears likes couple of rookie cornerbacks, John Douglas and Bruce Cortez, though vet Dave Whitsell likely will be regular. Jimmy Heidel, Obert Logan shap up as safeties—nothing sensational, but adequate. Bo Burris will make squad on versatility. Rating—C plus

SUMMARY—The Saints have a good shot at winning at least four games, more than any expansion team in either league. Lot depends on how fast their offensive line develops as a unit and if they can uncover another threat to ease Taylor's load. But no one's going to make them look bad. PREDICTION—Last on Capitol division.

Galie's Rhythm Mighty M Winner

MONTICELLO, New York—Galie's Rhythm, a seven-year-old Galophone gelding, won the featured trot at Monticello Raceway last night as driver Charley DeMore took him wire to wire in 2:09.4.

It was the second win in eight starts for Galie's Rhythm, owned by Jon Flipelli of Brooklyn. The winner returned $13.00, 6.60 and 4.60.

Second was Ronnie Star driven by Robert Bostic, with Adlai Hanover, closing to get third in a three-horse photo.

On the last night of the season for school children to view the pari-mutuel races at the Catskill Mountain oval—school opens here Wednesday and the state law prohibits them attending when classes are in session—a pair of heavy favorites won the opening races for a meager $11.40 daily double. The combination was 1-1 as Mr. Lindsay took the opener for pilot Robert Campbell and Earle Smith won the second behind Decidedly.

Chisox Blame Poor Weather For Bad Gate

By CHARLES CHAMBERLAIN

CHICAGO (AP) — You can blame the weather for a lot of things and that's what the Chicago White Sox are doing to explain disappointing home attendance.

For a red-hot American League pennant contender, the Sox' turnstiles haven't exactly flipped a cog. You'd think more than a million would have flocked in by now, but the count is only 774,308.

Some say the Sox play dull baseball — low scoring, one-run affairs without enough homers to keep the rust from collecting on the exploding scoreboard.

Some say the setting of Comisky Park on the fringe of the Negro ghetto on the South Side leaves something to be desired.

In addition to unusually poor weather this season, there are other extenuating things.

The top-struggling Boston Red Sox and White Sox met several weeks ago. The big Sunday doubleheader drew only 22,000. Five days before the series opened there were a couple of shootings around the parking areas. Advance sales slipped as the affair received frontpage treatment in the city's newspapers.

With the White Sox trying to hold their lead in the pennant chase, a series with Detroit, Cleveland and Kansas City July 25 to Aug. 16 came at a time when the Dan Ryan Expressway — main feeder line to Comisky Park — was undergoing extensive repairs. People stayed home rather than get involved in the massive traffic jams.

"Sure, our attendance hasn't been what we had hoped," said General Manager Eddie Short. "It's up 38,000, however. But we lost 300,000 in attendance as a result of seven rainouts."

Stote Leader In Trapshoot

Walt Stote led IBM's qualifying trapshoot for the IBM Watson Trophy shoot tonight with a .787 average at Lake Katrine Rod and Gun Club. Three shooters—Larry Hites, Pete Lemister and Brian Sawchuck—tied with .760.

Richard McManus posted .720 and Ted Blossom .704.

The weekly Wednesday night shoot at Lake Katrine is an open shoot, with all shooters invited. The IBM shooting scores are turned in for the same trophy shoot qualification but is not the primary purpose of the shoot. The majority of the shooters are not IBM employes.

Consolation To Nationwide

The 110th and final game of the season in the Saugerties Softball League saw the biggest comeback of the campaign, as Nationwide Insurance rallied with 8 runs in the top of the seventh to edge Boo's Tavern, 12-11, in the third and final game of the consolation playoffs in the Met division.

Baryney Hoyt was breezing on a 3-hitter and 9-4 lead when Nationwide erupted for eight runs. During the uprising, Bob Raucci's 2-run homer tied the score and three-run homer by pinch hitter Dan Simmons climaxed the inning to send Nationwide ahead, 12-10.

Boo's surged back with two runs and had the bases loaded with two outs when shortstop Fred Francello stopped a hard smash and threw the runner out from his knees.

Trophy Winners

Rat Bill May Put Off Health

WASHINGTON (AP) — The administration's controversial proposal for a new federal rat extermination program, rejected once by the House, now threatens to delay indefinitely a $1-billion health aid bill.

Two congressmen plan to add the rat measure to the health bill, but the administration, opposing this, wants to set up the new rat program in the Department of Housing and Urban Development.

Seen Wasteful

The rat bill, which would have authorized HUD to spend $40 million over two years, was turned down 207 to 176 in July when the Democratic leadership sought to bring it up for House debate. Most Republicans and Southern Democrats opposed it.

A major objection was that it would be wasteful to start a new program when the funds could be put into one of the government's existing programs.

This argument was made by Rep. Henry S. Reuss, D-Wis., a liberal and usually a strong administration supporter, in views filed with the Banking Committee's report on the measure. However, after debate last July on whether to even take up the bill became heated and partisan, Reuss backed the Democratic leadership's attempt to bring it to the floor.

Republicans, eager to explain to their constituents why they opposed the rat bill in the wake of critical editorial comment about their actions, quickly took to quoting Reuss on the waste issue. For example, Rep. Richard L. Roudebush, a conservative Indiana Republican, cited existing programs in HUD, the Department of the Interior and the Office of Economic Opportunity and said Reuss, "a liberal who has the respect of all congressmen, made the point most effectively against the LBJ proposal."

Eye $20 Million More

Two weeks ago, Reuss and Rep. Charles Mathias of Maryland, a liberal Republican who supported the rat bill in July, announced they would seek to add $20 million for rat extermination to the authorization for development of health services when the so-called "Partnership for Health" measure is considered in the House.

Mr. and Mrs. Ronald Vernooy of Brewster, formerly of Tillson attended the State Fair at Syracuse and took part in the square dance festival competition Thursday, Aug. 31, consisting of 50 sets of square dancers in the state divided into divisions.

Robert Brundage of Danbury, Conn. did the calling to a live band. Mr. and Mrs. Vernooy won first place in their division plus a cash award.

Mrs. Vernooy is the daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Orvel Kimbark of Kingston, and she was very active with the Girl Scouts while living in Tillson.

Producer to Bring Back Silent Movies

BY GENE HANDSAKER

HOLLYWOOD (AP) — What's this? Somebody making a SILENT movie again after all these years?

Yes, he's Ralph Andrews, an independent television producer. The film, his first for theaters, is "The Silent Treatment." Judging from two reels he projected for this reporter, it will be as wild as the soundless Charlie Chaplin and Keystone Kops antics of the '20s.

There are the frantic chases, exaggerated guestures and dialogue cards instead of audible words. Will moderns go to see this first Hollywood silent since Chaplin's 1936 "Modern Times"?

Andrews is so sure they will that he financed the film himself, is directing it, and isn't bothering to seek a distributor until he has a rough cut assembled this fall.

A onetime NBC stuio page and Ralph Edwards TV apprentice, he has produced daytime's "You Don't Say," starring Tom Kennedy, for five years. Fond of visual gags, Andrews clutters his desk with gadgets including a monstrous mallet labeled "We welcome criticism."

Egg-bald—like Yul Brynner, he shaves his head—and colorful in striped shirt and red sweater, Andrews sketched his film's lot.

An advertising agency selects a clean-shaven hippie (Marty Ingels) for a promotional stunt. If Ingels can make $10,000 worth of purchases in two weeks with a client's credit card, using no cash, he'll win a prize. His escapades involve one of the biggest casts of bit-playing guest stars ever assembled.

Rowan and Martin are cops, Barry Sullivan a car-rental proprietor, Wally Cox a masseur, Godfrey Cambridge a hotel manager, Phyllis Diller a prostitute working for "Never on Sunday, Inc." Others including George Raft, Rudy Vallee, Gene Autry and Jackie Coogan—Chaplin's co-star in the silents' famed "The Kid"—flash by.

President and Mrs. Johnson and California Gov. Ronald Reagan join the action on clips reels. "First time in history a President has had a part in a movie!," Andrews exulted.

As Ingels' adventures make banner headlines, LBJ tells newsmen on a dialogue card, "Ah watch and wait with the entire nation." Lady Bird assures Ingels, "We're all pullin' for you," and Reagan wonders, "Will he make it?"

None of the dignitaries was consulted about these liberties.

Contray to the original silents, the film will be in color and have a musical bakground including a trumpet cackle to simulate Miss Diller's laugh.

"Good comedy should be seen

Professorship Runs Into Snag

ALBANY, N.Y. (AP) — The appointment of communications theorist Marshall McLuhan to a $100,000 state professorship has run into a snag because of possible constitutional problems, it was learned today.

The state attorney general's office told The Associated Press it was trying to determine whether the signing of McLuhan to a contract to teach at Fordham University would violate the so-called Blaine Amendment ban on state aid to sectarian institutions.

Sources close to Atty. Gen. Louis J. Lefkowitz said the State Education Department had asked the Law Department for an opinion on the contract.

McLuhan, a professor at the University of Toronto, was nominated by Fordham in 1966 to fill an Albert Schweitzer chair in the humanities at Fordham. The State Board of Regents approved the nomination last January but left it to the Education Department to work out a contract with him.

The Schweitzer chair is a state - created post which pays $100,000 a year for salary, research and other expenses.

Sources in the Law Department said Lefkowitz had been asked to determine whether allotment of about $50,000 for staff assistance and research might be challenged on constitutional grounds.

The question was raised, sources said, because Fordham, a Roman Catholic institution administered by the Jesuits, would receive at least some of the money for providing aides and working space.

The professorship, one of 10 that carry supporting funds of $100,000 a year, was authorized by a 1964 state law.

They were established to attract famous scholars to higher educational institutions in New York State.

McLuhan is the author of a book entitled "Understanding Media," in which he argues, among other things, that modern electronic communication methods have become more important than the messages they carry.

Under the existing state Constitution, the state is forbidden to grant either direct or indirect financial aid to church - related institutions. The Constitutional Convention has voted to rescind the provision, but it remains in force until New York voters pass on the recommendation.

Lefkowitz has been asked to determine whether disbursement of state money to help pay McLuhan's expenses at Fordham would violate the prohibition.

Man Treated, Was Hit by Car

George Simmons, 70, of 56 Van Buren Street, was injured shortly after noon Tuesday, when hit by a car on Broadway near Thomas Street, according to police. He was taken to Kingston Hospital by Doctors Ambulance and treated for bruises of the left elbow and right knee.

A police report noted that Simmons walked between parked cars into the right side of a northbound car operated by Edward C. Bruck, 46, of 180 Hasbrouck Avenue.

At 1:30 p. m. yesterday cars operated by Laura F. Carvallo, of Esopus Avenue, Ulster Park, and Regina Arensman, Spring Lake Trailer Park, were involved in a mishap at the Interchange traffic circle. No injuries were reported.

Rat Bill May Put Off Health

WASHINGTON (AP) — The administration's controversial proposal for a new federal rat extermination program, rejected once by the House, now threatens to delay indefinitely a $1-billion health aid bill.

Two congressmen plan to add the rat measure to the health bill, but the administration, opposing this, wants to set up the new rat program in the Department of Housing and Urban Development.

Seen Wasteful

The rat bill, which would have authorized HUD to spend $40 million over two years, was turned down 207 to 176 in July when the Democratic leadership sought to bring it up for House debate. Most Republicans and Southern Democrats opposed it.

A major objection was that it would be wasteful to start a new program when the funds could be put into one of the government's existing programs.

This argument was made by Rep. Henry S. Reuss, D-Wis., a liberal and usually a strong administration supporter, in views filed with the Banking Committee's report on the measure. However, after debate last July on whether to even take up the bill became heated and partisan, Reuss backed the Democratic leadership's attempt to bring it to the floor.

Republicans, eager to explain to their constituents why they opposed the rat bill in the wake of critical editorial comment about their actions, quickly took to quoting Reuss on the waste issue. For example, Rep. Richard L. Roudebush, a conservative Indiana Republican, cited existing programs in HUD, the Department of the Interior and the Office of Economic Opportunity and said Reuss, "a liberal who has the respect of all congressmen, made the point most effectively against the LBJ proposal."

Eye $20 Million More

Two weeks ago, Reuss and Rep. Charles Mathias of Maryland, a liberal Republican who supported the rat bill in July, announced they would seek to add $20 million for rat extermination to the authorization for development of health services when the so-called "Partnership for Health" measure is considered in the House.

Producer to Bring Back Silent Movies

BY GENE HANDSAKER

HOLLYWOOD (AP) — What's this? Somebody making a SILENT movie again after all these years?

Yes, he's Ralph Andrews, an independent television producer. The film, his first for theaters, is "The Silent Treatment." Judging from two reels he projected for this reporter, it will be as wild as the soundless Charlie Chaplin and Keystone Kops antics of the '20s.

There are the frantic chases, exaggerated guestures and dialogue cards instead of audible words. Will moderns go to see this first Hollywood silent since Chaplin's 1936 "Modern Times"?

Andrews is so sure they will that he financed the film himself, is directing it, and isn't bothering to seek a distributor until he has a rough cut assembled this fall.

A onetime NBC stuio page and Ralph Edwards TV apprentice, he has produced daytime's "You Don't Say," starring Tom Kennedy, for five years. Fond of visual gags, Andrews clutters his desk with gadgets including a monstrous mallet labeled "We welcome criticism."

Egg-bald—like Yul Brynner, he shaves his head—and colorful in striped shirt and red sweater, Andrews sketched his film's lot.

An advertising agency selects a clean-shaven hippie (Marty Ingels) for a promotional stunt. If Ingels can make $10,000 worth of purchases in two weeks with a client's credit card, using no cash, he'll win a prize. His escapades involve one of the biggest casts of bit-playing guest stars ever assembled.

Rowan and Martin are cops, Barry Sullivan a car-rental proprietor, Wally Cox a masseur, Godfrey Cambridge a hotel manager, Phyllis Diller a prostitute working for "Never on Sunday, Inc." Others including George Raft, Rudy Vallee, Gene Autry and Jackie Coogan—Chaplin's co-star in the silents' famed "The Kid"—flash by.

President and Mrs. Johnson and California Gov. Ronald Reagan join the action on clips reels. "First time in history a President has had a part in a movie!," Andrews exulted.

As Ingels' adventures make banner headlines, LBJ tells newsmen on a dialogue card, "Ah watch and wait with the entire nation." Lady Bird assures Ingels, "We're all pullin' for you," and Reagan wonders, "Will he make it?"

None of the dignitaries was consulted about these liberties.

Contray to the original silents, the film will be in color and have a musical bakground including a trumpet cackle to simulate Miss Diller's laugh.

Professorship Runs Into Snag

ALBANY, N.Y. (AP) — The appointment of communications theorist Marshall McLuhan to a $100,000 state professorship has run into a snag because of possible constitutional problems, it was learned today.

The state attorney general's office told The Associated Press it was trying to determine whether the signing of McLuhan to a contract to teach at Fordham University would violate the so-called Blaine Amendment ban on state aid to sectarian institutions.

Sources close to Atty. Gen. Louis J. Lefkowitz said the State Education Department had asked the Law Department for an opinion on the contract.

McLuhan, a professor at the University of Toronto, was nominated by Fordham in 1966 to fill an Albert Schweitzer chair in the humanities at Fordham. The State Board of Regents approved the nomination last January but left it to the Education Department to work out a contract with him.

The Schweitzer chair is a state - created post which pays $100,000 a year for salary, research and other expenses.

Sources in the Law Department said Lefkowitz had been asked to determine whether allotment of about $50,000 for staff assistance and research might be challenged on constitutional grounds.

The question was raised, sources said, because Fordham, a Roman Catholic institution administered by the Jesuits, would receive at least some of the money for providing aides and working space.

The professorship, one of 10 that carry supporting funds of $100,000 a year, was authorized by a 1964 state law.

They were established to attract famous scholars to higher educational institutions in New York State.

McLuhan is the author of a book entitled "Understanding Media," in which he argues, among other things, that modern electronic communication methods have become more important than the messages they carry.

Under the existing state Constitution, the state is forbidden to grant either direct or indirect financial aid to church - related institutions. The Constitutional Convention has voted to rescind the provision, but it remains in force until New York voters pass on the recommendation.

Lefkowitz has been asked to determine whether disbursement of state money to help pay McLuhan's expenses at Fordham would violate the prohibition.

Non-Sked 'Party' At Ray's; Money, Whiskey Taken

Burglars again forced their way into Ray's Riverside Restaurant, 86 Ferry Street, during the night, and made off with whiskey worth more than $100 and the contents of a juke box. The entry was discovered and reported to authorities this morning by the owner, Raymond Cwill.

According to police records, entry was gained by smashing a rear window, apparently with a chair. The intruders made their way to the juke box, forced it open and took about $60 in silver. The whiskey was taken from a storeroom at the rear of the kitchen.

Police said a cigarette machine was taken from the bar in the dining room, but it was not opened. Three partly filled bottles of liquor were found at the rear of the restaurant, and authorities theorized that the intruders might have stopped "for a party."

Cwill, who recalled his place had been entered through the same window about three weeks ago, said spots of blood were found, indicating that an intruder might have been cut by the shattered window glass. The break-in last month netted the intruders the contents of the juke box which had been forced open.

Detectives are investigating.

Bitten by Dogs

Two complaints about persons being bitten by dogs were received by Kingston police. Herman J. Wolff, 63, of 14 East Chester Street, told police he was bitten on the right leg by a dog on Wall Street. He was treated by a physician. Police reports also noted Theresa Price, 5, of Box 264, Stone Ridge was bitten on the left hand by a dog at Kingston Shopping Plaza.

Barter Uranium, Food, Diamonds In International High Finance

By ROBERT GRAY

WASHINGTON (AP) — In a complicated trade to acquire $24 million of uranium it didn't need, the U.S. government swapped surplus foods for $27 million worth of industrial diamonds it didn't need either, the comptroller general has told Congress.

In a report on the dealing, Elmer B. Staats disagreed with the claim of executive-branch agencies that the transactions helped ease the dollar drain. He argued it had the opposite effect.

Many Factors

Figuring in varying degrees in the arrangements in late 1965 were the balance-of-payments issue, foreign policy, the national stockpile of strategic materials, agricultural surpluses, South African uranium, diamond smuggling in the Congo, the Atomic Energy Commission, and the Agriculture, State, Treasury, Justice and Defense departments.

"Just a simple business deal," a spokesman for the comptroller general commented Tuesday in providing additional details.

It began when the government, concerned about the dollar drain stemming from a long-term contract to purchase uranium from South Africa, decided to shift to a barter arrangement.

In such transactions, a government agency purchases surplus foods from the Commodity Credit Corporation. Private contractors sell the foods abroad. The foreign exchange realized is then used to finance U.S. purchases without spending of dollars, thus easing the drain on U.S. gold supplies.

The United States agreed in 1953 to purchase the uranium when it was short of that material. By 1962, it had developed reserves and "no longer needed uranium being produced abroad," the comptroller general said.

Still Enforced

But the purchase contract was still enforced.

After extended discussions, including revisions to meet Justice Department complaints about a lack of competition on bidding, a package plan was arranged.

Eight contractors would take over enough surplus food to raise foreign exchange for $30.7 million worth of Defense Department needs in Europe, $24.7 million worth of uranium and $27.7 million in industrial diamonds for the South African national stockpile. The comptroller general's office said the contractors were basically diamond dealers.

The Treasury Department approved, anticipating a favorable effect on the balance of payments.

The State Department suggested if diamonds were to be acquired, they be bought in the Congo to help that country's economy. The international diamond syndicate had reduced its purchases there on the ground that a lot of diamonds had been smuggled out and sold through other organizations.

Diamond Glut

But the comptroller general said there were already too many industrial diamonds in the U.S. stockpile of strategic materials and there was no need for more. The $27.7 million in agriculture commodities that eventually financed the diamond purchase could have been used to barter for goods actually needed, the report continued.

"The over-all result of the transaction was to deprive the United States of an opportunity to favorably affect its balance of payments position by an additional $27.7 million," Staats wrote.

The Agriculture Department agreed with Staats' view that each dollar of the barter that went to acquire unneeded strategic materials tended to decrease balance-of-payments benefits.

"Accordingly, we are limiting strategic material barter to very exceptional cases," the department said.

Brooklyn Disorders Continue

NEW YORK (AP) — Groups of Negro youths pelted police and firemen with rocks for several hours Tuesday night and set a truck afire in the same Brooklyn neighborhood where disorders followed the fatal shooting of a teen-aged mugging suspect by a detective the previous night.

Uneasy Calm

Mayor John V. Lindsay, top police officials, other city officials, community leaders and police reinforcements poured into the area and established an uneasy calm before midnight.

About 200 youths coming from a rock 'n roll show at Prospect Park threw bottles at cars and buses. Firemen could not get to a panel truck hit by a firebomb because of a barrage of rocks.

Shortly after that Chief Inspector Sanford Garelik said the situation was under control. Two patrolmen were injured, apparently not seriously. Police arrested 12 persons on various charges.

Hundreds of Negroes poured into the streets Monday night hurling bricks and bottles at police after Richard Ross, 14, was shot in the back of the head by Detective John Rattley, 42. Both are Negroes.

Police said Rattley and two other detectives pounced on Ross and four or five companions mugging a 73-year-old man. A grand jury probe, normal procedure in fatal shootings by police, was ordered earlier Tuesday.

Jobs Big Problem

Lindsay met with a group of community leaders at a police station for an hour and a half Tuesday night. He was accompanied by city officials, while others fanned out into the neighborhood. Lindsay said he was told that lack of jobs was a big problem in the neighborhood.

Assistant Chief Inspector Lloyd Sealy, highest ranking Negro in the police department, helped maintain the relative calm by talking to groups of youths on the streets and meeting with others in a nearby community center.

Aid in Cleanup Of Harlem Site

NEW YORK (AP) — On July 23 and 24, East 103rd Street was a battlefield. Platoons of policemen swept along the littered street with guns drawn. Sullen Puerto Rican youths threw bottles from the windows of tenement buildings. On Sept. 9, less than two months after the East Harlem riots which left two persons dead, 500 white, middle-class volunteers are set to move onto the East 103rd Street to help Negro and Spanish-speaking residents clean up the neighborhood.

The "work-in" is the culmination of a summer program sponsored by the Roman Catholic Archdiocese of New York and the U.S. Office of Economic Opportunity in slum areas throughout New York City.

The three-year-old "Summer in the City" program gets much of its dynamism from a tall, handsome priest who decided in the troubled summer of 1964 that "If we are going to do anything meaningful in the city, we have to take on the streets."

Msgr. Robert J. Fox, 37, coordinator of Spanish community action for the archdiocese, has been working in the streets ever since, encouraging the poor to find within themselves "the kind of powerless force that makes a difference."

An example of this "powerless force," Msgr. Fox said in an interview, was the series of religious marches, sponsored by the Archdiocese, that were credited with cooling off on those violent July nights. "El Barrio" as the 70,000 Puerto Ricans call their East Harlem neighborhood, is made up of 125 blocks of tenements, low income housing projects and small shops. It lies between Negro Harlem and the East River on Manhattan's Upper East Side.

"The most important thing we're fighting here is a feeling of helplessness, creating polarization between classes," said Msgr. Fox. "If the middle class discovers it can relate to the people here, and if the people here discover what they can do in their own environment, then there's some hope."

"Summer in the City," with its 26 storefront headquarters costing about $300,000, does not sponsor classes, job training or athletics. Instead, neighborhood residents, brothers, nuns and lay volunteers fan out through troubled neighborhoods, talking to residents and trying to help them see ways of helping themselves.

Non-Sked 'Party' At Ray's; Money, Whiskey Taken

Burglars again forced their way into Ray's Riverside Restaurant, 86 Ferry Street, during the night, and made off with whiskey worth more than $100 and the contents of a juke box. The entry was discovered and reported to authorities this morning by the owner, Raymond Cwill.

According to police records, entry was gained by smashing a rear window, apparently with a chair. The intruders made their way to the juke box, forced it open and took about $60 in silver. The whiskey was taken from a storeroom at the rear of the kitchen.

Police said a cigarette machine was taken from the bar in the dining room, but it was not opened. Three partly filled bottles of liquor were found at the rear of the restaurant, and authorities theorized that the intruders might have stopped "for a party."

Cwill, who recalled his place had been entered through the same window about three weeks ago, said spots of blood were found, indicating that an intruder might have been cut by the shattered window glass. The break-in last month netted the intruders the contents of the juke box which had been forced open.

Detectives are investigating.

Bitten by Dogs

Two complaints about persons being bitten by dogs were received by Kingston police. Herman J. Wolff, 63, of 14 East Chester Street, told police he was bitten on the right leg by a dog on Wall Street. He was treated by a physician. Police reports also noted Theresa Price, 5, of Box 264, Stone Ridge was bitten on the left hand by a dog at Kingston Shopping Plaza.

Barter Uranium, Food, Diamonds In International High Finance

By ROBERT GRAY

WASHINGTON (AP) — In a complicated trade to acquire $24 million of uranium it didn't need, the U.S. government swapped surplus foods for $27 million worth of industrial diamonds it didn't need either, the comptroller general has told Congress.

In a report on the dealing, Elmer B. Staats disagreed with the claim of executive-branch agencies that the transactions helped ease the dollar drain. He argued it had the opposite effect.

Many Factors

Figuring in varying degrees in the arrangements in late 1965 were the balance-of-payments issue, foreign policy, the national stockpile of strategic materials, agricultural surpluses, South African uranium, diamond smuggling in the Congo, the Atomic Energy Commission, and the Agriculture, State, Treasury, Justice and Defense departments.

"Just a simple business deal," a spokesman for the comptroller general commented Tuesday in providing additional details.

It began when the government, concerned about the dollar drain stemming from a long-term contract to purchase uranium from South Africa, decided to shift to a barter arrangement.

In such transactions, a government agency purchases surplus foods from the Commodity Credit Corporation. Private contractors sell the foods abroad. The foreign exchange realized is then used to finance U.S. purchases without spending of dollars, thus easing the drain on U.S. gold supplies.

The United States agreed in 1953 to purchase the uranium when it was short of that material. By 1962, it had developed reserves and "no longer needed uranium being produced abroad," the comptroller general said.

Still Enforced

But the purchase contract was still enforced.

After extended discussions, including revisions to meet Justice Department complaints about a lack of competition on bidding, a package plan was arranged.

Eight contractors would take over enough surplus food to raise foreign exchange for $30.7 million worth of Defense Department needs in Europe, $24.7 million worth of uranium and $27.7 million in industrial diamonds for the South African national stockpile. The comptroller general's office said the contractors were basically diamond dealers.

The Treasury Department approved, anticipating a favorable effect on the balance of payments.

The State Department suggested if diamonds were to be acquired, they be bought in the Congo to help that country's economy. The international diamond syndicate had reduced its purchases there on the ground that a lot of diamonds had been smuggled out and sold through other organizations.

Diamond Glut

But the comptroller general said there were already too many industrial diamonds in the U.S. stockpile of strategic materials and there was no need for more. The $27.7 million in agriculture commodities that eventually financed the diamond purchase could have been used to barter for goods actually needed, the report continued.

"The over-all result of the transaction was to deprive the United States of an opportunity to favorably affect its balance of payments position by an additional $27.7 million," Staats wrote.

The Agriculture Department agreed with Staats' view that each dollar of the barter that went to acquire unneeded strategic materials tended to decrease balance-of-payments benefits.

"Accordingly, we are limiting strategic material barter to very exceptional cases," the department said.

Brooklyn Disorders Continue

NEW YORK (AP) — Groups of Negro youths pelted police and firemen with rocks for several hours Tuesday night and set a truck afire in the same Brooklyn neighborhood where disorders followed the fatal shooting of a teen-aged mugging suspect by a detective the previous night.

Uneasy Calm

Mayor John V. Lindsay, top police officials, other city officials, community leaders and police reinforcements poured into the area and established an uneasy calm before midnight.

About 200 youths coming from a rock 'n roll show at Prospect Park threw bottles at cars and buses. Firemen could not get to a panel truck hit by a firebomb because of a barrage of rocks.

Shortly after that Chief Inspector Sanford Garelik said the situation was under control. Two patrolmen were injured, apparently not seriously. Police arrested 12 persons on various charges.

Hundreds of Negroes poured into the streets Monday night hurling bricks and bottles at police after Richard Ross, 14, was shot in the back of the head by Detective John Rattley, 42. Both are Negroes.

Police said Rattley and two other detectives pounced on Ross and four or five companions mugging a 73-year-old man. A grand jury probe, normal procedure in fatal shootings by police, was ordered earlier Tuesday.

Jobs Big Problem

Lindsay met with a group of community leaders at a police station for an hour and a half Tuesday night. He was accompanied by city officials, while others fanned out into the neighborhood. Lindsay said he was told that lack of jobs was a big problem in the neighborhood.

Assistant Chief Inspector Lloyd Sealy, highest ranking Negro in the police department, helped maintain the relative calm by talking to groups of youths on the streets and meeting with others in a nearby community center.

Aid in Cleanup Of Harlem Site

NEW YORK (AP) — On July 23 and 24, East 103rd Street was a battlefield. Platoons of policemen swept along the littered street with guns drawn. Sullen Puerto Rican youths threw bottles from the windows of tenement buildings. On Sept. 9, less than two months after the East Harlem riots which left two persons dead, 500 white, middle-class volunteers are set to move onto the East 103rd Street to help Negro and Spanish-speaking residents clean up the neighborhood.

The "work-in" is the culmination of a summer program sponsored by the Roman Catholic Archdiocese of New York and the U.S. Office of Economic Opportunity in slum areas throughout New York City.

The three-year-old "Summer in the City" program gets much of its dynamism from a tall, handsome priest who decided in the troubled summer of 1964 that "If we are going to do anything meaningful in the city, we have to take on the streets."

Msgr. Robert J. Fox, 37, coordinator of Spanish community action for the archdiocese, has been working in the streets ever since, encouraging the poor to find within themselves "the kind of powerless force that makes a difference."

An example of this "powerless force," Msgr. Fox said in an interview, was the series of religious marches, sponsored by the Archdiocese, that were credited with cooling off on those violent July nights. "El Barrio" as the 70,000 Puerto Ricans call their East Harlem neighborhood, is made up of 125 blocks of tenements, low income housing projects and small shops. It lies between Negro Harlem and the East River on Manhattan's Upper East Side.

"The most important thing we're fighting here is a feeling of helplessness, creating polarization between classes," said Msgr. Fox. "If the middle class discovers it can relate to the people here, and if the people here discover what they can do in their own environment, then there's some hope."

"Summer in the City," with its 26 storefront headquarters costing about $300,000, does not sponsor classes, job training or athletics. Instead, neighborhood residents, brothers, nuns and lay volunteers fan out through troubled neighborhoods, talking to residents and trying to help them see ways of helping themselves.

Dear Abby

Forget What Others Think

By ABIGAIL VAN BUREN

DEAR ABBY: Recently, my 30-year-old son and I had to make an extensive cross-country trip.

We drove and stopped at motels over night. The average singe room was $11. A twin-bedded room was $13. It seemed only sensible for us to share a twin-bedded room for $13 instead of spending $22 for two singles.

When I recounted our experiences to friends, I casually mentioned the fact that my son and I had shared a room each night, and you should have seen the eyebrows shoot up at the implied "indecency" of such an arrangement.

Do you see anything "indecent" about a mother and her 30-year-old son sharing a room? Or am I too stupid to see it?

CALIFORNIAN

DEAR CALIFORNIAN: The only "stupidity" in this situation would be for you to seriously concern yourself with what others think.

* * *

DEAR ABBY: I know it's awfully early to be worrying about Christmas, but I am. You see, last year we had lots of sickness in our family, and owed a lot of money, so we decided not to give Christmas presents to anyone excepting our children. Not even to each other.

We asked all our relatives not to give anything this year because we couldn't give them anything.

Well, along came Christmas, and all our relatives gave us real nice gifts, just like we hadn't said a word. Abby, my husband felt so bad. It was the first time I had ever seen him cry.

When we asked our relatives why they gave us gifts, they said, "Because we wanted to, not because we expected anything in return."

This year we are still in debt, but my husband says he is not going to be the poor relative again, and he will borrow the money to buy everyone Christmas gifts.

I don't think he should, but he has a lot of pride.

Weren't our relatives wrong to give us presents when we asked them not to? How should it be handled this year?

CHRISTMAS SADNESS

DEAR SADNESS: Had your relatives been able to foresee your husband's reactions to their gifts, I'm sure they would have respected your wishes. But their generosity exemplified the true Chrismas spirit—giving without expecting anything in return.

I think your husband is wrong to consider going deeper into debt to salve his pride. Do your best to persuade him not to. And ask your relatives to please omit gifts this year.

* * *

DEAR ABBY: My wife and children have been visiting my wife's parent in the east for the past three weeks.

Last night I became lonesome and wanted to hear her voice, and tell her that I missed her, so I picked up the phone and called her. I realized that it was nearly one o'clock in the morning where she was, but she told me that she and her mother always sat up talking until that late.

When she answered the phone, she gave me a two minute lecture on why I shouldn't have called her at that hour. Then she asked me what I wanted.

Do you think I was out of line calling her at that hour?

LONESOME JOE

* * *

DEAR JOE: Not if you were certain she would be up. Perhaps your unexpected call startled her. But if that's the way your wife continues to react to your expression of affection and loneliness, I'll be looking for another Dear Abby letter (from her) with a bigger problem.

How Expert Plays Trumps

By Oswald and James Jacoby
Newspaper Enterprise Assn.

The late Grant Marsee of Detroit was one of our best players but, more than that, he was one of the nicest people to play with or against.

Grant was confined to a wheel chair due to Korean War wounds but he was always cheerful and pleasant. What's more, he was unfailing in his courtesy to both partners and opponents.

Today's hand shows Grant's careful bidding style. He had a tremendous hand for his one heart epening. His double of one spade was for takeout so that his partner's two heart bid really didn't promise anything but Grant felt justified in going on to three, whereupon his partner realized that his king and two jacks ought to be enough for Grant.

There wasn't much to the play but it does illustrate how an expert declarer handles the problem of when and how to play trumps.

We don't know just what Grant would have done against a diamond opening but West put the king of spades on the table.

Grant took his ace and led the suit right back. He wanted to establish dummy's jack and ten of spades as threats against the defenders.

West took his queen and found the diamond shift but it was too late to embarrass Grant. He took his ace of diamonds and played ace and king of hearts. The game was match point duplicate and he wanted an overtrick in case hearts broke. The second heart lead to dummy's king left East with the good queen of hearts but the contract was home.

Grant led dummy's jack of spades and discarded his four of diamonds when East ruffed high. Later, Grant entered dummy with the nine of trumps and discarded a club on the ten of spades.

How Expert Plays Trumps

By Oswald and James Jacoby
Newspaper Enterprise Assn.

The late Grant Marsee of Detroit was one of our best players but, more than that, he was one of the nicest people to play with or against.

Grant was confined to a wheel chair due to Korean War wounds but he was always cheerful and pleasant. What's more, he was unfailing in his courtesy to both partners and opponents.

Today's hand shows Grant's careful bidding style. He had a tremendous hand for his one heart opening. His double of one spade was for takeout so that his partner's two heart bid really didn't promise anything but Grant felt justified in going on to three, whereupon his partner realized that his king and two jacks ought to be enough for Grant.

There wasn't much to the play but it does illustrate how an expert declarer handles the problem of when and how to play trumps.

We don't know just what Grant would have done against a diamond opening but West put the king of spades on the table.

Grant took his ace and led the suit right back. He wanted to establish dummy's jack and ten of spades as threats against the defenders.

West took his queen and found the diamond shift but it was too late to embarrass Grant. He took his ace of diamonds and played ace and king of hearts. The game was match point duplicate and he wanted an overtrick in case hearts broke. The second heart lead to dummy's king left East with the good queen of hearts but the contract was home.

Grant led dummy's jack of spades and discarded his four of diamonds when East ruffed high. Later, Grant entered dummy with the nine of trumps and discarded a club on the ten of spades.

New Shows Like New Models

By CYNTHIA LOWRY
AP Television-Radio Writer

NEW YORK (AP) — ABC and CBS introduced some new members of their television families Tuesday night and two of them looked rather like new models of other season's shows.

"Garrison's Gorillas" on ABC was the first premiere of the new network season and its format is evidently a blend of elements that have worked well—and often—before.

One Part 'Combat'

The recipe consists of one part "Combat"—men at war, uniforms, bullets spraying around, lots of dying Nazis—and one part "Mission Impossible" or even "Jericho"—specialists on tough assignments.

Garrison is the commanding officer—"the warden"—of a team of four convicts with special skills including burglary, swindling, assault and picking pockets, paroled for extraordinary military duty.

But where "Mission Impossible" emphasizes the slick way its team pulls off tough jobs, "Garrison's Gorillas" zoomed in on conflict and violence—setting fires to trains, hand- to-hand combat and, of course, bad guys by the score shot down by machine-gun bursts.

Ron Harper plays the title role, and his team are four good looking young men, all newcomers to television.

CBS's "Good Morning World" is an obvious attempt to recapture the spirit and mood of the "Dick Van Dyke Show" which would be nice to have. It has a number of the same behind-the-camera people, including Carl Reiner and Sheldon Leonard.

This time we have two personable, wisecracking disc jockeys with a wake-up radio show. The premiere was built around a gift sweater than unraveled. But this was a device on which to build a number of pretty funny scenes. One had Joby Baker, the married member of the team, trying to return the mess of wool to the haberdasher, and, although the haberdasher had all the lines, it came off very well. Ronnie Schell as Baker's co-star had little to do in the first program.

Billy May Do It

"The Dick Van Dyke Show was such a slow starter it was almost canceled, and, given a little time, "Good Morning World" may also creep into the viewer's hearts. A first impression is that Billy De Wolfe, playing a choleric radio station owner, may walk off with the comedy honors.

ABC's "N.Y.P.D." also had its first show, but since it conflicted with "Good Mornin World," will be reviewed here next week.

CBS's Red Skelton came back for his 17th television season with his built-in cast of characters and marvelous pantomime skills. As usual, Red was funny and the musical numbers were imaginative and attractive.

"Hollywood Palace" joined ABC's Tuesday night lineup with a handsome, gay and frequently very funny variety hour. The best moments were host Bing Crosby and Milton Berle were breaking up—genuinely breaking up, a rare moment in television when breakups are written on the cue cards—at Jimmy Durante's clowning. It ought to do well in its new time period.

New Shows Like New Models

By CYNTHIA LOWRY
AP Television-Radio Writer

NEW YORK (AP) — ABC and CBS introduced some new members of their television families Tuesday night and two of them looked rather like new models of other season's shows.

"Garrison's Gorillas" on ABC was the first premiere of the new network season and its format is evidently a blend of elements that have worked well—and often—before.

One Part 'Combat'

The recipe consists of one part "Combat"—men at war, uniforms, bullets spraying around, lots of dying Nazis—and one part "Mission Impossible" or even "Jericho"—specialists on tough assignments.

Garrison is the commanding officer—"the warden"—of a team of four convicts with special skills including burglary, swindling, assault and picking pockets, paroled for extraordinary military duty.

But where "Mission Impossible" emphasizes the slick way its team pulls off tough jobs, "Garrison's Gorillas" zoomed in on conflict and violence—setting fires to trains, hand- to-hand combat and, of course, bad guys by the score shot down by machine-gun bursts.

Ron Harper plays the title role, and his team are four good looking young men, all newcomers to television.

CBS's "Good Morning World" is an obvious attempt to recapture the spirit and mood of the "Dick Van Dyke Show" which would be nice to have. It has a number of the same behind-the-camera people, including Carl Reiner and Sheldon Leonard.

This time we have two personable, wisecracking disc jockeys with a wake-up radio show. The premiere was built around a gift sweater than unraveled. But this was a device on which to build a number of pretty funny scenes. One had Joby Baker, the married member of the team, trying to return the mess of wool to the haberdasher, and, although the haberdasher had all the lines, it came off very well. Ronnie Schell as Baker's co-star had little to do in the first program.

Billy May Do It

"The Dick Van Dyke Show was such a slow starter it was almost canceled, and, given a little time, "Good Morning World" may also creep into the viewer's hearts. A first impression is that Billy De Wolfe, playing a choleric radio station owner, may walk off with the comedy honors.

ABC's "N.Y.P.D." also had its first show, but since it conflicted with "Good Mornin World," will be reviewed here next week.

CBS's Red Skelton came back for his 17th television season with his built-in cast of characters and marvelous pantomime skills. As usual, Red was funny and the musical numbers were imaginative and attractive.

"Hollywood Palace" joined ABC's Tuesday night lineup with a handsome, gay and frequently very funny variety hour. The best moments were host Bing Crosby and Milton Berle were breaking up—genuinely breaking up, a rare moment in television when breakups are written on the cue cards—at Jimmy Durante's clowning. It ought to do well in its new time period.

Bell's Albany Amendment Would Allow County Legislators Hold Two Posts

An amendment which would allow that county legislators and other members of local legislative bodies not be barred from holding any other compatible elective office will be offered by H. Clark Bell, Constitutional Convention delegate from Ulster and Dutchess counties.

Would Solve Dilemma

Such an amendment, if passed, would solve for the future, the dilemma a number of Ulster County's supervisors were confronted with this year in having to decide if they are legally within their rights in seeking both the county legislator posts as well as the post of town supervisor.

The Bell amendment to the proposal on local apportionment now before the convention would also provide that every county, city, town and village not apportioned in compliance with the one-man, one-vote doctrine must apportion and district iself by local law within one year after the effective date of the constituion, and that such local legislative bodies hereafter must apportion and district in the year following each federal decennial census.

Citing recent U. S. Supreme Court and New York State Court of Appeals reapportionment decisions, Bell noted, "It appears that the highest courts in the land have said local legislative bodies should be allowed flexibility in solving their own problems by devising apportionment plans best suited for their area and which, of course, must be in compliance with the federal one-man, one-vote doctrine. I will offer these amendments because the proposal of the majority is one of rigid constitutional standards which completely eliminates the possibility of experimentation and further it is at war with the concept of home rule.

"Many counties and cities in the state have already apportioned and districted using standards other than those contained in the majority proposal. Many of these solutions have been held constitutional. If the majority proposal prevails, the work of many counties and cities will have been for naught.

Sees Convention Duty

"I believe the convention has a duty to establish the one-man, one-vote doctrine in the Constitution of the State of New York and direct local legislative bodies to apportion and district in compliance with it. Under the majority proposal, the New York City Council as presently constituted would no longer be able to function, as the method of selecting its 10 councilmen at large would not comply with the standards set forth in the proposal. Also placed in doubt would be the composition of the New York City Board of Estimates as the method of selecting its members and those of many other cities in the state would not be in compliance with the standards set forth in the proposal.

"I believe local legislative bodies, as indicated by the highest courts of the land, should be allowed to experiment and to devise their own local methods of apportionment and districting, which meets their local needs, and the Constitutional requirements of the one-man, one-vote doctrine."

Deliberate Deception Charged to Farm Bureau

WASHINGTON (AP) — Rep. Joseph Y. Resnick, D - N.Y., charges the American Farm Bureau Federation with deliberate deception that "appears to teeter on the brink of an outright falsehood."

The representative made that charge Tuesday in connection with an announcement last week that the Farm Bureau was renewing its request for the House Agriculture Committee to investigate it and other major farm-interest groups.

1-Man Inquiry

Resnick, a member of that committee, has been conducting his own self - financed inquiry into the bureau's activities. He contends that the government should withdraw the bureau's tax-exempt status on the ground that it affords the organization an unfair competitive advantage.

In a letter to Charles Shuman, president of the bureau, Resnick said he assumed that the organization had renewed its request for an investigation. But, Resnick said, the committee advised him that a letter requesting a probe had not been received.

In addition, Resnick said he subsequently was informed by Roger Fleming, the bureau's secretary-treasurer and head of its Washington office, that no letter was sent nor was it intended that one would be.

Says Press, Public Misled

"In view of this, I consider the Aug. 31 statement by the Farm Bureau to be a deliberate deception, obviously calculated to create the impression that it was asking the House Agriculture Committee to investigate its affairs when, in fact, no such request was actually made," Resnick said Tuesday.

"Considering the manner in which your Thursday statement misled the press and the public, this deception appears to teeter on the brink of an outright falsehood," the Democrat from Ellenville asserted.

Mayor Names Three to Board On Pay Disputes

Mayor Raymond W. Garraghan announced today the appointment of three city residents to a newly-formed public employment relations board.

The board will deal with salary disputes of city employes. They include Andrew T. Gilday of 275 West Chestnut Street, Frank Nadspal of 103 Dunneman Avenue and Henry E. Boice of 24 Presidents Place.

The board gained Common Council approval at the August meeting. They will be sworn in by City Corporation Counsel Aaron E. Klein, Friday.

Hartford's Wife: 'Held Captive'

LONDON (AP) — American grocery millionaire Huntington Hartford was involved in a scuffle when his estranged 25-year-old wife fled his London home with the aid off a former policeman, her legal representative said today.

Diane Brown Hartford, who is suing her 58-year-old husband for divorce, told her lawyers: "I was kept a captive in the house."

The incident occurred at Hartford's house in Red Lion Yard, Mayfair, on Aug. 16, the lawyer said.

Jacu Jenner, 39, a member of the staff of the London legal firm of Crane and Hawkins, described the affair.

"Mrs. Hartford telephoned her American lawyer, Burton Monasch of Berger, Monasch and Mandelstam. As a result of her transatlantic telephone call, we received a cable from Monasch asking us to extend her every assistance," he said.

"Our senior partner, Peter Crane, telephoned her at the Mayfair house and then told me to go along and see what I could do to help her. I went along to the house at about 10.30 a.m.' accompanied by a former policeman, John Craig, who now works for Q-Men, a firm of London private inquiry agents."

Jenner was asked about a report that there were security guards at the house. He said: "There were no guards there when we were there—which is just as well, or we would not have got her out.

No Airwave Tieup

MIAMI BEACH, Fla. (AP)—A threatened strike by 3,000 broadcast employes was averted, at least for several days, when union negotiators reached agreement Tuesday with the National Broadcasting Co., on a new contract and agreed to submit to union members a proposal from the American Broadcasting Co.

Tim O'Sullivan of Los Angeles, spokesman for negotiators of the National Association of Broadcast Employes and Technicians, AFL-CIO, said ABC's proposal would be turned over to the union's members without a recommendation.

The union committee, recommending acceptance of the NBC settlement, said a vote on both proposals is expected in a matter of days.

O'Sullivan said the mechanics of the union vote would be mapped at a meeing in Miami Beach today. The union has bargaining units in five cities—New York, Los Angeles, San Francisco, Chicago and Washington—involved in the negotiations, which started Aug. 7.

Terms of the networks' final offer were not disclosed, but the tentative NBC contract was reported to cover a three-year period and was to be retroactive to the expiration five months ago of NABET's old contract.

The union had been working under an extension that expired last Friday.

A major difference in the two proposals, a union spokesman said, was the networks' policies on staffing color facilities.

O'Sullivan said NABET had demanded a four-day work week and pay raises from the present $218 to $300 a week for most of its members.

Employees of the Columbia Broadcasting System, represented by a different union, were not affected by the negotiations.

Tax Reforms to Shift Burden

WASHINGTON (AP) — The Johnson Administration is nearing completion of a tax reform package incorporating the first overhaul of estate and gift taxes in a quarter century. But the revision is unlikely to touch the 27½ per cent oil depletion allowance.

As now contemplated, the tax reforms would apparently result in no tax windfall for the Treasury Department but would basically represent a shifting of tax burdens.

This would run counter to supporters of a congressional drive to tighten exemptions and special preferences in the present tax law to reduce or even eliminate the need for a tax increase.

One of the targets is the oil depletion allowance which some critics want lowered to 15 per cent.

Opponents of the allowance have tried unuccessfully for years to lower it. Present indications are that they'll get no help from the administration this year.

Instead, the reform program is expected to cover estate and gift taxes, industrial development bonds, tax-exempt foundations and churches, and the multiple exemptions corporations sometimes claim by setting up paper subsidiaries.

Officials are also discussing—but no decisions have been made—the possibility of including the changed tax treatment of the elderly which the House Ways and Means Committee rejected in approving an increase in Social Security benefits.

Under this system, the exclusions for tax purposes of Social Security benefits, the retirement income credit and the extra $600 personal exemption for persons 65 and over would be replaced by a flat exemption—$2,300 for single persons and $4,000 for married couples.

This program would not affect the tax-free status of 16 million elderly who pay no tax. About 2.8 million would enjoy tax cuts, the Treasury said.

The taxes of the remaining one million elderly would be raised.

Any tax reform message is also likely to reject the use of tax incentives to finance such projects as pollution control and the cost of a college education.

Resnick Draws Zero From ACA On Vote Habits

An ultra-conservative organization, Americans for Constitutional Action, have given Congression Joseph Y. Resnick (D-Ellenville) a zero rating on his voting habits in the House of Representatives.

The unofficial interim ratings of the alleged right-wing organization are for the first six months of 1967 and are based on 16 Senate and 24 House roll call votes on a variety of domestic and international issues.

Of the House members who received 100 per cent ratings, 21 were Republicans and two were Southern Democrats. Six Republican Senators received 100 per cent ratings.

The organization is against crime in the streets, what they call "scandals" in poverty and welfare programs, foreign aid, the Consular Treaty with the Soviet Union, the Food Stamp Program, Medicaid and a host of other domestic legislation.

Newburgh Grant

WASHINGTON (AP) — The Department of Housing and Urban Development Tuesday approved a $953,160 grant to Newburgh, N.Y., for the purchase and reconstruction an abandoned school building as a 65-unit apartment for the elderly.

WASHINGTON (AP) — Rep. Joseph Y. Resnick, D - N.Y., charges the American Farm Bureau Federation with deliberate deception that "appears to teeter on the brink of an outright falsehood."

The representative made that charge Tuesday in connection with an announcement last week that the Farm Bureau was renewing its request for the House Agriculture Committee to investigate it and other major farm-interest groups.

1-Man Inquiry

Resnick, a member of that committee, has been conducting his own self - financed inquiry into the bureau's activities. He contends that the government should withdraw the bureau's tax-exempt status on the ground that it affords the organization an unfair competitive advantage.

In a letter to Charles Shuman, president of the bureau, Resnick said he assumed that the organization had renewed its request for an investigation. But, Resnick said, the committee advised him that a letter requesting a probe had not been received.

In addition, Resnick said he subsequently was informed by Roger Fleming, the bureau's secretary-treasurer and head of its Washington office, that no letter was sent nor was it intended that one would be.

Says Press, Public Misled

"In view of this, I consider the Aug. 31 statement by the Farm Bureau to be a deliberate deception, obviously calculated to create the impression that it was asking the House Agriculture Committee to investigate its affairs when, in fact, no such request was actually made," Resnick said Tuesday.

"Considering the manner in which your Thursday statement misled the press and the public, this deception appears to teeter on the brink of an outright falsehood," the Democrat from Ellenville asserted.

Mayor Names Three to Board On Pay Disputes

Mayor Raymond W. Garraghan announced today the appointment of three city residents to a newly-formed public employment relations board.

The board will deal with salary disputes of city employes. They include Andrew T. Gilday of 275 West Chestnut Street, Frank Nadspal of 103 Dunneman Avenue and Henry E. Boice of 24 Presidents Place.

The board gained Common Council approval at the August meeting. They will be sworn in by City Corporation Counsel Aaron E. Klein, Friday.

Hartford's Wife: 'Held Captive'

LONDON (AP) — American grocery millionaire Huntington Hartford was involved in a scuffle when his estranged 25-year-old wife fled his London home with the aid off a former policeman, her legal representative said today.

Diane Brown Hartford, who is suing her 58-year-old husband for divorce, told her lawyers: "I was kept a captive in the house."

The incident occurred at Hartford's house in Red Lion Yard, Mayfair, on Aug. 16, the lawyer said.

Jacu Jenner, 39, a member of the staff of the London legal firm of Crane and Hawkins, described the affair.

"Mrs. Hartford telephoned her American lawyer, Burton Monasch of Berger, Monasch and Mandelstam. As a result of her transatlantic telephone call, we received a cable from Monasch asking us to extend her every assistance," he said.

"Our senior partner, Peter Crane, telephoned her at the Mayfair house and then told me to go along and see what I could do to help her. I went along to the house at about 10.30 a.m.' accompanied by a former policeman, John Craig, who now works for Q-Men, a firm of London private inquiry agents."

Jenner was asked about a report that there were security guards at the house. He said: "There were no guards there when we were there—which is just as well, or we would not have got her out.

No Airwave Tieup

MIAMI BEACH, Fla. (AP)—A threatened strike by 3,000 broadcast employes was averted, at least for several days, when union negotiators reached agreement Tuesday with the National Broadcasting Co., on a new contract and agreed to submit to union members a proposal from the American Broadcasting Co.

Tim O'Sullivan of Los Angeles, spokesman for negotiators of the National Association of Broadcast Employes and Technicians, AFL-CIO, said ABC's proposal would be turned over to the union's members without a recommendation.

The union committee, recommending acceptance of the NBC settlement, said a vote on both proposals is expected in a matter of days.

O'Sullivan said the mechanics of the union vote would be mapped at a meeing in Miami Beach today. The union has bargaining units in five cities—New York, Los Angeles, San Francisco, Chicago and Washington—involved in the negotiations, which started Aug. 7.

Terms of the networks' final offer were not disclosed, but the tentative NBC contract was reported to cover a three-year period and was to be retroactive to the expiration five months ago of NABET's old contract.

The union had been working under an extension that expired last Friday.

A major difference in the two proposals, a union spokesman said, was the networks' policies on staffing color facilities.

O'Sullivan said NABET had demanded a four-day work week and pay raises from the present $218 to $300 a week for most of its members.

Employees of the Columbia Broadcasting System, represented by a different union, were not affected by the negotiations.

Tax Reforms to Shift Burden

WASHINGTON (AP) — The Johnson Administration is nearing completion of a tax reform package incorporating the first overhaul of estate and gift taxes in a quarter century. But the revision is unlikely to touch the 27½ per cent oil depletion allowance.

As now contemplated, the tax reforms would apparently result in no tax windfall for the Treasury Department but would basically represent a shifting of tax burdens.

This would run counter to supporters of a congressional drive to tighten exemptions and special preferences in the present tax law to reduce or even eliminate the need for a tax increase.

One of the targets is the oil depletion allowance which some critics want lowered to 15 per cent.

Opponents of the allowance have tried unuccessfully for years to lower it. Present indications are that they'll get no help from the administration this year.

Instead, the reform program is expected to cover estate and gift taxes, industrial development bonds, tax-exempt foundations and churches, and the multiple exemptions corporations sometimes claim by setting up paper subsidiaries.

Officials are also discussing—but no decisions have been made—the possibility of including the changed tax treatment of the elderly which the House Ways and Means Committee rejected in approving an increase in Social Security benefits.

Under this system, the exclusions for tax purposes of Social Security benefits, the retirement income credit and the extra $600 personal exemption for persons 65 and over would be replaced by a flat exemption—$2,300 for single persons and $4,000 for married couples.

This program would not affect the tax-free status of 16 million elderly who pay no tax. About 2.8 million would enjoy tax cuts, the Treasury said.

The taxes of the remaining one million elderly would be raised.

Any tax reform message is also likely to reject the use of tax incentives to finance such projects as pollution control and the cost of a college education.

Resnick Draws Zero From ACA On Vote Habits

An ultra-conservative organization, Americans for Constitutional Action, have given Congression Joseph Y. Resnick (D-Ellenville) a zero rating on his voting habits in the House of Representatives.

The unofficial interim ratings of the alleged right-wing organization are for the first six months of 1967 and are based on 16 Senate and 24 House roll call votes on a variety of domestic and international issues.

Of the House members who received 100 per cent ratings, 21 were Republicans and two were Southern Democrats. Six Republican Senators received 100 per cent ratings.

The organization is against crime in the streets, what they call "scandals" in poverty and welfare programs, foreign aid, the Consular Treaty with the Soviet Union, the Food Stamp Program, Medicaid and a host of other domestic legislation.
